Mr. Grundy's Surprise.
The Rockefellers Stopped.
The World Will Last.
Give Me Gas, Says China.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. GRUNDY, able industrialist, unpaid and powerful lobbyist for industrialism, will not return to the Senate to which he was appointed. Mr. Davis, Labor secretary, and a Labor unionist beat Grundy overwhelmingly at the primaries yesterday.

Opposition to the tariff is supposed to have cut Mr. Grundy's vote. There was probably some other, bigger power back of Mr. Davis.

MR. McBRIDE says the prohibition cause only got $1,000 altogether from Henry Ford, and Mr. Rockefeller hasn't given any money to the Anti-Saloon League since 1926.

It was in or about 1926 that many who had favored Prohibition and hoped for the best possible results changed their minds.

There is no indication however that the Rockefeller family has changed its mind on Prohibition. But it has stopped contributing money.

Perhaps it has changed its mind about the Anti-Saloon League.

Worry no more about the world coming to an end. A Canadian scientist says the sun is about ten billion years old and will last at least ten billion years longer. Ten thousand million years is a long time.

While the sun lasts the earth will last. The human race may be partially, or completely wiped out at intervals, compelled to begin all over again, working its way up from microscopic creatures floating in salt water.

"WHERE we stand now there was once ice about 4,000 feet thick. The ice will come again, go again. Ultimately it will remain."

So says Dr. A. B. Reeve. He does not believe that this world is just a machine, or that spiritual things are of unimportance, for which much thanks. Even the earth would have no existence if there were not spirits, locked up in our brains to see it, and make it real by understanding it.

WE HAVE, by the way, a new ancestor, nothing less than a fish fossil, with a hinged neck, that lived about 200,000,000 years ago. He was found near the City of Buffalo, N. Y., where he used to swim when the northern part of the United States was covered with water.

That fish with the hinge in its neck was a necessary part of our evolution, if you believe science.

Now we have hinges all the way down our necks, and all the way down our spines to the last joint, all we have left of a tail we once carried around.

CHINA apparently means to be up to date, in war. The French authorities in Indo-China have seized a shipment of poison gas for the Nanking government.

France suggests that Germany supplied the poison gas. The German foreign office denies it.

The important thing for this peace loving country is the proof that, when war comes, fighters turn naturally to poison gas.

LONDON, which often knows more about our affairs than we know, says money will be even cheaper than it was. The bank rate may be reduced to 2½ per cent.

Paris reports money "unlendable." If only that had been the case last October, when the sky was the limit and everything going up. Then people wanted money and had to pay 15 and 20 per cent to borrow it. Now they don't want it and can get it for almost nothing.

BOMBAY reports 200 more injured in another of many Hindu salt raids.

Mrs. Naidu, poetess, replacing Gandhi, now in jail, as leader of the Hindus, has been arrested with Gandhi's son.

Gandhi promises to provoke arrests until all the jails and other buildings are full, and wonders what Britain will do then. It is a difficult question.

If you put a million Hindus in jail, there would be 219,000,000 left to carry on Gandhi's "civil disobedience" campaign.

GANDHI tells an interviewer that India demands "full freedom." Propagandists for the Indian revolution in America say that before Britain took control of India it was a great and free nation. History provides little information to that effect.

WOULD the administration and Congress tell the nation what, if anything, they propose to do about Muscle Shoals?

There power goes to waste worth millions a year.

That power could produce fertilizer that farmers need.

If an individual or corporation possessed and failed to use such vast potentialities of wealth, insanity experts would be called.

IN 1929 this country imported 1,000,000 tons of nitrate of soda, containing 150,000 tons of fixed nitrogen. Nitrate plant No. 2 at Muscle Shoals would produce 50,000 tons of fixed nitrogen a year. Muscle Shoals cost the United States more than $150,000,000.

It would employ thousands of AMERICAN workmen, now idle, increasing domestic purchasing power, saving the American farmer $12.83 a ton that he now pays to the Chilean government as export duty in nitrates. The work now done by Chile and the Germans would be done in the United States by Americans.

The Florence, Alabama, Chamber of Commerce, most reasonably, asks the Republican administration to think this over.

VAN SWERINGEN QUITS 2 ROADS

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(INS.)—O. P. Van Sweringen has resigned the chairmanship of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Pere Marquette lines, also other positions with Van Sweringen controlled railroads, according to an application filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Van Sweringen states that he now holds the position of director of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, and asked authority to hold positions with subsidiaries of the Missouri Pacific.

His decision to relinquish his positions with the Van Sweringen railroads except the Missouri Pacific and its subsidiaries, will eliminate the issue, it is believed, as to interlocking directorship of the Missouri Pacific and the other Van Sweringen properties.

Giant Dirigible Soars Over Britain

LONDON, May 22.—(INS.)—After saluting the King and Queen, flying low over London today, the giant British dirigible, R-100, had departed on a 24-hour test flight about the United Kingdom. If the big ship passes her flight tests satisfactorily and weather permitting, she will leave her mooring at Cardington and begin her flight across the North Atlantic to Montreal next Sunday.

Fireworks Blast Razes Plant, 1 Hurt

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., May 22.—(AP.)—Four small buildings, two filled with aerial bombs, were destroyed in a series of explosions at the New England Fire Works Company plant today.

One of four employes at work was injured. Loss was estimated at $16,500.

GRAF NEARS COAST OF BRAZIL

Passes Island 175 Miles From Mainland; Equator Crossing Brings Cheers

International News Service.

FERNANDO DO NORONHA, Brazil, May 22.—Majestically sweeping into the home-stretch of its latest flight across the Atlantic ocean, the Grap Zeppelin was sighted from this island at 1:30 p. m. (12:30 p. m, Pittsburgh time).

From early morning a constant watch had been kept for the dirigible, which had crossed the equator at 7:38 a. m., Pittsburgh time.

SEEN BY LOOKOUT

Its silver sides gleaming, the aerial liner was "spotted" by a lookout on the northernmost tip of the island. The dirigible, traveling swiftly, had only a little more than 175 miles to travel before reaching Pernambuco, first stop on this side of the Atlantic.

Virtually the entire population of Fernando Do Noronha had turned out to see the first dirigible ever to pierce the sub-equatorial skies.

When it was sighted the Graf was making a bee-line for Pernambuco. It appeared none the worse for the severe equatorial rain-squall it had passed through during the early morning.

DRYS PLACE O. K. UPON HOOVER

Anti-Saloon League Chief Declares He Is 'Making Good' on Enforcement

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, told the Senate Lobby Committee today that the Hoover administration is "making good on prohibition enforcement."

McBride said he was very much pleased with most of the things done by the present administration for prohibition enforcement, but that it was too early yet to say whether the league would support Hoover for re-election.

Senator Caraway asked:

"What are the accomplishments?"

McBride replied:

"They are so many that it would burden the record."

Caraway retorted:

"It would burden you to think of one."

McBride said he thought transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department would be a good thing.

Caraway then remarked:

"I don't think the drys are getting any help from the present administration."

McBride rejoined:

"I think the administration is making good."

HAD SPOKEN CLEARLY

McBride said Hoover had "spoken out clearly" on prohibition. Senator Blaine wanted to know if the league was not a little doubtful about endorsing Ruth Hanna McCormick for the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois.

McBride replied:

"No. We were perfectly satisfied."

Blaine said he had found bootleggers pretty well lined up with the candidates supported by the Anti-Saloon League.

The witness said bootleggers had

Boy 'Peeper' Killed As He Flees Police

DETROIT, May 22.—(AP.)—A 16-year-old boy, found by police in the rear of a home in the suburb of Berkley, was fatally shot today by Sergt. Roy Hartwick, of the Berkley police.

The boy, William Carps, Jr., died an hour afterward in the Highland Park General Hospital. Police went to the house in answer to a report that a man was peeping in the windows.

Carps ran. Nine shots were fired into the air, police said, before Hartwick fired at the boy twice. Both bullets hit him.

THIAUCOURT, France, May 22.—A true-life scene, paling to insignificance the bombast dramatics of post-war novels and plays, was enacted here today when 23 American gold star mothers, in France to pay a last tribute to their hero sons, met a group of war-scarred German officers at the gates of St. Mihiel Cemetery.

The German veterans, headed by former Minister of War Otto Gessler, were visiting the cemetery to study ways and means of improving the last resting places of German soldiers who

Prohibition Foe to Be Run As 'Coalition Liberal;' Returns Swamp Brown

Gifford Pinchot was sweeping along to victory over Francis Shunk Brown for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in late returns today, to the accompaniment of these advance rumblings of the general election in November:

1 — Announcement that a "Coalition Liberal" candidate would take the field against Pinchot was made in Philadelphia by Robert K. Cassatt, chairman of the Pennsylvania Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

2—Fealty to Pinchot was pledged for the Republican organization, which supported Brown, by State Senator Samuel Salus, member of the Vare "war board," who ruled against any combination with an anti-dry ticket.

3—John M. Hemphill, of West Chester, Democratic nominee, declared that under no circumstances would his party fuse with disgruntled factions of the Republican party.

SWETONIC DUE TO FACE CUBS

Winning four in a row, the Pirates today were eager to lengthen their streak at the expense of the haughty Cubs, champions of the National League. The Bruins made their first appearance of the season at Forbes Field yesterday and took a 10 to 3 licking.

Pie Traynor was back at his third base post, where he played fine ball.

Steve Swetonic will twirl for the Oaklanders in the second game of the set. The Cubs may play behind Bob Osborn, a recruit right-hander. The Chicago first-string pitchers have been in a slump and Boss McCarthy is looking to his reserves for a "break." Charlie Root, however, is due and may get to the mound.

Letters in Style Contest Deluge Marion Davies

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.—Defenders of the Gay Nineties and adherents to the Emancipated Thirties have united in revealing an almost universal interest in the subject of women's wear and the Marion Davies style contest.

Hundreds of letters were received yesterday at the New Pantages Theater in Hollywood from California, Arizona, Nevada and as far east as El Paso.

Women, proudly proclaiming their ages of more than 80 years; girls, admitting to 16; men and women of various ages and professions hastened to express their opinions on the subject of women's styles.

A preliminary survey indicated there were quite as many men as women interested in the subject.

Nor did age seem to influence the writers' views. Some like skirts long, some like them short, while a few declared the length was a matter of individual taste and requirements.

A MERE MAN PROTESTS

I am a mere man and I would not presume to enter this discussion except for the fact men have been specifically invited to do so.

I know women do not dress to please men. I know it is maintained that women dress to please

PROBE OF CURTIS' DEALS WITH CONTRACTORS RENEWED

PROSECUTOR WILL SCAN RECORDS

Vice President's Son Avers He Never Sold 'Influence' Regarding Federal Work

International News Service.

CHICAGO, May 22.—The state's attorney's office continued today its investigation of complaints regarding alleged dealings with contractors with reference to government construction work.

At the conclusion of a long questioning yesterday Attorney Harry K. Curtis, son of the Vice President of the United States, promised Patrick Roche, state's attorney's investigator, he would produce his records, including fees which he admittedly received from contractors. These records are expected today.

Curtis was summoned after Roche had received a number of statements to the effect so-called "influence" had been purchased by contractors, some of whom later obtained partial refunds.

Mike Malloy also was questioned by the state's attorney's office. Curtis explained he had been visited by Malloy, not the fight promoter, and that Malloy had asked him if he could obtain government contracts. Curtis informed him he would not, Malloy said.

Malloy returned later, according to Curtis, and obtained dates on which bids for government work were to be received, stating he represented a group of contractors.

"When I learned my name was being used as a surety that contractors would receive 18 to 20 per cent above cost for their work by paying money to me, I had nothing further to do with either Malloy or the group of contractors," the Vice President's son said.

What action, if any, will be taken in the matter has not yet been determined, Roche declared.

PINCHOT LEAD INCREASES

am concerned, Mr. Pinchot is entitled to his well-earned victory. He started in this fight as a 100-to-1 shot and breasted the tape a fair winner."

In making known the anti-dry plans, Cassatt said he would not be affiliated with the ticket in the fall because it would be a breach of party regularity.

Randolph W. Childs, manager of Phillips-Bohlen primary campaign, said a ticket would be preempted by the anti-drys, but it would not be the "Personal Liberty Party."

MACKEY, ROPER MENTIONED

Cassatt said that the candidate would not be Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, who sought the Republication nomination on an anti-prohibition platform at the primary.

At the same time, reports from Washington said gossip at the nation's capital linked the names of Mayor Mackey, of Philadelphia, and "Bill" Roper, Princeton coach, active in Philadelphia politics.

Meanwhile, managers of the Davis-Brown campaign declined to concede defeat. They said their reports from chairmen in missing districts indicated that Brown "might" pull through.

Pinchot supporters gleefully claimed victory.

Under Pennsylvania law the official count will start at noon tomorrow in each of the 67 counties under the supervision of the county commissioners.

GAINS INCREASE

With only 63 scattered districts throughout the state unreported, the margin of victory of Pinchot for governor and of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for the United States senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket, increased by leaps and bounds today.

Secretary Davis was leading Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who sought to cling to the senate seat to which he was appointed by Gov. John S. Fisher, by well over 238,000 votes, while Brown was being pushed roughshod down the toboggan by Pinchot, the fiery independent who successfully bucked the Philadelphia Vare organization and the Pittsburgh Armstrong-Kline machine by nullifying Brown's lead in Philadelphia with pluralities in Allegheny County and in the rural districts.

PINCHOT LEADS BY 12,000

On the face of all but the 63 scattered precincts of the state's 8,701, Pinchot was running ahead of Brown by 12,279.

Returns from all but two districts in Allegheny County today gave Pinchot a lead over Brown in the county of 9,812. The figures from 1,456 of the county's precincts were: Pinchot, 104,289, and Brown, 94,477.

Davis' lead over Grundy continued to pile up through the day. The cabinet member who came to this country as a penniless youthful Welsh immigrant, worked as an "iron puddler" in Western Pennsylvania's steel mills and rose to serve in the cabinets of three presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—was credited with 715,454 votes and Grundy with 476,806.

PHILADELPHIA OVERCOME

The downright drama of this hottest of primaries, however, was not the avalanche of votes rolled up by Davis over Grundy. That had been expected. The drama came with Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania's political stormy petrel, leaving the Philadelphia County line with a yoke of 187,730 votes on his shoulders, bursting that yoke as Allegheny County and rural Pennsylvania were heard from.

Once away from the Philadelphia line, the "Tall Forester" began steady hammering at the lead of Brown who was unable to maintain and add to his Philadelphia plurality as did Davis. Pinchot slipped from precinct to precinct, garnering a thousand plurality here and a thousand there until county after county had climbed on the Pinchot bandwagon.

DAVIS' VICTORY MEANS FIGHT ON REED

Gen. Atterbury Casting Eyes On Senate Seat; Defeat Of Grundy Cheers G. O. P.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Capital politicians, seeking to analyze Pennsylvania's spectacular primary with relation to its possible bearing on other political contests, take it for granted that the nomination for senator of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis means a fight on Senator David A. Reed three years hence.

With Davis' election in November, both Pennsylvania senators will represent the western end of the state, which violates the unwritten rule that both the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia districts shall be represented in the Senate.

ATTERBURY AMBITIOUS

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Republican National committeeman, is credited with aspirations to the Senate. His friends expect him to be a candidate. Incidentally, Atterbury is an avowed anti-dry. He supported Davis in the present campaign.

There was no mourning at the White House because of the defeat of "Uncle Joe" Grundy, the archpriest of high tariff protection, whose short service in the Senate has been featured by his open hostility to President Hoover. It had even been reported in Washington before the primary that if Grundy won he would become the spear-head of the anti-Hoover drive in the next Republican convention, two years hence.

DEMOCRATS MOURN GRUNDY

The mourning, if any, was being done by the Democrats.

Since "Uncle Joe" startled the country with his contemptuous reference to "backward states" and his insistence upon tariff walls higher than even those contained in the present tariff bill, the Democrats have rejoiced in the issue of "Grundyism." The term had become symbolic of their whole effort in the present campaign and they are loath to lose the issue.

From the standpoint of the highly-important prohibition issue, the results in Pennsylvania received varying interpretations. The drys, of course, hailed the outcome as a "great victory," yet the anti-drys were not entirely dissatisfied with the results.

It is considered certain an anti-dry candidate for governor will be put up against Pinchot in November. The candidate may be Thomas W. Phillips, the ex-congressman who headed the anti-dry ticket in the fight just ended; it may be Mayor Mackey, of Philadelphia; or it may be "Bill" Roper, the old Princeton coach, who is actively interested in Philadelphia politics.

Texas Aviator Dies Of Crash Injuries

TULSA, Okla., May 22.—(AP.)—Jimmy Youngblood, 25, Dallas, Tex., aviator, died in a Tulsa hospital last night from injuries suffered late yesterday when his open biplane fell from an altitude of 500 feet near Garland Airport, southeast of here.

Youngblood's ship went into a spin when he apparently attempted too steep a bank in the face of a strong wind.

EXPERTS AGREE SEA PACT AIDS ENGLAND

Leaves America Inferior In Cruiser Strength, They Tell Senate Committees

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Great Britain will have a superiority over America in both 8-inch and 6-inch gun cruisers during the life of the London naval arms limitation treaty, Admiral J. M. Reeves, of the Navy General Board, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today.

He said Great Britain, with present types of vessels, would actually have 19 eight-inch cruisers to America's 16 during the life of the pact. Asked by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, to explain, he said the figures were arrived at by adding the 8-inch cruiser types to the Hawkins type of British fighters. He declared the Hawkins type was basically an 8-inch cruiser.

WOULD BE INFERIOR

At expiration of the treaty in 1936, Reeves said, America will have 337,600 tons of cruisers built and building, while Great Britain will have 425,000. He declared:

"This is not a question of parity. It is a question of inferiority that imperils America."

Reeves said lowering from 20 to 16 years the age limit of the cruiser also worked to the advantage of Great Britain.

The United States-Japanese ratio of cruisers during the life of the treaty would be 5-3.44 and at its termination 5-3.36, Reeves asserted. He went on:

"Of course, the ratio with Japan in the submarine category is 5-5."

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, asked:

"Is that a disadvantage to the United States?"

Reeves replied:

"A very serious disadvantage."

NEEDED FOI COMMERCE

He declared America needed the 8-inch gun cruisers to protect commerce.

Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander of Battleship fleet No. 4, declared that in his opinion the United States would be in no position to defend itself against invasion, under the London treaty.

Maintenance of the 5-5-3 ratio is necessary to American safety, he said, and this the London treaty failed to provide.

Admiral Shoefield declared:

"The disadvantage of the 6-inch gun cruiser is dictinctly accentuated by our lack of bases from which they can be operated."

The Japanese angle also was touched upon by Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of naval aviation, appearing before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

The United States requires a navy twice its present size to win a war against Japan, he declared.

VOTES GUARDED BY M'GOVERN

containing the ballot boxes turned on the electric lights and assigned guards in adjacent buildings to report anyone who might elude the watchers and get access to the boxes.

This afternoon McGovern, awake for 50 hours, went to bed for two hours, promising to return. In his absence, Maj. W. H. Rees, Pinchot follower, kept guard.

The volunteer army is operating despite threats by Commissioner Armstrong that he would "throw out" or have thrown out any representative of the Pinchot committee found in the courthouse after regular hours.

PARK BLOCKS MOVE

City and county police, assigned by Mayor Kline and Commissioner Armstrong, over McGovern's protest, to the room where the ballot boxes are stored, attempted to stop McGovern's aides from visiting the floor on which the ballot box room is located, but that move was blocked by District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

McGovern had protested to Armstrong that city and county police had no legal right to be near the ballot boxes, as it was the duty of the sheriff and his deputies to guard all election records.

POLICE ASSIGNED

Armstrong insisted that the county detectives were the proper guards, and these were joined later by city police after Mayor Kline had departed from Armstrong's office.

McGovern then appealed to District Attorney Park, who declined to order the removal of the city and county police, but warned them not to interfere with McGovern's volunteer patrol.

Armstrong was reported to have made his threat to "throw out" Pinchot representatives, in refusing a request from Frank I. Gollmar, county chairman of the Pinchot campaign, for permission to have the ballot boxes guarded by representatives of all gubernatorial candidates, particularly those of Pinchot.

Report of Injured Man's Death Error

Nelson Meister, of 230 Chalfont street, struck by an automobile on the Boulevard of the Allies Tuesday night, was reported at the Homeopathic Hospital today to be progressing toward recovery. It was incorrectly reported he had died.

MACHINE SLUMP SHOWN BY VOTE

Francis Shunk Brown, supported by the city and county machines, carried Pittsburgh by a bare plurality over Gifford Pinchot, according to complete figures on the 32 wards with the exception of one district, the Twelfth District of the Fifth Ward, which is impounded.

The totals for the city, with this district missing are:

Brown	54,854
Pinchot	47,828
Phillips	21,390

The exceptional strength of Pinchot in the city is due to support from State Senator James J. Coyne and former President of Council James F. Malone in the wards in which they are influential, in opposition to administration leaders.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, one of the active leaders in the Pinchot campaign in this county, is also credited with a share of the strength of Pinchot in Pittsburgh, due to his influence among the independent element.

TROOPS CURB INDIA SALT RAIDERS

Repressive Measures Taken Against Gandhi Cohorts; Rebel Campers Dispersed

BOMBAY, May 22.—(AP.)—British troops—a contingent from the Hyderabad regiment—were sent today to the government-operated salt depot at Dharasana, to prevent further raiding by Indian nationalist volunteers.

Simutlaneously Nationalist headquarters there announced the next mass raid would take place Sunday. Hitherto only police, some armed but principally with laths or staves, have been depended upon to maintain order at the salt depots.

Police and troops raided the Nationalist camp at Untadi, near Dharasana, today and destroyed it, remaining in complete control of the area.

POLICE DISPERSE RAIDERS

At Wadala a party of 100 raiders, divided into two batches, were arrested. Of a second party, 18 were arrested, but the remainder succeeded in getting away with some salt.

Alarming news has come from the northwest frontier, a report from Peshawar saying severe casualties had been inflicted by British bombers on the forces of the Haji of Turangzai, which have remained in a threatening position near the Indian border since beginning of the present unrest.

A run on the Bank of India, begun yesterday, continued today, but with the number of those withdrawing deposits somewhat smaller. The directorate of the bank issued a statement that the institution's manager had not participated in the police action in raiding Congress' headquarters here or at Dharasana and Wadala, but the statement had little effect on the Hindus.

SENTENCED TO PRISON

K. F. Nariman, president of the local Congress committee, who was arrested yesterday during a raid on the all-India national congress headquarters, was sentenced today to serve four months' simple imprisonment. Other arrested officials were sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment.

When the police and soldiers arrived in camp at Untadi, they gave the volunteers 15 minutes' notice to vacate, which most of them did. Those who persisted in staying were charged by police bearing laths and many arrests were made. When the camp had been cleared of its inmates, it was demolished.

PRIVATE SLEUTH HELD IN THEFT

C. Gilbert Crawford, 38, who described himself as a "specialist on homicide," was arrested in a Homewood rooming house today by County Detectives Michael McDermott and Thomas Calig for Philadelphia County authorities.

McDermott said that Crawford, who is the head of the Crawford National Detective Agency, Philadelphia, is wanted by county authorities there on charges of transporting a stolen auto, larceny, assault and battery, and two morality charges.

Crawford said he has been here three weeks, and that the charges against him aref alse. He insisted that he has been "framed." He also told detectives taht he has 27 murder convictions to his credit.

Sammy Cohen Weds In 12-Week Romance

DETROIT, May 22.—(INS.)—Sammy Cohen, 27, motion picture actor, and Miss Doris Roache, 22, stage singer, were married here today, cluminating a 12-week romance. Probate Judge Ervin R. Palmer performed the ceremony.

They met for the first time when the cast was filled, 12 weeks ago. Cohen has appeared in four pictures since 1925. He scored his greatest success in "What Price GGlory." He also has been a comedian in musical comedies.

Davis' Aged Father Elated Over Election Victory

SHARON, Pa., May 22.—David J. Davis, Sr., 79-year-old father of Secretary James J. Davis, is Sharon's happiest man, for he is the parent of the man who licked "Uncle Joe" Grundy in the sensational fight for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in Tuesday's primary.

"Jim" Davis' father is near blind. He can see light and dark, but that's about all. He doesn't mourn the fact, however, and is a happy individual, glad to talk with some one.

The aged man is elated over the election outcome but he seems to be just as happy over the fact that his famous son paused long enough, in the hustle and bustle of Tuesday evening, to call the Davis home here and ask how they all were. With returns coming in from over the state, Secretary Davis asked long distance to get "Sharon 1734" and he had a brief conversation with relatives here.

"I'm a stannsch Republican," the elder Davis said. "I have never changed my ticket. I have followed the Republican party right through. I used to be in politics myself. There is no show for a man unless he has plenty of friends.

"One thing I always told my son, was to 'do the right thing.'"

He declared that although he had lived in the United States for over half a century, he never has taken a drink of hard liquor.

KERR MAY BE CONTROLLER

Dr. J. P. Kerr will be the next city controller, according to reports circulating around City-County Building.

Dr. Kerr, political mentor of the late City Controller Daniel Winters, is said to have the inside track for the position, made vacant by the death of Controller Winters in a Cleveland sanitarium, early this month.

When Dr. Kerr resigned from Council for service in the World War, Winters succeeded him in Council, remaining there until last December, when he resigned to become city controller.

Weather Conditions.

There is little change from the general status eastward to the coast, and southerly winds are raising the temperature to above the seasonal normal nearly everywhere east of the Mississippi. There was no rainfall over this area except at New Orleans, where 1.44 inches fell yesterday afternoon. This condition prevails as a result of a high pressure area, centered over the Carolinas.

Cloudy and rainy conditions prevail over the northern and western plains and westward over the Rocky Mountain states, in the front of a high pressure area, centered over Washington and Oregon. Northwesterly winds over this area are producing cold weather with frost and freezing temperatures over the Rocky Mountain states and snow at Denver and Cheyenne. The temperature dropped 15 to 20 degrees since yesterday over the Rocky Mountain states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 4.5 feet; Lock No. 7, 10.1; Pittsburgh, 12.8; Dam No. 5, 9.2; Dam No. 4, 9.2; Dam No. 8, 10.7, and Dam No. 12, 8.5. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are clear and the ceiling unlimited over the entire country east of the Mississippi. Visibility ranges from five to eight miles, except in some sections of the mountainous areas, where it is reduced to one mile or less by fog and haze. The winds over Pennsylvania are less than 10 miles and over Ohio and westward 10 to 18 miles from the Southwest.

Good flying weather will continue this afternoon and tonight, and probably Friday.

GRAF NEARING BRAZIL COAST

mythical "belt of the world," at 8:38 a. m. ship's time (7:38 a. m. Pittsburgh time).

It was the first time in history that a lighter than air craft had crossed the equator. As the huge dirigible swept into the southern seas a cheer of triumph went up from the throats of the passengers.

OCCUPANTS GET THRILL

Even the most travel-wise among the 19 passengers felt an undeniable thrill when the word came from Dr. Hugo Eckener's control room that the ship was over the invisible line that divides the north of the world from the south.

When the Graf crossed the equator it came within less than 500 miles of its initial destination —Pernambuco, on the coast of Brazil, where brief stop is planned.

As on the entire trip, the Graf was making good time when it swept across the equator. The last stages of the trip were equally as pleasant as the first, with no contrary winds and only a light fog to temper the tropical heat.

MISS OLD CEREMONY

Travel-hardened passengers aboard the dirigible missed the traditional equatorial ceremony carried out on vessels on the high seas, when novitiates are ducked, clothing and all, into a pool of water while veterans of past crossings officiate in costumes designed to represent Neptune and his assistants.

The mere thrill of being in a dirigible on its first "crossing of the line," however, was sufficient to make up for the absence of this ancient ceremony.

FETE AWAITS SHIP

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 22.—(INS.)—Time stood still here today with the dawning of a day that will be a proud one in the history of Brazil.

Thousands of eyes strained into the Northeast for some sign of the Graf Zeppelin.

The city was in holiday dress and everywhere there was thrilled excitement brought on by the prospect of seeing the first dirigible ever to visit the South American continent after a first crossing of the equator and south Atlantic Ocean.

Every possible channel of hospitality in the city had been thrown open for the gala reception of the Graf Zeppelin and her 19 passengers.

Fetes, garden parties and receptions were planned by government officials and social leaders.

Travel Feats Spur Zep Passengers' Desire for New Conquests

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY.
Radio via Friedrichshafen.

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, May 22.—The sight of Cape Verde Islands has whetted our appetite for more space, land and water, to conquer.

The Island of Sal, the first of the Verdes, as they are called, is a little brown topaz, glistening in the irridiscent blue-green sea. Its name means "salt."

Although the Zeppelin is traveling along at a good clip, and having favorable weather, there is to be no making up of the time we lost in the Seville take-off or hunting around for good winds between the Madeira and Canary Islands.

Dr. Eckener informed the passengers that we would have our first sight of South America this evening.

DOCTOR CALLED ON

Dr. Jeronimo Megias, the physician who several times acted as ship's doctor on the round-world flight, again was called to act professionally, this time for a member of the crew.

I really believe he is more proud of being the first airship-flying doctor than being personal physician to the King of Spain. He declared:

"A regular doctor is absolutely necessary on trans-ocean airships carrying more than 60 persons. Some of the crew and passengers are bound to be unaccustomed to the altitudes reached."

Unless postcard writing and stamp-sticking is reckoned a game, even Prince Alfonso has surrounded himself with the brow-wrinkling work of poring over address lists. They seem to be his mascots.

Prof. Cardosa, of the Brazilian Official Board, one of our passengers, declares that the shadow of the Zeppelin is our mascot, saying:

"So long as we do not lose our shadow, everything will be lucky and all right."

PASSENGERS HAPPY

Six o'clock in the morning found the salon crowded with early risers, awaiting breakfast with sharpened appetites. Several were up all night, fascinated by the beauties of the starry night and the view we had of the Canaries in the early dawn.

The passengers, without exception, are happy, and only Dr. Eckener pretends to be discontented because he can't find his "lost trade winds."

There is an atmosphere of the utter relaxation of the carefree southern seas in this pleasure cruise. Dr. Eckener and his crew are taking things easier and jollier than I have ever seen them before on a Zeppelin trip. Commander Shoemaker, of the U. S. Navy, said:

"This is the way it ought to be and will be in the future, now that the pioneer trail is successfully blazed."

Our meals are served smartly and punctually, including our dainty afternoon tea. The passengers are still enjoying the novelty of air touring to pay too much attention to cards and games.

Proposal Rejected, Suitor Shoots Self

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(AP.)—Albert Caskey, 24, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., shot himself near the heart here and was taken to Frankford Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

Police said Caskey came here to see Helen Miller, 21, and, proposed marriage. Told by the young woman that she would not marry him, police said, he walked away and fired a shot into his chest.

CAB TIEUP ENDS IN M'KEESPORT

McKeesport taxicab drivers returned to work today at a wage increase following a three-day strike.

The drivers accepted an offer of 35 per cent of the gross metered receipts after a conference late yesterday in the office of Mayor George H. Lysle. Miss M. Emmeline Pitt, local conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, and others conducted the conference.

The drivers walked out Sunday after demanding 37½ per cent, the rate awarded the Pittsburgh drivers. When the agreement was reached, possibilities of a further increase was intimated for a later date.

JEWISH STRIKE ANSWERS BAN

LONDON, May 22.—(INS.)—Jews throughout Palestine went out on a peaceful strike today in protest against a temporary ban imposed by the British government on Jewish immigration into the Holy Land, according to a Central News dispatch from Jerusalem.

All Jewish shops, banks and schools were closed, while all road transport ceased, the message said. The strike will last until evening.

The Agudath Israel, Jewish orthodox world organization, which originally had opposed the strike, joined in it today. Posters of the Agudath, calling on orthodox Jewry to join the rest of the Jewish community, were placarded throughout the city.

The scene in the city of Jerusalem resembled a holiday night as the streets filled with crowds homeward bound. Children were sent from schools and even pharmacies were closed.

Negro Executed For Double Murder

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., May 22.—(AP.)—Jordan Scott, Negro farmer, of Moody, Tex., was electrocuted at the penitentiary here at 12:07 a. m., for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pedigo, his white neighbors, March 7, 1929.

Trembling violently, Scott made a lengthy statement as he stood before the chair, admitting guilt expressing remorse and asking divine forgiveness.

Township Reports Its Votes Cost $7.24 Each

HARRISBURG, May 22.—(AP.)—There are districts in Pennsylvania where the high cost of votes is being considered today.

Rush Township, in Dauphin County, cast votes at a cost of $7.24 each, the district's election expenses being computed at $44.72.

In the second precinct of Hamilton Township, Adams County, the cost of casting 19 votes was $44.70, an average of $2.75 a ballot.

O'MALLEY WILL SEEK RECOUNT

The fight for Representative in Congress in the Thirty-fourth District may be carried to the courts, and probably to Washington, according to State Senator James J. Coyne, sponsor for P. J. O'Malley, who appears to have been defeated for the nomination by the incumbent, P. J. Sullivan.

Unofficial figures show Sullivan won by 1,496 votes with 10 of the 243 districts missing. The count last night was: Sullivan, 20,819; O'Malley, 19,823. Coyne declared:

"O'Malley won the Republican nomination for Congress in the Thirty-fourth District; now all we have to do is to prove it. We will do that before the courts and, if necessary, before the Lower House of Congress."

BRANDT LAUDED BY OPPONENT

State Senator Herman P. Brandt has received from one of his opponents, Attorney D. P. MacQuarrie, a letter congratulating him on winning the nomination to represent the Fortieth District for another term. It stated:

"Congratulations. I sincerely hope that you will as ably represent your constituency in the future as in the past. You fought a clean fight. Your vote was decisive and convincing and places an added responsibility on your shoulders, but I feel sure the confidence of the people of your district has not been misplaced."

De Valera Thanks U. S. for Its Gifts

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Expressing thanks for aid he received in his campaign for funds to establish a Republican newspaper in Ireland, Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, sailed for Queenstown yesterday on the United States liner George Washington—the ship which carried the third contingent of American Gold Star mothers.

Mr. De Valera had been in this country for five months on this visit.

AIRPLANE, CAR CRASH, 4 DIE

BUENOS AIRES, May 22.—(INS.)—Four persons were killed and seven seriously injured today when an Army airplane crashed into an automobile as the plane landed at Quintero Field, Chile.

All those killed and injured were spectators who had gathered at the field to watch flying maneuvers. Three women and a child were among the casualties.

The pilot of the plane, Edison Diaz, and two mechanics, were understood to have escaped injury.

U. S. Admits Soviet Trade Officials

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Thirteen of 35 Russians detained by immigration officials when they arrived yesterday, were admitted to the United States today under bonds of $500 each for a period of six months.

The Russians, brought here by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet purchasing agency in the United States, will study industrial methods and place orders for the Soviet government.

Natives of Island In Furor as Zep Drops Mail

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 22.—(INS.)—Mail Bag No. 1,800 left the Graf Zeppelin, attached to a parachute, and descended on a rooftop at Porto Pala just before the air liner left the Cape Verde Islands behind, a radio message from the Graf said.

Great excitement was caused among the native Negroes below, the message said.

The island had fast mail service de luxe for the first time.

Television Talkie Shown First Time in Theater

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 22.—(AP.)—The television radio talkie had its world premiere as a theater attraction here today.

Audiences witnessed the unprecedented spectacle of an orchestra in the theater being led by the life-size radio television image of its conductor, who in a laboratory a few miles distant wielded his baton as he received the music of his men by telephone.

Merrill Trainor, assistant of Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, television pioneer, was seen and heard as he explained how the pictures and sounds reached the theater. Other performers contributed to the demonstration by gesture, vocal music and instrumental selections.

The demonstration was arranged by Dr. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company and the Radio Corporation of America, to show possibilities of television as a mode of entertainment.

The projection was on a screen 6 feet square, with all the gray shades between white and black being produced, registering the shadows of the features and giving both depth and detail to the picture.

The performers went through their acts in front of a television camera in Dr. Alexanderson's laboratory. A transmitter there sent out the light impulses, converted into radio signals, on a wave length of 140 meters.

A microphone picked up the speech and song which were sent by wire to South Schenectady, from which point they were broadcast on a 92-meter wavelength.

Within the theater R. D. Kell, assistant to Dr. Alexanderson, acting as control operator, received the light impulses, reproduced them on an instrument called a telopticon and transferred them to a light valve, at which point the light was broken up to produce an image corresponding to the subject at the studio. Another receiver picked up the radio sound waves.

MAP OF THE GRAF ZEPPELIN'S LONG OCEAN FLIGHTS TO AMERICA

Exclusive of the flights it has made around Germany and nearby countries, the Graf Zeppelin has in this wise covered the earth in long ocean flights. It first flew to Lakehurst and back to Germany, then came to start its world flight. Once on its 'round-the-world flight it crossed the Atlantic and again on its way home. Today it is soaring for Rio along the route marked.

World's Largest Seaplane For Overseas Planned

DAYTON, O., May 22.—(AP.)—Plans for the largest seaplane in the world, which would be used for trans-oceanic service exclusively, were detailed by H. V. Thaden, vice president of the Pittsburgh Metal Airplane Company, at the concluding session of the fourth annual convention, Society of Mechanical Engineers, aeronautic division, here today.

The ship, which would carry a pay load of 42,000 pounds, and be capable of carrying 120 passengers and express baggage, was described in a paper prepared by Dr. E. Rumpler, of the Rumpler Motor Works, Berlin, and read by Thaden.

The plane is being designed in the Rumpler works, and actual construction is expected to start within a year.

The Rumpler plane will have a wing spread of 289 feet, length of 160 feet and wing cord of 41 feet. All passengers will be seated in the single wing of the plane. The place ordinarily used for cabin space will be utilized for baggage and express.

The Diesel engines of the pusher type, each developing 500 horsepower, will be mounted on back of the wing.

STYLE CONTEST EVOKES FLOOD OF LETTERS

Marion Davies Contest Brings Staunch Adherents Of Old and New Alike

other women. I insist this is not the case either.

Women dress to please the Paris couturiers.

I was pleased to see that Miss Davies, in her interview, recognized that fact, and also recognized the astonishing circumstance that the United States is perhaps the first dominant nation in history which has allowed itself to be dictated to by a minor nation in so important a matter as the dress of its womankind.

The men of America have more independence.

The dress of American men is characteristically American.

For a time it looked as if American women would have sufficient independence to establish a characteristically American dress. That was the time of short skirts, waistless waists, bobbed hair, and a freedom in attire that gave full scope to the natural grace and beauty of American women.

After having attained that high order of grace and beauty and freedom of movement, it is astounding to mere man that our intelligent American women should have abandoned all this at the dictate of the Paris couturier.

All the world was following in the footsteps of the American woman.

All the world was copying her graceful attire, imitating her freedom, admiring her beauty and her independence, when all of a sudden, the American woman reverted to her old dependence upon French dressmakers and accepted their dictum that long skirts must be revived in the interests of modesty and refinement.

Imagine modesty and refinement emanating from Paris.

The simple, wholesome, graceful short dresses of the American women did not consume enough goods or carry enough ornamentation, or warrant a sufficiently high price.

So American women were seduced into returning to their former fashion slavery.

We men regret this.

The only effective argument against short dresses is that some women are too old, too fat or too unshapely to wear them.

And the answer to that argument is—

Let such women wear long dresses, and let the young women, the slender women, the shapely women wear the short dresses which better befit their loveliness.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM HENRY SARTORIS.

MUST ACCEPT STYLES

Having lived for 84 years and seen all the changes in that space of time and the wonderful improvements the world has made I feel that we must bow our heads and accept what is given us.

PREFERS OLD-FASHIONED

Give me the old-fashioned girl every time! I knew her—bless her heart!—and in spite of her wasp waist, leg-o'-mutton sleeve and pompadour I think she had more of the eternal feminine in her makeup than your pet miss of today. And what more does man want in woman than the eternal feminine?

WOULD NOT TURN BACK

Would you exchange a 1930 mind for one of the 1890's? Never! Neither would this be true of milady's adornment.

There should be no question, even in the insidious minds of modern moralists who forget to die with the Victorian era.

The ultra fastidious sportswoman of this day and age could not marshal in review the innumerable gussets, seams and ruffles at golf or in an omnibus.

1890 was dainty, but without vigor or conviction. No daring, no discreet boldness, no fascination. The modern woman cannot afford to risk being robbed of these.

FRED C. GRAHAM.

OLD STYLES HELD BEST

The old styles are best for lots of reasons. The main one is that they would bring back chivalry between the sexes. We women talk about being men's equals. We are. We are their superiors!

Don't we women all crave adoration and homage? We do. But when womanhood displayed all her wares on the bargain counter of life, she lost her mystery.

It was the wonderful mystery of us that made men think we were finer and more noble than we are. But why not fool them? We did once. We can again—if we go back to long dresses and make ourselves look less like boys and more like — fascinating women.

FREEDOM IS GOAL

Clothes help to build up our characters and bring forth the charm, vitality and talents we might possess. Proper dress gives us more assurance and backbone. Long skirts and tight bodices kept us in our shells but short skirts drew us out.

LIKES NEW WAY BEST

Heaven forbid that the present or future generations should be punished with the styles of the gay 90's as we were. If I could live most another 60 years, I would ask that it be with a medium-short skirt and bobbed hair.

VOTE AGAINST BLUE LAW 6-1

district in the city. It is representative of the city as a whole, as the 92,000 ballots which have been mailed thus far in the poll, constituting one-half of the total of registered voters in the city, have gone into election districts of every description. About 50 per cent of the voters of each ward have been included in the distribution of ballots.

Voters favoring repeal of the Blue Laws represent 80 per cent of the total, and an additional 7 per cent also opposed to the existing law favor modification. The remaining 13 per cent favor continuance of the Blue Laws.

The present ratio of votes favoring repeal compared to votes supporting the Blue Laws is about 6 to 1, a decreased ratio due to a better proportionate vote for continuance in late tabulations.

The count for the day, aggregating 1,588 ballots, is divided as follows: For the Blue Laws, 317; for modification, 144; for repeal, 1,127.

NEW GASOLINE HAS MORE PEP

TULSA, Okla., May 22.—(AP)—Discovery of a more powerful gasoline, a blend especially for automobiles, was announced at the Natural Gasoline Association's annual convention here today.

The mixture restores what the motorist likes to call "the old-fashioned goodness" to gasoline by which he means quick, easy starting in cold weather. It is described also as adding power which the "old-time" gas never had, and as increasing the available gasoline supply.

Hughes Succeeds Taft on Law Body

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, yesterday was elected honorary president of the American branch of the International Law Association, to succeed the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft. John W. Davis was elected president.

Plans were discussed for the International conference of the association to be held here next September.

Says Wife Liked Others Better, Asks Divorce

George W. Grabb, an O'Hara Township blacksmith, testified that his wife, Emma D. Grabb, "liked other men better than me" and suddenly left him in 1927 without notice.

He could assign no other reason to Judge James B. Drew of Common Pleas Court as to why Mrs. Grabb left him, causing Grabb to ask the court to divorce him on grounds of desertion.

The couple married in 1905 and have a daughter 21 who at present is keeping house for her father. The wife and mother has not been heard from for three years.

MAN FOR DAVIS POST PUZZLES

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(INS)—Despite his victory in the Pennsylvania Republican senatorial primary, James J. Davis will hold onto his job as Secretary of Labor until about July 1.

The votes were scarcely counted before Davis called at the White House and notified President Hoover of his desire to continue in the cabinet until that date. The Labor Secretary explained he wanted to complete his final annual report.

Mr. Hoover will not be averse to keeping Davis in office, for he is experiencing considerable difficulty in finding a suitable successor. William B. Doak of Virginia, vice president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, is said has been the President's choice for the labor portfolio for some time, but leaders of organized labor have refused to consent to his appointment.

There was speculation current that Robe Carl White, the assistant secretary of labor, might finally be elevated. White a Hoosier, has no particular political affiliations and is more of a "career man."

Journalist Elected To French Academy

PARIS, May 22.—(AP)—Andre Chaumeix, distinguished journalist, editorial writer and long a member of the staff of the Journal Des Debats, was elected to the French Academy today. He was named for the seat to which former Premier Clemenceau was elected, but never occupied.

Charles Legoffic, author of stories and novels about Brittany and the World War, was elected to succeed the late Francois de Curel.

$80,000 Flagpole Finally Approved

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—The Charles F. Murphy memorial committee's plans for an $80,000 flagpole in Union square, near Tammany Hall, have been approved by the Municipal Art Commission. There were protests when the memorial was proposed, but it is now announced the pole will not be a memorial to the late Tammany chieftain, but commemorate the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

DRY CHIEF SAYS HOOVER STAND WINS O.K.

McBride Tells Senators President Is 'Making Good' With Enforcement Policy

not contributed to the league, and asked:

"Do you think the bootleggers supported Gifford Pinchot in Pennsylvania?"

Blaine answered:

"I haven't been in Pennsylvania."

MIGHT NOT TAKE SIDES

In response to a question, McBride said if an anti-dry were nominated for the senate from Pennsylvania, the league would support Davis. If a dry Democrat were nominated he said the league would not take sides.

Caraway asked McBride if he knew what President Hoover's prohibition views were and was told Secretary Davis ought to know, since he was a cabinet member.

Asked if the League's campaign had not dropped off since prohibition was adopted, McBride said it had never itt up, in its educational work.

NEEDED KEEN ISSUE

He added that a campaign would be more effective when the issue is keen.

The League superintendent said he had hoped the anti-drys would be good sports and give up their campaign.

Blaine read from league records that pledges made in 1929 amounted to $5,315,498. He added that the cost of collection was $3,820,434 and that net proceeds were $1,495,064. He also read from the records that $234,912 was pledged in Illinois, with net proceeds of $99,153.

SEEKING TO RAISE FUND

The discussion followed testimony that the league was attempting to raise a fund of $300,000 a year to make a campaign in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment similar to that before prohibition was adopted.

Records also had been introduced showing the organization had been pledged future contributions of $18,705,922.

McBride said the Pennsylvania primary result was "the biggest body blow to the anti-drys that has yet come."

ARE FIGHTING HARDER

Caraway asked:

"Is not a greater fight being made on the Eighteenth Amendment now than ever before?"

McBride replied:

"The wets are fighting harder now. But one reason is that they are against the wall and fighting for their lives. A few more elections like the one in Pennsylvania will discourage them."

Caraway read from a memorandum sent by R. P. Hutton, superintendent of the Rhode Island League, to McBride, February 27, which said if the New England states struck at prohibition, they might expect states in the South and West to strike back.

GERMANS FETE WAR MOTHERS

went to their dead on France's battlefields.

Herr Gessler and his party had just finished a tour of the American cemetery when the gold star mothers arrived at the gates in a motor bus. Instantly the former war minister and his eight companians, all veterans of many conflicts, snapped rigidly to attention, clicking their heels together in Prussian fashion.

THEN REMOVE HATS

First they saluted, then they removed their hats and bowed in a gesture of profound respect for the bereaved American mothers.

At first the pilgrims mistook the Germans for a local reception committee and bowed in return, smiling cordially. When informed of Herr Gessler's identity, and told his eight companions had led enemy troops through the harrowing years of the war, there were exclamations of surprise.

Said one of the pilgrims:

"It seems impossible that kindly grey-haired gentleman was once a German war minister."

WAR FEVER GONE

But the war fever had passed, even from the minds of these women whose sons had been torn from them on the shambles of France's battlefields, and the German officers were quick to sympathize with the mothers and to compliment them on their fortitude in visiting this scene of wholesale tragedy.

Herr Gessler and his officers accompanied the mothers a little way into the American cemetery, and described the field of German crosses on the other side of the valley, where 11,000 German soldiers lie buried.

He told the gold star mothers:

"The American cemetery is most beautiful and is so well kept. Especially lovely are the marble crosses. I am afraid we must content ourselves with wooden crosses. Those of stone are too expensive for Germany to provide."

Gambling Barge 'Shot Up' in Feud

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 22.—(INS)—How a prominent Los Angeles gambler and four henchmen "shot up" the gambling barge Montfalco, operating beyond the three-mile limit, was disclosed here today. Gambling equipment on the barge was destroyed. The raid on the barge was said to be the result of a feud between gambling cliques.

Can You Write a Letter?

Can you write a letter?

Marion Davies offers $1,000 in prizes for letters.

"The Floradora Girl," Miss Davies' latest picture opens at the New Pantages Theater, Wednesday night, June 4.

The fascinating styles of the "gay 90's" will be seen in this picture—the story of the famous Floradora Sextette.

Do you prefer those styles to the styles of today?

Do you think those styles are coming back?

Put your ideas in a letter and send it to Miss Marion Davies at the New Pantages Theater, Hollywood, Cal. Also enclose a small photo of yourself, if possible. But send the letter regardless of whether photo is available.

THEATERS SUE WILL HAYS

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Will H. Hays, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, which he heads, and others were ordered to pay $2,344,200 to two Indianapolis theater companies which charged that independent exhibitors were being driven out of business by the Hays organization.

The plaintiffs were the F. J. Rembusch Enterprises and the Capitol Amusement Company, which charged that the former had been damaged $489,550 and the latter $415,000.

The government recently brought suit against the same defendants on similar charges but the case was dismissed on the ground that specific damage to any exhibitor was unproven.

The complainants in the present action asserted that theater chains were the richest profitable because of the acts of the defendants who they said charged independent exhibitors 40 to 60 per cent of their gross receipts for rentals of films as compared to the 15 to 20 per cent charged affiliated theaters.

The defendants who they said controlled 95 per cent of motion picture production and 98 per cent of distribution, forced recalcitrant independents into line by a system of blacklisting and compelled exhibitors to arbitrate all differences through film boards of trade they referred to as extra-legal courts.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—Five Americans including John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today were nominated for honorary membership in the American Institute of Architects by the board of directors of the institute in convention here.

For distinguished service in the interest of fine arts, nominations also were extended Prof. William A. R. Goodwin, of William and Mary College; Dr. S. S. Goldwater, hospital administrator of New York City; A. F. Bruckerhoff, New York landscape architect, and Charles J. Connick, of Boston, noted worker in stained glass.

Mrs. Chapman, Noted Writer, Succumbs

SELMA, Ala., May 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Katherine Hopkins Chapman, well-known writer, died at a hospital here yesterday, a victim of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Chapman, historian of the National League of American Pen Women, was 61 years old.

HOOVER TRAVEL INDEFINITE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—Thousands of miles of travel lie before President Hoover this year, if he carries through the tentative itinerary now in prospect.

With a month's trip to the Pacific coast definitely planned for the summer, the chief executive also has under consideration a visit to Boston for the American Legion convention in October and the completion of his good will tour of Latin-America, begun while he was President-elect, by visiting Cuba and Mexico.

Both Cuba and Mexico have been assured by Mr. Hoover that he would visit them during his term in office, as he had planned to do before he cut short his good will tour in 1928. Since then President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, has visited this country and the American chief executive desires to return his call. It is not felt at the White House, however, that the trip should be undertaken except in the cool months of the year, and since this would limit the time to the latter part of October and November if the President is to be back when Congress convenes, the trip may not be found practicable this year.

While the western tour has been determined upon, probably in August, the itinerary is yet indefinite. Invitations for the President to visit various communities still are being received.

Crafton Girl Named To Mt. Union Office

VATICAN RULES ON 12 SAINTS

VATICAN CITY, May 22.—(AP.)—An imposing array of cardinals, archbishops, bishops and mitred abbots gathered this morning in the Hall of the Consistory, to attend the third and last consistory summoned by Pope Pius XI to pass upon the qualifications of those proposed for canonization next month.

The canonization will raise to sainthood 12 "servants of God," as the candidates are called—two women and 10 men. Of the latter, the eight Canadian martyrs, six French Jesuit priests and two lay brothers of the same famous order, will all be canonized together on Sunday, June 29, the feast of Sts. Peter and Paul. They will be the first saints from the North American continent to be so proclaimed by the Catholic Church. South America already has its representation in the person of St. Rose, of Lima, Peru.

Austrian Fascists Uphold Guerillas

VIENNA, May 22.—(AP.)—A sensation has been caused throughout Austria by an ultimatum from the Fascist Heimwehr to Chancellor Schober, in which it is stated disarmament by the government of irregular military formations will be permitted by the Heimwehr only if the Heimwehr is allowed to co-operate and the Socialist Peasant League is disarmed first.

N. Y. Bridge Builder Felicitated at 80

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Congratulatory messages to Gustave Lindenthal, bridge engineer, on his eightieth birthday express the conviction he will do even greater things at 90. He has designed various bridges over the East River and now is active in plans for spanning the Hudson.

INCE $930,732 ESTATE CLOSED

LOS ANGELES, May 22.—(AP.)—Final accounting in the estate of Thomas H. Ince, motion picture producer and director, was filed in Probate Court yesterday by Mrs. Ellen Ince Herbert, his widow, and Ingle Carpenter, executor of the estate.

The total gross amount was set at $930,732.54, of which the executors credited themselves with $296,972.03, leaving $633,760.51 for distribution. Under Ince's will the estate was divided equally between his widow and three sons, William T. Ince, 21; Thomas H. Ince, 18, and Richard Ince, 14.

Under a provision that Ince's widow should not marry for seven years after his death, Mrs. Herbert's fourth share will be placed in a trust fund and only the income will be available to her. She recently married Holmes Herbert, motion picture actor.

WAITER SLAIN IN HOLDUP

CHICAGO, May 22.—(INS.)—One of three bandits shot and killed George Geredakias, 38, today while robbing the South Side restaurant where he was employed as a waiter.

The trio forced Geredakias to raise his hands and face the wall, and while two of them kept him covered the third rifled the cash till.

When he lowered his hands at the sound of the cash register bell one of the gunmen fired two shots, both bullets hitting the waiter in the back and killing him instantly.

Proposes Reserve Rank for Williams

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—Lieut. Alford J. Williams, Navy speed flier, who recently resigned from the service, would be given the rank of captain in the naval reserve under a bill introduced by Senator Wagner, (Dem.), of New York.

Ex-Omaha Mayor, Once Periled by Mob, Dies

OMAHA, Neb., May 22.—(AP.)—Ed P. Smith, former mayor of Omaha, who was saved from hanging at the hands of a mob whose members burned the courthouse during his administration in 1919, died last night after a short illness. Smith was mayor from 1919 to 1921. He was seized by a mob which was storming the courthouse in search of a Negro prisoner as he sought to pacify them. He was saved by Ben Danbaum, former member of the police force.

Arraign Youth, 19, In Ribbon Murder

CHICAGO, May 22.—(INS.)—Despite several confessions and repudiations, William Putscher, 19, was booked today for the murder of Mrs. Mildred Helsing, housewife who was strangled to death in her apartment April 1 with a piece of silk ribbon.

The youth has been questioned almost continuously for two days and has told conflicting stories and confessions regarding the murder.

EYE SPECIALIST DIES AT 76

LOS ANGELES, May 22.—(AP.)—Dr. Archibald L. MacLeish, 76, known in medical circles here and in Europe as an authority on diseases of the eye, died today at his home after an illness of several months.

Dr. MacLeish was born in Dunlop, Scotland, attended the Ayre Academy there and later won scholarships in mathematics, classics and medicine at Edinburgh. He became a teacher in the Amoy Hospital medical school in China and after four years came to Los Angeles.

At one time he was president of the Royal Medical Society of Edinburgh. He was a member of the American Ophthalmological Society and one of the original members of the United States College of Surgeons. He is survived by a widow, two sons and three daughters.

Pact to Swell Navy Outlay

By CAPT. NELSON H. GOSS, United States Navy.

(U. S. Naval Academy, 1905, commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College, recently commanding the U. S. ship Sirius. Capt. Goss is a practical sea-going officer who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.)

The London treaty actually obliges us to build more tonnage of more expensive vessels than the capital ships it scraps or cancels.

It requires that we scrap 163,421 tons of battleships, submarines and destroyers.

It requires that we cancel the construction of 50,000 tons of 8-inch gun cruisers already authorized.

It does not permit us to build 140,000 tons of new capital ships which are permitted within the next two years under the Washington treaty.

At the same time, if we are to maintain the Navy at the strength permitted by the London treaty, we must actually build 260,000 tons of modern cruisers, submarines and destroyers.

The treaty obliges us to build more tonnage of cruisers than it cancels—to build 75,000 tons, to cancel 50,000 tons.

It obliges us to build far more tonnage of destroyers and submarines than it requires us to scrap—to build 150,000 tons of destroyers, 38,000 tons submarines, to scrap 76,313 tons of destroyers, 17,208 of submarines.

So much for REDUCTION and ECONOMY.

Scrap New Ships

At Washington we scrapped our new vessels and kept our old ones; at London the British and Japanese kept their new ones and scrapped their old ones.

The London conference made no allowance for our weakness in naval bases or merchant marine, but reduced our capital ship and destroyer strength. It increased the Japanese ratio of capital ships and cruisers above the 5-5-3 ratio. It reduced both our actual and relative cruiser strength. It allotted equal submarine tonnage to Japan.

So much for PARITY.

The London Treaty contains a clause that permits the British or Japanese or ourselves to change the prescribed limits at any time in a manner to suit their own convenience.

So much for PERMANENCY and SECURITY.

Cruiser Programs

All people hoped and some believed that we had obtained parity at the Washington conference. It took some time before it was realized that the sort of parity we had obtained permitted the British to build two new battleships after we had scrapped our new ones.

Other powers quickly utilized the money we had saved them in capital ships to construct large program of cruisers, submarines and destroyers; types not limited to Washington.

We for a time followed our natural preference of carrying out the spirit of the Washington Treaty and refrained from new construction.

We later authorized a number of cruisers of the kind we need but nowheres near as much cruiser strength as the British, or comparatively the Japanese, had underway. We made no attempt to overcome our base limitations by constructing additional vessels that would help compensate for that weakness or our deficiencies in merchant vessels.

At London conditions were something like the reverse of the Washington conference. This time the other powers had large programs of new vessels.

At Washington we showed our good intentions by agreeing to scrap our new programs.

At London the Japanese used their new programs as a basis for insisting on an increased ratio of comparative strength in all types sufficient to assure them an impregnable position in the Far East.

Demand Revision

The British, notwithstanding that they had constructed two new powerful units, held out for a revision of the treaty provision which authorized us ultimately to equal their capital ship strength.

They also maintained that the same attitude in favor of 6-inch gun cruisers they had taken at Geneva and the same attitude they have always taken towards abolition or drastic reduction of submarines, for the same well known reasons. This with their bases would insure their present supremacy.

All Americans hoped for an agreement at London that would limit the unrestricted types of men-of-war in a manner that would also limit and ultimately reduce, at least as far as replacements were converned, the cost of the Navy.

There had been a good deal of discussion about parity. It was only natural that our people would favor it and it was generally expected that any agreement made would include it. This seemed natural, too, because this country is at least the equal of any other in responsibilities and trade as well as in wealth.

For this reason, while an agreement that assured parity with a reduction of costs would have been welcome even at the expense of a reduction in actual strength, an agreement that reduced our relative strength might properly be subject to question even though it did reduce cost.

Merits Doubted

An agreement that is indefinite in binding effect is naturally of doubtful merit. One that does not settle, make allowances for, or even consider the questions that cause dissension or have led to conflict in the past is also open to question.

Any such agreement that at the same time fixes definite limitations of strength seems particularly open to question, for it would be a serious matter if we gave up the means of defending ourselves without knowing what we might be called upon to resist.

We have had weaknesses in the past, we are relatively weak now in modern vessels but we have the definite right to increase our strength in such directions whenever we feel it necessary.

Here is how this London Treaty differs widely from other treaties we have had in the past. We have had weak points in our armor before. There have been unsettled problems and uncertainties before.

But this is the first time it has ever been proposed that we definitely limit our strength in all directions while leaving the same problems unsettled and the uncertainties undefined.

It would need to be well considered before deciding that a reduction of cost under such circumstances is worth while. When we note that this treaty would entail a great expenditure by the United States to provide anything approaching the strength the British and Japanese have in all the other types it becomes apparent that cancelling capital ships replacements would not provide any economy.

Short of Ships

But with our capital ships and other types scrapped down to the new limits we must resort at once to a large building program of new vessels or suffer a serious loss of both actual and relative strength.

All this indicates a needf or careful consideration of this treaty by our people for since it does limit our defensive measures their decision on it will have a far-reaching effect.

It will influence the whole future of our country and we should understand what it means before we agree to it.

While limitation, like anything else, may be had at a price, we should think a long while before we agree to the price in this relative strength possible and permitted at present; that leaves unsettled all the questions that have frequently caused conflict and led up to the war in the past, that permits others to exercise a discretion if it should suit their interests which our time-honored and proper adherence to the spirit as well as the letter of the law would not allow us to do; and which does not effect any economy but on the contrary necessitates an immediate large expenditure if we are to even attain the reduced relative naval strngth it permits.

ATTACK HALTS SEDITION TRIAL

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, May 22.—(AP)—Resumption of the trial here of Dr. Vladimir Matchek and 23 others accused of sedition caused exciting scenes.

While M. Stefanits was testifying he uttered strong observations against the king and his jailers, whereupon the judge added a charge of lese majeste to the indictment. The judge also refused the offer of a lawyer to defend the prisoner.

A prisoner named Bernadich then assaulted the gendarmes in the court and a general scuffle ensued. The judge finally suspended the sitting and ordered Bernadich, refuted to be, cell handcuffed.

Talkative Barber Bares Own Racket

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(AP)—Alexander Zeigler, a talkative barber, literally talked himself into jail for the man in the chair who listened attentively was a detective.

While shaving John Perkolup of the City Hall squad, Zeigler talked of the weather, the Athletics, the price of liquor and then about baseball pools, lotteries and the numbers game.

Russell Boyd entered the shop and the barber greeted him familiarly. From their conversation Perkolup said he learned that Zeigler was an agent for a baseball pool ring and that Boyd was a manager of agents.

The detective trailed Boyd to his room where he said he found five suitcases filled with baseball pool and lottery tickets. Both Boyd and Zeigler were arrested and held for hearings.

REPORT INCOME TAX EXTENSION

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—The Hawley resolution to extend for one year the time for assessment, refund and credit of taxes for 1927 and 1928 in community income cases was reported by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Walter E. Hope, assistant secretary of the treasury, told the committee that the government received $50,000,000 less in taxes for those years through the filing of separate income tax returns by husbands and wives in the eight states having community property laws than would have been received had an additional return been filed by the husband in each case.

Unless Congress enacts the proposed legislation, Hope said, it will be necessary for the Treasury to send out so-called 60-day letters notifying the 100,000 odd taxpayers interested of a deficiency in their tax payments.

The question of community income tax returns is now before the Supreme Court, Hope added, but said there seemed little chance of a decision before January, 1931.

Vaudeville Actor, Dancer to Marry

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—A marriage license was issued here to Samuel Le Traunas, 41, known on the vaudeville stage as Senator Pat Murphy, and Carolyn L. Smith, 26, a dancer. They said they would be married June 5.

Corns

Gone—Root and All.

How would you like to lose every burning, aching, throbbing, tormenting corn in less than one week—roots and all—and at the same time put your feet in vigorous, walking condition—in other words—have stronger, better, healthier feet than you ever had before?

No plasters—no cutting—no pride—just a glorious, refreshing 15-minute Radox foot bath every night for four or five nights.

Start tonight with this new, absolutely safe way to get rid of every corn you've got—complete directions for the simple removal of corns come with every package.

Three foot baths with Radox usually loosen ordinary corns in three nights so they can be easily lifted out—bathnote—corn may take four or five nights, but as Radox foot baths are delightful and take every bit of hard skin off heels and toes you won't mind that.

Ask MayFlower Drug Stores or any druggist for a package of Radox—it is inexpensive—but you'll enjoy every minute of a Radox foot bath—it invigorates.

SUICIDE RATE INCREASES

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP)—The suicide rate of American cities during 1929 reached the highest figure on record since 1916, or 18 per 100,000, Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company, has announced. His statistics appear in the current issue of the Spectator, insurance publication.

He drew his conclusion from the tabulated results of 151 cities throughout the country. Sacramento, Cal., leads with a rate of 52.8 per cent, he said, and most of the Pacific coast municipalities outrank all others in their tendency to self-destruction.

"The stock market collapse of last year unquestionably had a direct bearing upon the increase in suicides," he said, "although it is not as well marked as might have been expected."

Lutherans Table Districting Plan

ALTOONA, Pa., May 22.—(AP)—The Allegheny Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania yesterday tabled for one year a proposal to divide the state into four Lutheran districts, Eastern, Western, Southern, Central and North Central.

F. R. Reiter, Johnstown, was elected president of the Laymen's Association.

Mountain Named For Surveyor Of Alaska

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—The naval lieutenant who directed aerial surveys of 23,000 square miles of Alaska is to have a mountain in his memory.

A pinnacle seven miles north of Devil's Thumb, Alaska, is to be called Mount Burkett, the Navy announced, in honor of Lieut. Eugene F. Burkett, who was killed in an airplane crash at San Diego, January 7.

Burkett, whose home was in Abilene, Tex., was navigator for the Alaska aerial surveys.

Suspects Identified As Bank Robbers

TOLEDO, O., May 22.—(INS)—Two gunmen suspects brought here from Akron, O., were identified today as members of the bandit gang who held up the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Sylvania, O., February 5, and escaped with $5,000.

The suspects are Nathan Kin, 37, Springfield, Mo., and Fra' Mitchell, 21, of Kansas City.

Bullfight Wounds Fatal to Matador

HUELVA, Spain, May 22.—(AP)—Pedro Carreno, a young bullfighter, died today, after being gored in the ring at Ecija. Carreno was a novice, but was regarded as a promising bullfighter.

FARM VALUES GO LOWER

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—Farm land values, the Department of Agriculture finds, are continuing the process of steady decline that has been in evidence since 1920, and are now only 116 per cent as compared with the pre-war valuation.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics announced this finding today as a result of a survey of 1929 values. The decline for the year was one per cent, while for each preceding year the rate was higher. Six scattered states showed small increases. Maine, Connecticut, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, and Oregon. All the rest showed declines particularly the Middle and South Atlantic groups and the North Central groups.

Eightieth Division To Meet August 7-10

A boxing exhibition in the Johnstown stadium, June 26, has been chosen as the method of financing the coming reunion of the Eightieth Division in Johnstown, August 7, 8, 9 and 10, O. C. Mulhoellen, national commander, says he expects to realize a large sum by sale of tickets to the show. Preparations are already under way, he says, for the reunion, an annual affair.

FLOODS MENACE LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—(INS)—Hundreds of lowlanders were leaving their homesteads for higher ground in Louisiana today as flood waters, racing down from Arkansas, menaced parts of the state.

Thousands of acres of delta land in Caddo and Natchitoche parishes were inundated.

Residents of the Red River valley were warned today to prepare for flood conditions.

DALLAS, Tex., May 22.—(INS)—Conditions continued to improve in the flood-stricken area of Texas today as high waters receded.

Marion, Madison and Houston counties bore the brunt of the high waters today.

Jefferson emerged from high waters which inundated half of Marion County, caused by overflows of the Big Cypress, Little Cypress and Black Cypress rivers. Many of the 300 persons fleeing when a five-foot wall of water submerged the outskirts of the city have returned to their homes. Lowlands in Houston and Madison counties were still under high waters.

Do you like your room? If you don't, find a better one. There are plenty advertised in the Classified Section of this newspaper.

These convincing prices offer proof that it pays to trade here.

BANKER SCORES COALITION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 22.—(AP.)—The charge that a combination of Western Progressives and Southern Democrats are working in harmony "in what seems to be an effort to handicap the industrial section of the United States," was made here by Harry D. McDowell, of Sharon, Pa., president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association, in an address at the organization's convention.

McDowell said that among the first "manifestations" of the combination was the Senate's refusal to seat Senator Newberry, of Michigan, Senator Smith of Illinois and Senator Vare of Pennsylvania.

He charged that the combination of the South and the West, with an aggregate population of 57,000,000 votes, had 64 votes in the Senate, while a population of 62,000,000 people had only 32.

PROBE SUICIDE OF PRISONER

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22.—(AP.)—Samuel M. Fleischman, attorney here for Felix Repetowski, who killed himself yesterday in his Auburn Prison cell, has started an investigation to ascertain why Repetowski did not receive a telegram which Fleischman said he sent, notifying the prisoner that the appelate division of the Supreme Court recently had voted a new trial. Repetowski was serving a sentence of 20 to 25 years on a robbery charge. He steadfastly had maintained that the case was one of mistaken identity and the appelate division in its decision wrote:

"In the interests of justice, this man must be given a new trial. The conviction is reversed on facts and not on law."

"If it is disclosed the telegram was deliberately withheld," Fleischman said, "I will present the facts to the governor. That boy never would have taken his life had he known that he soon was to be liberated."

THUGS GET $158 IN HOLDUPS

Negro bandits obtained $158 and a watch yesterday from a butcher shop in Larimer avenue and a pedestrian in the Hill district.

Entering the butcher shop of Paul Dexter, at 518 Larimer avenue, an armed Negro looted the cash register of $150. He escaped in an automobile.

Attacked by two Negroes at Elm and Pasture streets, M. K. Knapp, of Overbrook, was robbed of $8 and a watch, police reported. The thugs eluded several pedestrians who witnessed the robbery.

Ingram Musician To Study Abroad

SIDAR PLANES DELAYED

MEXICO CITY, May 22.—(AP.)—A dispatch from Vera Cruz last night said that the airplane Mayab, bearing the ashes of Col. Pablo Sidar to Mexico City, was still grounded at Tejeria because of unfavorable weather.

With it is the airplane which Capt. Lewis Yancey will fly to South America after the Sidar funeral, and the army planes serving as an escort.

The planes made three attempts to fly to Puebla but were unable to cross the mountains because of bad weather.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 22.—Her neck broken in an eight-foot fall caused when a porch railing gave way in Barnesville, Mrs. Willard Barnes 57, died yesterday.

DENIES GERMAN WAR MENACE

BERLIN, May 22.—(AP.)—Minister of Defense Groener, in the Reichstag, contradicted accusations at home and abroad of Germany's growing belligerency.

Groener declared, in a discussion of the military budget, that Germany had been disarmed to a degree precluding an army of even a defensive character. The army of defense, the minister said, comprised 100,000 men. He compared the figure with France's "army of 1,000,000 and a war strength of 9,600,000 men.

"We hope," the defense minister said, "that the new chief of the French general staff (Gen. Maxime Weygand) whom we knew in 1918 as a bitter but wise and chivalrous opponent, will exert his authority to stop the undignified and hypocritical assertions about 'the German menace.'

"Germany must, however, be in a position to oppose any violation of her neutrality or attempt to deprive her of territory, especially as disarmament is not progressing in other countries.

"Such attacks as recently were made by M. Poincare are to be described as utter nonsense."

DEFENSE IN FIRE DEATH HIT

ERIE, Pa., May 22.—(AP.)—The state centered its efforts in the Edna Mumbulo murder trial in attempting to prove that gasoline could not have exploded, as Mrs. Mumbulo contends that it did, in explaining the burning to death of her stepdaughter, Hilda, 11.

The state charges that Mrs. Mumbulo and her husband, who is to be tried later, burned the girl to death to obtain an estate left her by her mother.

Dr. Richard E. Lee, of Allegheny College, Meadville, and a member of the Royal Academy of Science, London, testified that he and his chemists have attempted to explode gasoline in the manner described by Mrs. Mumbulo in a preliminary hearing, but found it impossible.

GREEN PASTURES

Take away from your table the food that comes from the "waters of the earth" and all else comes from "green pastures".

Produced or nourished from these pastures are the cattle that furnish the richest food that comes to man's table---meadow-fragrant milk and butter, and juicy steaks; vegetables, fruits, eggs---all things that are good for us to eat and to drink.

Tens of thousands of acres of green pastures provide for Sander & Company these choice foods that have made their stores the Mecca of all housewives who shop with one eye on quality and the other on price.

If you have never visited either the Penn and Highland or the Homewood Avenue store of Sander & Company, you are invited to do so---now. Come this week and see how quality and low price are combined on every article offered for sale.

Here are a few of the choice selections Sander & Company will have on sale today, Friday and Saturday: Tender, mouth-melting spring chickens, first on the market.

Per Pair 99c

Sugar cured hams---hams, the sight and aroma of which when cooked will excite even the most indifferent appetite. From 10 to 12 pounds each.

Per pound 21c

And in addition, the freshest of vegetables---coffees and teas that will bring praise from your guests---meats, unexcelled in any Pittsburgh store---choice seasonal fruits---Sander's own fresh baked bread, cakes and cookies---and last, but not least, a great grocery department featuring all the leading brands at prices as low as the lowest.

9 OF CHICAGO 'ENEMIES' HELD

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—Public activities of Chicago's 26 "public enemies" has resulted in the arrest of 16 of them in the month since their names were formally posted by the Chicago Crime Commission, the commission reported.

Six of the 16 were freed, but nine are awaiting trial on various charges and one was indicted but escaped. Eight others have dropped out of sight and four are known definitely to be out of Chicago.

"Scarface" Al Capone and his older brother, Ralph, are two of the nine in the county jail. Al in Miami and Ralph in Chicago. Rocco Fiaterelli is in London, England. George Bugs Moran, North Side gang leader, is in Ohio. "Polack Joe" Saltis is in Wisconsin and Giuseppe Peppi Genaro is in Indiana. Leo Malgoven, Moran's bodyguard and with a record of five years as a kidnaper and extortionist, was arrested in a Chicago street with $2,742 and two .45-caliber automatic pistols in his belt.

The commission made its report to six law-enforcement officials in Chicago, urging the need for vigorous, systematic and fearless procedure.

EQUALITY ASKED IN CITIZENSHIP

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—Speaking from the experience of the recent contest waged against her seat on the contention that she had lost her citizenship through marriage to an alien, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen urged the House to adopt the Fish resolution to establish a national policy favoring sex equality in nationality agreements with other nations.

The Florida Democrat argued that the unusual course of adopting such a resolution was warranted by the circumstances, but a final vote went over.

The resolution specifically would commend the action of the American delegation to the International Law Codification Conference at The Hague last April in voting against a nationality agreement which contained certain inequalities between men and women. The article was intended as the first in the proposed world code, and was approved by all of the forty attending nations except the United States.

JAIL WIDOW, 65, FOR LIQUOR

SCRANTON, Pa., May 22.—(AP)—A 65-year-old widow, and mother of a large family, was sentenced to 30 days in jail late yesterday by Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson, when she was convicted as a second offender of the prohibition law. She also was fined $200. The woman was Mrs. Margaret Gretchen, of Pittston.

A dry law charge against her 16-year-old son, who was found on duty behind the bar of her establishment when state police and prohibition agents raided the place, was dismissed when dry officers said that they were satisfied that the woman was the real offender. Mrs. Gretchen was before Judge Johnson at the March term here and at that time she drew a 30-day term. She only served 10 days and then was released on probation for 18 months.

RADIO STATION FOR LEAGUE

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 22.—(AP)—The League of Nations and the Swiss government have reached an agreement whereby the League, in times of emergency, will have complete control of a wireless station for communication to all parts of the world.

Sir Eric Drummond, in behalf of the League, and Joseph Motta for Switzerland signed a convention providing for construction of this station, which in normal times will be under the direction of the Radio Swiss Company.

Sir Eric, secretary-general of the League, acted under instructions from the last assembly of the League. Officials of the body believe this means of direct and rapid communication with all member states will greatly strengthen effectiveness of the League's intervention when grave disputes threaten.

CUBA JAILS 31 IN FATAL RIOT

HAVANA, May 22.—(AP)—A round-up of persons charged with fomenting the Artemisa riots of Sunday began last night with the arrest of 18 and the issuing of informations against 56 others. The government charges all with inciting revolution.

The arrest of the 18 brings the total thus far detained to 31.

All those held are said by the government to be members of the Nacionalista. It was at a meeting of this group at Artemisa Sunday that someone shot and killed Lieutenant Alberto Silva who was in charge of troops ordered to be at the meeting. His death precipitated an exchange of shots in which six were killed and 21 wounded.

KELVINATOR'S

4-way cold means—

Two Degrees of Cold for Foods—One for milk, meats, fruits, vegetables and other perishables; another for frozen meats and fish, game, frozen fruits. ... More Ice—100% Faster Freezing of Ice and Frozen Desserts, such as sherbets, mousses and parfaits. ... Less Work—Being entirely automatic, there is nothing to control by hand, and therefore no tax on the memory. ... No Food Spoilage—The 4 different cold temperatures do their work in 4 different compartments, entirely separate from each other. Thus the main food compartment is always between 40 and 50 degrees—and never at food freezing temperature.

KELVINATOR'S AUTOMATIC 4-WAY COLD GIVES YOU

1 More Ice Automatically—De Luxe models provide more ice, size for size, than any other refrigerator. From 20 to 34 lbs. at a freezing.

2 Automatic Super-Fast Freezing—In a second compartment, a very low cold for extra-quick ice. Iso-Thermic Tubes—exclusive Kelvinator feature—give extraordinary freezing speed.

3 Automatic Cold Storage—In de luxe models a third compartment, with below-freezing cold for cold storage of meats, game, fish, ice cream, etc.

3 New Features ...

The Kelvin Cooler—An accessory for freshening vegetables and keeping them fresh. Also used as a water cooler. All-porcelain, with faucet. Fits the wide Kelvinator food shelves. New Rubber Ice Trays—Made of flexible, pure rubber. Bends easily in the hands, releasing one or a dozen ice cubes. These trays increase the usable yield of ice from 33 to 50 per cent because they prevent waste by melting under faucet. Inside Electric Light—On de luxe models, an electric light illuminates the cabinet. Switch and light indicator on front of box. A convenience that will be appreciated by every housewife.

Everyone can now own a Kelvinator—on Easy Terms—

The model Kelvinator you require may be purchased on Easy Terms through Kelvinator's attractive ReDisCo Monthly Budget Plan

AD FEDERATION NAMES HEADS

WASHINGTON May 22.—(AP)—Gilbert T. Hodges, of the executive committee of the New York Sun, last night was elected president of the Advertising Federation of America, succeeding Charles C. Younggreen.

The association elected George H. Corey, of Cleveland, vice president, succeeding Maj. P. F. O'Keefe, of Boston. William Ewald, of Detroit, was re-elected vice president and T. F. Driscoll, advertising manager of Armour & Co., succeeded W. Frank McClure, of Chicago, as secretary.

For the first time the federation elected a woman officer, choosing Miss Jeannette Carroll, of Providence, R. I., vice president in charge of women's relations. She also is chairman of the division of advertising women's clubs of the association.

As directors the federation named Younggreen, the retiring president, Bennett Chapple, Middletown, O.; Driscoll, John F. Benson and Joseph H. Appel, New York, and John C. Martin, of the Curtis-Martin newspapers, Philadelphia, all for a three-year term. Maj. O'Keefe and Lee Bristol, of New York, for a two-year term, and Don U. Bridge, Indianapolis News, and Robert Johnson, of New York, for a one-year term.

FRANKLIN GOLD MEDALS GIVEN

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—(AP.)—Sir William Henry Bragg, of London, director of the Royal Institution of Great Britain, and Dr. John F. Stevens, Baltimore, engineer, were the recipients here of Franklin gold medals, the highest award bestowed by the Franklin Institute.

The presentations were made at the Institute's annual medal day exercises.

Thirteen other awards were made, including honorary membership in the Institute to Dr. Mortimer Elwyn Cooley, dean emeritus of the University of Michigan's College of Engineering, and Dr. Henry Leffmann, of Philadelphia.

Sir William Bragg came from London for the exercises, accompanied by his daughter. He delivered an address on "The Meaning of the Crystal," and Dr. Stevens spoke on a "Momentous Hour at Panama." The award to Dr. Stevens was in recognition of his work in Panama and for his "eminent success in the location, construction and administration of railroads in this country and foreign lands."

Erie Girl Rescued From Plunge in Lake

CLEVELAND, O., May 22.—(AP.)—Margaret Regan, 31, of Erie, Pa., was rescued last night from the Cuyahoga River here after she jumped in, police say, to commit suicide.

Joseph Skrovan, of Cleveland, pulled her from the water as she sank for the third time. Firemen revived her and police took her to a hospital, where they said she told them she had attempted to drown herself because of a "family quarrel."

"Healthy babies get life's best breaks," say experts

THE first few years of the child's life—these are the important formative years when his physique (as well as his habits) gets "set." Those are the years when you want to protect his health in every way. Have a doctor look after him regularly.

And in between times, no matter how healthy he appears, be prepared for little emergencies. "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly will be a big help. It is the approved first aid for chafed skin, sunburn, minor cuts, scalds, burns and bruises.

Use it in baby's regular bath routine, too. After you dry him apply a little to prevent chapping. His nostrils should be gently cleaned with sterile cotton swabs dipped in "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly.

A separate supply of "Vaseline" Jelly should be kept for the baby, ready for instant application. Sold everywhere in tubes and bottles. And remember when you buy that the trademark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., Cons'd, 17 State Street, New York.

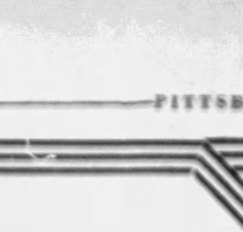
When Brides "Go to Housekeeping"—

—they need all sorts of furniture that they just hate to buy for themselves. What bride, for example, would ever come in asking for a cricket. Yet, if she was doing a bedroom in maple, she'd be mighty happy to find one at her doorstep. Below are some suggestions from a well-stocked gift-furniture section:

Crickets 1.49

Nice to use with a maple chintz-covered boudoir chair, bedroom chair or skirted cretonne living room chair.

Bridge Set 22.50



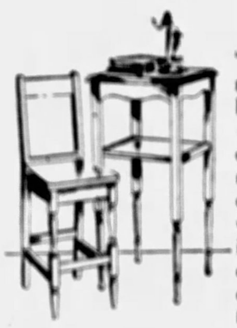
If she's the bride we think she is, she'd embrace you for such a thoughtful gift as this metal table and four chairs in red or green.

Maple Chair 4.95

For her desk, she probably wants just a splint-seat chair with candle back—a particularly good Colonial reproduction.

Maple Rocker 5.95

Companion piece to the Colonial candle-back chair, this rocker will be nice for her sewing room or bedroom. Good for the summer cottage, too.



Telephone Sets 5.50

"Young marrieds" have a lot to talk about—and she can call Henry up much more comfortably with this 30-inch table and chair. Walnut or mahogany finish.

Priscilla Cabinet 9.75

For collecting and sorting out Henry's hose, she'll certainly need this cabinet. Its top is automatic. Solid mahogany in either mahogany or walnut finish.

Gateleg End Table, 9.75

Space is usually at a premium in the first home. This table has many, many uses. It's walnut finish with maple edges; 24 inches high.

Coffee Table 19.75

Ready for the first "at home" is this "draw-out" type table—the kind that does tricks and saves space. 21 inches high. Finished in walnut.

Nest of Tables 9.75

Three glass-topped tables—the kind too convivial guests may sully without forfeiting further invitations. Nice for tea or after dinner coffee.

Crowds Should Greet These Rug Specials!

We've just received two immense groups of rugs, to sell at two special prices. We could say they're "wonderfully attractive in color," "smart and original in design," "stoutly woven for durability"—and so on. But until you saw the rugs we doubt whether you'd appreciate their unusualness at these prices.

Hollyhocks Come of Age In These Modern Sets

32 Pieces—Service for Six

Hollyhocks are old-fashioned no longer. They've been stylized, 'tis true, but their colors are clear and true—and they make a charming accent against the creamy ivory of the porcelain body. A green line around the rim of the plates adds further to beauty. And note the original "latticed" embossing.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

MURIEL WILSON, SOPRANO for the Maxwell House group, will sing Richard Kountz's "Dawn Brought Me Love and You" over KDKA at 9:30 tonight.

The only string choir on the air—a credit to the production department at KDKA—will give us a 15-minute recital at 7:15. "Blue Is the Night" will be played.

Frances Owen will dust off the pugilistic records to give a blow-by-blow account of the Dempsey-Willard championship bout, WJAS at 8.

The Birthday Party on WCAE at 9 o'clock, with Mario Chamlee, tenor, will reincarnate the life of Dolly Madison.

Muriel Wilson

Songs of Announcer John S. Young's college fraternity are to be played by Rudy Vallee tonight. The boys were classmates at Yale.

Jo and Vi are to publish a book on "Matrimonial Dilemmas."

Syd Weinschenk, Sunday edi-tor, complains that the "Stein Song" was omitted from Tuesday night programs.

Innes Harris, who has served faithfully and well in the KDKA publicity department, moves on to the Mansfield, O., research department Saturday.

* * *

There he will spend many happy hours talking radio with H. W. Arlin, who was an announcer at the "pioneer" when haywire was used for an aerial.

* * *

Simply addressed "Hello, Hello, Hello," a letter from Pensacola, Fla., reached Gene and Glenn at WTAM.

Milton Tully, debonair tenor at KDKA, must do a Thurston tomorrow night to appear on the Nixon stage in "Sweethearts" at 8:15. He will be in the KDKA studios until 8 o'clock.

Wanted — more FORD and CHEVROLET Used Tires

When You Buy a New Car

Enjoy General's Extra Safety, Comfort and Economy right from the start. We can arrange to make the change-over on your regular finance plan through your automobile dealer.

Our complete General Tire line includes the right type of tire to fit every car—4- and 6-ply Dual-Grips and the Dual-Balloon 8.

OUR stock of smaller sized used tires is unusually low due to great demands during the past week. For the coming season we need hundreds more—a special opportunity for getting that old rubber off your Ford or Chevrolet and exchanging for Generals this week.

Make that famous safety in General—the Blowout-Proof Tire—your safety—and at your price—by taking advantage of this special trade-in allowance now.

Convenient CREDIT TERMS

Our famous G.T.A.C. Payment Plan is free for your use. It's factory financed. Terms as low as 60c a week.

always the best Trade-in deal

"Trade-in" originated with General and it's a matter of pride with us that nobody can equal our liberal trade-in advantages. We do the biggest business and have the best demand for used tires. That's why we can always give you the best deal, no matter what make or size of tire you use.

Fall of the Alamo.

The story of the fall of the Alamo during Texas' heroic struggle for freedom will be told.
The drama deals with the courageous efforts of Capt. William Travis and his small band of less than two hundred men to hold the fort from the invasion of the Mexican, Santa Anna, and his greatly superior force of several thousand soldiers.
During the 11-day siege that followed, Davy Crockett, famous scout-statesman, was killed, and following this bloody annihilation, Texas issued her "Declaration of Independence."

FREE FILIPINOS HELD MENACE

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP).—Secretary Stimson today told the Senate Territories Committee he was opposed to Philippine independence because it would be disastrous to the Filipino people and create general unsettlement and of the present stabilized conditions in the Far East.

He also said it would be detrimental to American interests in the islands.

The Secretary of State was said to be testifying as a former governor general. He said he concurred in the opinion, recently expressed before the committee by Secretary Hurley, who also opposed immediate independence.

Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, Juan Sumulong, minority floor leader of the Filipino Senate, and Camilo Osias, resident commissioner, attended the hearing.

Theater Man's Son Accused in Holdup

LOS ANGELES, May 22 (INS).—Son of a well known theatrical man, Charles P. Gore, 21, already facing bank robbery charges, was accused today of helping to rob his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Paley, of New York.

Police say Gore has been identified as the man who held up the Paleys and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. Blumberg, securing $1,800 and a diamond ring valued at $15,000.

Gore is being held in the psychopathic ward for observation.

Two Boys Crushed To Death by Roller

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 22.—(INS).—A five-ton steam roller set in motion by several boys playing in the streets here caused the deaths of Harry Bono, 7, and Michael Locate, 7.

The two boys were on the wheels of the huge gasoline roller used in street repaving when playmates turned an ignition switch, starting the machine backwards. Bono and Locate were caught under the roller and crushed. They succumbed in a hospital during the night.

FEAR 100 DEAD IN SHIP FIRE

PORT SUDAN, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, May 22.—(AP).—The French steamer Asia, with 1,500 pilgrims aboard, bound for Red Sea ports, was on fire in Jeddah harbor today and it was feared 100 lives had been lost.

The fire proved uncontrollable and the ship was abandoned. This afternoon it was impossible to approach the vessel. The pilgrims were en route to Mecca, Moslem Holy City.

The steamship Asia, a vessel of 3,655 tons, left Marseilles April 5 and arrived at Jeddah on April 28, remaining on the Red Sea carrying pilgrims since then.

Walker Banquets, But Obeys Edict Of Doctor

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP).—An order from his physician is law to Mayor James J. Walker, but he has his own interpretation.

Attending a testimonial dinner for James J. Sexton, president of the Board of Taxes and Assessments, the mayor, who recently recovered from a physical breakdown, said:

"I promised my doctor that I would pack my evening clothes away until next winter."

So he attended the banquet in a business suit.

Pantages' Counsel Seek His Freedom

LOS ANGELES, May 22.—(INS).—Seeking to have his conviction set aside, attorneys for Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman, today had filed final briefs in appellate court.

Pantages was sentenced to serve from one to 50 years following conviction of attacking Eunice Pringle, young amateur dancer.

Reversal is sought on the ground the verdict was not based on evidence but the result of prejudice.

Oral argument will be heard Monday.

Reichstag Approves Young Plan Loan

BERLIN, May 22.—(AP).—A bill authorizing German participation in the scheduled Young loan plan up to $100,000,000 has passed the Reichstag on all three readings without debate.

The first loan being floated by the new Bank for International Settlements will be for $300,000,000, and $100,000,000 will go to Germany for internal improvements.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any druggist.

WAR DEBTS UP IN SENATE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Another chapter in World War history was to be written in the House today with presentation of the administration's plan for settling Germany's $420,000,000 war debt in accordance with the Young plan.

With approval forecast in the House, administration leaders were hopeful of obtaining passage in the Senate this session, and thus finally conclude war debt negotiations.

"In urging acceptance of the annuities, I think I should point out our refusal to accept them would almost inevitably involve a readjustment of the shares to be received by all other creditors," said a letter of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in the Hawley report.

The bill calls for payment by Germany of $6,026,000 for 37 years to meet army of occupation costs and $9,700,000 for 52 years to meet awards of the mixed claims commission, a total of more than $727,000,000.

The American treasury already has received $87,000,000 from Germany, which cut the total of the principal amount of both debts about $420,000,000 September 1, 1929.

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*"Moderation in diet seems to me the first and great requisite of any treatment which may be counted upon as ultimately satisfactory," says Dr. Beverley Robinson in the New York Medical Journal. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

FOREIGN TRADE SETS RECORD

LOS ANGELES, May 22.—(AP.)—Despite a considerable recent decline in activity, foreign trade for 1929 set a new record for both the United States and the world, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, told the seventeenth annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council here. Mr. Farrell, as chairman of the council, opened the convention and presided.

Mr. Farrell declared California had taken fourth place among the states as a source of American exports and that Los Angeles has shown the most startling increase in foreign trade, exports having multiplied in value 200 times in 14 years. He said:

"The international commerce of the world is passing through a period which finds no close parallel in recent years. The present rate of activity is shown to be considerably slower than that of only a few months ago. The rate of the first eight or nine months of 1929 proceeded at an unusual pace, so that despite the slackening that occurred toward the close of the year the aggregate for the full 12 months constituted a new record, both for the United States and for the world.

"Our exports for 1929 approximated five and one-quarter billion dollars. In volume they were greatest ever recorded, a fact which is emphasized by consideration of the lower commodity prices which obtained generally throughout the year."

KIDNEY TROUBLE ALARMED THIS MAN

Says Results With World's Tonic Were Most Astonishing.

"My back hurt me so from kidney trouble that I was afraid to move when I woke up in the morning, and often I would awake at night with an ache that made me feel that every muscle in the small of my back was set in a cramp," said Tommy Telford, of Parnassus, Pa., in a letter to the World's Tonic Man. "To add to my grief I was badly constipated, and soon the inactivity of my kidneys and the constipation affected my heart and stomach. I could hardly breathe after eating, and I suffered the agony of indigestion when I went to bed and the pain in my back when I was awake. Both got so bad that I was greatly alarmed. I took treatment for my kidneys and used strong cathartics to relieve the constipation. These were sometimes of temporary benefit, but as soon as I stopped their use the pains came back. Things went on this way for weeks, until I doubted if I ever would be well again.

"One nasty, rainy night I was just about to go to the drug store for a dose of physic when one of my neighbors handed me a part of a bottle of World's Tonic, in order to save me from going out. I took three doses and my bowels moved more normally than they had in months. So I began to take it regularly for the constipation. To my great surprise and satisfaction, it did as much for my kidneys as it did for my bowels, and inside of two weeks I had no pain and my bowels moved regularly twice a day. The results were most astonishing. I did not suffer from my kidneys and I felt better in every way. I could not believe the effects would be permanent, but it is now several months since I have suffered, and with an occasional dose as I feel the need of it I am as well as any man has a right to be.

"I do not hesitate to recommend World's Tonic for the general toning up of kidneys and bowels, and firmly believe it is the best possible aid to anyone who suffered as I did." World's Tonic is sold by Dow's, Stay's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and all other first class drug stores. 1A-28a

COURT PONDERS CHARITY WILL

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP).—Decision was reserved by Surrogate James A. Foley on motions to dismiss the objections to the will of the late Conrad Hubert, flashlight manufacturer, who left $6,000,000 to be distributed by Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald to charity.

The objections were filed by Joseph Horwich, a brother, who claimed the will was invalid in that it named no specific charity.

C. Betram Plante, one of the executors, filed an answer today, citing that the law requires no definite beneficiary to be named when the gift is for educational, charitable or benevolent purposes.

He moved to dismiss the objection and requested a judicial decree continuing the will in trust and another attesting the validity of the bequest.

O. B. Jones, Chicago Millionaire, Divorced

WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Constance Bridges Jones was granted a divorce here from Owen Barton Jones, one of Chicago's wealthiest men, on grounds of desertion by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in Circuit Court.

Jones did not contest the suit. Mrs. Jones' attorney said a financial settlement had been made out of court and there was no alimony order. A report was current in the courtroom that Mrs. Jones will receive more than $1,000,000. Mrs. Jones is a member of the Bridges family of Boston, Mass.

ORDERED HOME, RUSS ENDS LIFE

WICHITA, Kan., May 22.—(AP.)—Rather than obey an order from the Soviet government to return to Russia, V. A. Hatchatouroff, 37, sent to this country to study oil refining methods, committed suicide here yesterday.

A translation of two notes left by Hatchatouroff revealed that he hated the Soviet government, for which he worked as an industrial research student, and preferred death as an exile in America to a return to Russia while the present government is in power.

He fired a bullet into his head in his hotel room. He had lived here under the name of Roffia.

One of the suicide notes read in part:

"Beg pardon of the United States for crime of committing suicide here. The people responsible for this act are in the Soviet government of Russia—the country I love so dearly.

"These people put obstacles in my way for helping my loved Russia. They are the ones blocking the large future of Russia. I committed a wrong act by not going back when I was called. But I did not want to go back to a government that is hindering my country."

Information from officials in New York of the Amtorg Trading Company, official purchasing agents of the Soviet government, said that Hatchatouroff came to the United States last July with a group of engineers of the Groznest oil trust. The others of the party left the country last November.

RUM JURY OUT, WITNESS SLAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—(INS.)—While a Federal Court jury was deliberating last night in a liquor conspiracy case, Melville G. Sturtevant, star government witness, and Mrs. Grace Arnold Berri, wife of one of the defendants, were "taken for a ride."

Sturtevant was killed and Mrs. Berri was wounded. The shooting occurred at Tomales Beach, and Vincent Lucchi, racketeer and ex-convict, was sought as their assailant.

Mrs. Berri, taken to a hospital, said she and Sturtevant were invited to drive to a ranch at Tomales by Lucchi. After a walk on the beach, Lucchi, according to Mrs. Berri, shot Sturtevant, then wounded her and fled in the automobile.

The liquor conspiracy case, now in the hands of a jury, involved Arnold Berri, husband of the wounded woman. The defendants were accused of operating a still.

Sturtevant pleaded guilty and turned government witness.

FRENCH MOVE FROM GERMANY

MAYENCE, Germany, May 22.—(AP.)—The French Army of Occupation last night appeared to have been transformed into one big moving and hauling concern.

Apparently the military authorities are convinced that speedy evacuation of the Rhineland is desired by the home government as well as the Germans. As a result even the daily drill of the soldiers has been given up. And while "squads right" is forgotten the men in horizon blue are heaving military equipment on railroad cars and trucks for the homeward trip to France.

The indications are that the palatinate will be virtually free of troops in 10 days. Bingen was evacuated yesterday and Ludwigshafen is scheduled to be clear May 28. Other occupied towns will be left as rapidly as the railroads are able to handle outgoing materials and men.

The German press is not giving prominence to the homeward movement, so far being content with brief news paragraphs.

Two Boys Crushed To Death by Roller

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 22.—(AP.)—Two 7-year-old boys were crushed to death last night beneath the wheels of a five-ton cement roller near their home. The victims were Michael Licata and Harry Bono. Licata and Bono were playing on the roller after the workmen had left for the night. One of the lads started the machine in reverse and it ran over the two boys before they could leap aside.

Stunning Sports Frock

Pattern 1928

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

The popularity of dots increases as the season advances, and they are particularly lovely when used with models such as we present today. The pointed bodice and skirt yokes straighten in back to becoming lines. The sleeveless bodice is a favorite for spring and summer and the skirt is flared for grace and freedom.

Pattern 1928 is perfectly adorable fashioned of wash silk, dotted pique or shantung and trimmed with ribbon bows and belt the color of the dots. Chic color schemes are white with red, blue, green or yellow dots; pastel grounds with black, brown or navy dots; yellow and brown or opaline pink and brown.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send 15 CENTS in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is 15 CENTS, but only 10 CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 2 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.

CANNON NEARS VINDICATION

DALLAS, Tex., May 22.—(AP.)—Complete vindication for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., storm center at the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today lacked only the final step—his re-election as chairman of the church board of temperance and social service.

The strength of the temperance bishop, successively accused of unchristian actions by participating actively in the 1928 presidential campaign and by gambling on the stock market, was shown yesterday in an unexpected fight on the conference floor. The conference then overruled Bishop Collins Denny, the presiding officer, to extend a vote of confidence.

It appeared likely Cannon's final test would come today or tomorrow when the temperance committee, headed by Josephus Daniels, makes its nominations report.

France to Create Republic in Syria

PARIS, May 22.—(AP.)—France today gave a republican constitution to all of mandated Syria except the state of Lebanon, which already is a republic.

The action sets up a regime previously fashioned by the Syrian Constituent Assembly, but limits it by retaining for France the full authority of maintaining order, defending the country and regulating foreign affairs.

BATTLE FACES MACDONALD

LONDON, May 22.—(AP.)—The ministry of J. Ramsay MacDonald, second Labor government in the history of Great Britain, girded itself today for a battle for its existence.

It was expected that at a meeting of the Parliamentary Labor Party this evening the Prime Minister will ask for a vote of confidence in the ministry's unemployment program. Failing to achieve it, he probably will ask King George to dissolve Parliament and then will take the question to the country.

The situation is the outgrowth of the resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley, Labor convert from Conservative and Independent ranks, as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, after Mr. MacDonald and the ministry had failed to endorse plans put forward by Sir Oswald for handling of unemployment.

AUTHOR'S WIFE IN LOVE SUIT

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Julia Hamilton, who was secretly divorced more than a year ago from Cosmo Hamilton, English author, was sued yesterday for alleged alienation of affections.

Mrs. Nina Caracciolo Satar-Kahn, New York dancer, charged that Mrs. Hamilton enticed her husband, once an officer in the Russian imperial army, by a promise of a profitable business career which she guaranteed through her social position. The dancer said Satar-Kahn left her last January.

Cosmo Hamilton, coming here on a visit recently, announced he had been divorced more than a year ago in Paris.

Waste of Water Laid to Bathtub Vocalists

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP.)—Singing in the bathtub is to Alderman E. J. Kaindl a flagrant waste of good water.

The alderman and his committee have been investigating the water situation. In the committee report, just made public, Alderman Kaindl mentions that bathroom baritones, tub tenors and bathing bassos are responsible for the waste of a lot of water and one of the reasons Chicagoans use more water per capita than any other city in the world.

Kaindl professed to see no musical advantage in the practice that would offset the economic waste. He did not come right out and suggest that bathroom ballads be curtailed, but his meaning was unmistakable.

LIKELY TO DROP POWER CASE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(INS.)—Shunted from the White House to various government departments, the charges preferred against F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, probably will be pigeon-holed in the Department of Justice.

Today it received an opinion on the case from the federal attorney here, and, it was announced, the prosecutor recommended against court action.

Mrs. Minnie L. Ward, suspended clerk of the commission, jointly accused with Bonner and F. W. Griffith, chief clerk, with "destroying or concealing" letters from the files which were purported to be power company indorsements of Bonner for his present post.

Mrs. Ward was suspended for insubordination after she had hurled six eggs at Griffith, earlier in the year.

EX-POSTMASTER WINS PAROLE

William A. Boyle, Jr., former postmaster at Bakerstown, was paroled for two years by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today after he entered a plea to forging a registry receipt for $316. Restitution had been made, the court was told.

Charged with rifling parcel post bundles and stealing merchandise at the Lock No. 4 branch postoffice, Charleroi, Gordon W. Frank, 21, of Charleroi, was sentenced to three years in Atlanta penitentiary by Judge Schoonmaker after Frank pleaded guilty.

Last December, according to the records, Frank completed a three-year prison term for the robbery of the Grey's Landing postoffice.

TONIC QUALITIES OF KONJOLA ARE HIGHLY PRAISED

Grateful Man Says He Eats Better —Sleeps Better—Has Gained 12 Pounds Since Taking Konjola

Still they come . . . enthusiastic indorsements of the new and different medicine, Konjola, from all sections of Pittsburgh and surrounding communities. Only a medicine of outstanding merit, a medicine that makes good, would such vast numbers of Pittsburgh men and women voluntarily indorse.

Among recent indorsements of this new medicine is one from Mr. Louis LaLonde, who lives at 1236 Sheffield street, Pittsburgh, and who called upon the Konjola Man a short time ago to praise the tonic qualities of Konjola. In addition to its virtues as a supertonic, Konjola has won thousands of amazing victories over the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and over rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola contains not a single harmful drug, and it will not stop pain instantly, but, if taken with regularity, will bring relief in a natural way. A treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended. But call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, and hear the entire story of this remarkable medicine. Hear of cases like that of Mr. LaLonde, who said to the Konjola Man:

"I owe a great deal to Konjola, for it has made life seem worth living again. This wonderful tonic has strengthened and built me up in every way. Before I started taking Konjola I was in a badly weakened condition. For several years my appetite had been poor and my sleep restless. I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's rest. I was bothered by night sweats that would leave me exhausted, and I became very nervous and irritable. I never ate any breakfast, and had very little appetite at any time. The days seemed very long and I had to force myself to work.

"Recently I was doing some remodeling in one of Dow's drug stores, and I told the manager about my condition. He suggested that I try Konjola, and I did so. In less than a month I was sleeping soundly, without night sweats, and eating my meals with relish. It was two months ago that I started to take Konjola, and in that time I have gained back 12 pounds of my lost weight. I feel better in every way. I can sincerely recommend this splendid medicine to all who need something to build up their strength and energy.

Konjola has won and kept a million friends just by doing what it is designed to do. Konjola makes good. That's why it makes friends.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

FREE SAMPLES GIVEN on the Konjola Man. Konjola is on sale at all Dow stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Bandits Drive Away In Auto of Victim

C. T. Deike, of 1028 Sheridan street, reported to police today that he was robbed of his automobile and a purse containing $1.50 while driving in the 800 block of North Beatty street. Two armed men, he says, ordered him to pull into the curb and leave the auto, in which they drove away.

M. J. Knutt was held up by an armed Negro in Elm street, near Pasture street, and robbed of $8, he reported.

BANKER SPEAKS TO CREDIT MEN

Facts assembled scientifically for an industry provide business its greatest asset, Craig Hazelwood, of Chicago, told members of the National Electrical Credit Association opening their two-day convention today in the William Penn Hotel.

L. W. Lyons

Two hundred members were in attendance for programs including business and social sessions. The national board will meet tomorrow night at the close of the convention to elect officers. J. H. Lecour, of New York City, is president, and F. P. Vose, Chicago, secretary.

Charles P. Lang, assistant city solicitor, welcomed the members on behalf of Mayor Charles H. Kline. L. W. Lyons, credit manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and general convention chairman, opened the meeting. Following annual reports, Mr. Hazlewood, former president of the American Bankers' Association, spoke. David M. Trilling, of Philadelphia, was the second speaker.

A golf tournament was held this afternoon. The annual banquet tonight featured an address by Dr. Frank M. Surface, United States Department of Commerce.

Sweden's Census Gain Held Low

STOCKHOLM, May 22.—(AP.)—Sweden has just finished a census and the final figures show that the population is 6,120,080. During 1929 the number increased 14,890, which is considered an exceptionally low figure. Of the major cities, Stockholm showed the largest gain and will probably have more than half a million population by the end of the current year.

FREIGHT RATE BATTLE LINES LAID

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

Senator Jimmy Coyne's name being the name on most politicians' lips these days, there is a recent story about him worth telling. With his brother he dropped into a high-class automobile agency and asked to look at a car priced at more than $4,000. The two Coynes had just been out to their farm and were dressed not for sumptuous agencies, but for the soil.

The salesman was dubious, for he was convinced that his visitors were in the used-car class. However, the Senator glanced at a seven-passenger touring car, noted its long, smooth lines and told the salesman—just like that—he'd take it. From his soiled trousers he took a roll of bills, counted out $4,500 and drove off in the car.

A week later Ben Anderson, Commissioner Babcock's secretary, was at a filling station when he saw the Coyne limousine, rather laden with dust, pulling alongside. In the car with the Senator was his brother, one hand caressing the pipe he was smoking and the other hand holding safely—a calf.

Variety is the spice of life, we always say. Yesterday a gentleman called up to tell us how to cash bad checks and while we were listening the office boy handed us a letter from another gentleman who was complaining that in McKeesport there are no signs to indicate the names of the streets. Until these interruptions we had intended calling Pitt to learn how many floors there would be in the Cathedral of Learning, but suddenly we lost interest. If Chancellor Bowman, who is Sidewalks' favorite educator, will tell us in confidence, we promise to preserve the secret. That would be a choice morsel of gossip, wouldn't it?—to know how many floors there'll be in the Cathedral of Learning.

Mr. Perry Null, the restaurateur, was able to take a humorous view of the taxicab drivers' strike. Many of Mr. Null's patrons are taxicab drivers, and from his restaurant he distributed advertising cards which depicted unerring young men enthusiastically tossing something or other at moving cabs.

"Nothing like exercise to work up a good appetite," Mr. Null advertised.

At 5 o'clock in the morning on the day after election Senator Harris dropped into the Sun-Telegraph looking for election news and conversation. And he had this to say:

"Election days aren't quite what they used to be. It's not hard to remember years ago when we'd all get together on election nights and drift from one newspaper office to the other. We'd read the returns and then we'd talk about earlier campaigns. We'd visit all the editors, who were always in their offices all night. In Alex Moore's office we'd all have lunch. Those were pleasant times."

School Children Visit Kennywood

Schools of Wilkinsburg and Pitcairn were to hold their annual outings at Kennywood Park today. Sports, games, amusements and refreshments were on the program of the day's diversion. L. R. Hagan is in charge.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 22.—Every once in a while somebody or some state accidently passes a good law. New York State has just passed one that makes it unlawful for anyone to stand in the roadway and ask for a ride in an auto.

Half of America looks like they are standing waving at the other half to take 'em somewhere. They don't care where. You can turn around and go back the other way. A hitch-hiker won't care. They don't know anymore where they are going than people in automobiles do.

There must be something the matter with this fellow Judge Roberts of the Supreme Court. The Senate passed him unanimously. He must be queer, he can't be human.

WILL.

SONGS CONTEST ENTRANTS TRY TELEPATHY

Call Upon 'Mental Marvel' At Harris Theater, and He Obliges With Tunes Sought

Here's something new. It might be called "three-way mental telepathy" or "mental telepathy by remote control." What's it?

Mercedes, styled the "mental marvel," is giving his audiences at the Harris Theater an unusual thrill this week. Without exception there has not been a performance where somebody in the audience did not ask for the name of the song in the Sun-Telegraph daily "Old-Time Songs Contest" now creating widespread interest because it offers $25.00 every day in cash prizes and 10 pairs of theater tickets for the Warner Brothers' de luxe theaters.

Last night more than a score of persons in the audience when asked to write the name of a song on a slip of paper which was to be played by Mercedes' pianist, without having seen the paper, stated that they wanted a certain song, that they didn't know the name of the song, but the name was hidden in a Quin Hall cartoon in the Sun-Telegraph contest.

This unusual question didn't disturb Mercedes for a second. He signalled the pianist and she, without hesitation, played the familiar song represented by the cartoon, although Mercedes did not disclose the title of the melody. The song was so well known that this was not necessary.

Mercedes will do this at every performance up to and including Friday night and wagers $1,000.00 that he won't make a mistake. He said last night that he had not seen the cartoons in the contest until after the request for the name of the contest song that was made from the audience.

GIRL UNAFRAID

Sight of Ardeth With Tom Makes Ken Jealous

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Cecile's voice was low and it shook with anger.

"Don't keep throwing that up to me—making that the excuse to tyranize!"

"Oh, no one's trying to tyranize over you, Cecile," Ken's voice was weary. He crossed to her and put a hand gently on her shoulder. "Dear, I know you're all upset, but please try to be calm. I'm only thinking for you—"

"Calm!" Her face was convulsed. "I'm trying to forget the damn thing! And if I can go to Coralie's house party and forget it for a while, I'm going!"

"But, Cecile," he said, patiently, "it isn't that I don't want you to have any pleasure. It isn't even that I don't like Coralie. But you know what it will mean if you go there. Drinking—and dancing. You know the doctor said—"

She flung off his hand. "Don't you quote the doctor at me! I don't give a single pin for you or the doctor—no, nor the damn baby. It had no right to come! I don't want it! It's unfair—unfair—"

Two hectic spots burned in her cheeks. Storms raged in her eyes.

He fought to keep his own temper. "Well . . . let's forget it, dear. I don't want to get you excited. Anyway, we don't have to decide now."

"Oh, we don't!" she mocked. "Well, we will! I'll show you I've decided. I'm going to run down to Coralie's today, and I'm going alone! And I'll come back when I please and not before!" She rang the bell for the maid and when the girl appeared she curtly ordered her to pack the grips.

Ken Troubled
Cecile's Remarks Hurt His Pride

But in the living room Ken paced the floor scowling and uncertain. No use trying to stop her. They'd had too many of these scenes lately. Cecile would only fly into a tantrum . . . get herself all worked up . . . the doctor said to keep her calm. Let her have her own way. . . .

Little by little the surroundings of the room crept in on his thoughts. Shaded lamps, priceless vases, expensive hangings . . . Oriental rugs glowing like jewels under foot, dark and rich. He looked at them sardonically. They gave an illusion of comfort which vanished before him like water before the thirsty Tantalus.

Suddenly he was stifling in their richness . . . He snatched up his hat. Went to the garage for his car.

His own car . . . something of his own, bought with his money. The thought was comforting. His conscience pricked him. That was small, perhaps . . . just because Cecile had money he shouldn't begrudge her the use of it. But hang it all, the way she did it—the things she said, hurt a man's pride.

He found himself remembering this latest discord. Coralie Gaines was a rather notorious divorcee. Her summer home had gained glittering fame for its hilarious parties and the high stakes of its bridge games.

Sees Ardeth
She Rides Away With Tom Corbett

Well, Cecile could afford to lose a few hundred if she would be such a fool. But the drinking—and the dancing . . . Ken's brows drew together nervously. The doctor had warned her . . . A child. How strange, that he and Cecile would have a child. Cecile who frankly disliked all children . . .

Rather a dreadful responsibility to bring a new—and perhaps unwilling—soul into the world. Underneath that cool self-possession, did Cecile feel something of this awestruck pity he knew?

If she did, she hid it well. The discovery of her condition had promptly flung her into hysterics. She was frantic with alarm and dislike. Her temper, always uncertain, became more than usually capricious. She made it an excuse for self-indulgence.

While he was thinking this, Ken had been idly driving through the morning sunlight along streets oddly deserted for Sunday. Now he found, with a leap of his heart, that he had unconsciously been obeying old habit. Half a block away, was Ardeth's hotel.

A smothered excitement stirred in his mind. The longing to see her again swept down upon him. If he could only roll past the last few months. To be again where he was before his mother's illness. How many times he had driven down this street on a Sunday morning to find Ardeth waiting for him before the hotel.

Sitting here in the car with him, slender and lovely. Golden eyes meeting his own with such warm frankness. Dear bright hair—the joyousness of her . . .

His heart leaped and for a moment he had the sensation of moving through a dream.

Ardeth—that was Ardeth standing before the hotel entrance. Slim white coat, white felt hat pulled down over her eyes—Ardeth!

He was reaching for the brakes when she suddenly crossed the pavement.

And then Ken saw, what he had been too excited to notice before. Tom Corbett's roadster drawn up to the curb. Tom, smiling into the girl's eyes as he opened the door of the car. Ardeth got in and they drove away. Neither of them had seen Ken.

Jealousy
Houseboat Visit Brings Back Memories

Ken took his bitter thoughts over to the duck shack. The silence of a summer day brooded over the salt marsh. His own footsteps alone woke a lonely echo as he walked down the plank to the little houseboat basking in the sunshine.

He flung himself on the faded cushions piled on the rattan couch and lay there smoking and staring over the empty miles.

Smell of warm mud and warm saw-grass. The soft lipping of the incoming tide on the planks. Above all, an empty grey-blue sky bending in arching loneliness. There was peace of a kind, here. A grey-colored peace, tinged with resignation.

No resignation in Ken's heart, though. He was burnt up with unbearable jealousy at the memory of Ardeth getting into Tom's car.

Ardeth . . . His girl. . . . Everything over here spoke of her, turning the knife in the wound. On this couch he had first kissed her . . . A year ago—only a year ago and she had been here with him, the sun gleaming on her hair; warm and sweet in his arms . . . That golden Sunday only a year ago! And now he had not even the right to dream of her . . .

SCOUTS UNDER DAVID BENJAMIN COUNTING TRAFFIC AT SIXTH AND GRANT

A scene at any one of scores of downtown corners today as Boy Scouts under their leaders, traffic engineers and police heads conducted a thorough check of traffic movement.

TRAFFIC COUNT CAUSES JAMS

Vehicular traffic entering the downtown limits today was checked from 22 points for origin and destination with tie-ups of auto traffic resulting at many places, particularly at The Point and the bridges.

Police aided 1,600 Boy Scouts and members of the city traffic planning bureau to conduct the fifth annual count. Checking began at 6 a. m. and will continue until midnight. Those in charge were Acting Traffic Engineer Donald M. McNeil, Assistant Superintendent of Police Ben R. Marshall and scout executives.

Tags were issued to all motorists as they entered the downtown section. These records were lifted by the counters as the machines departed from downtown. The extensive study sought to determine the quantity and direction of traffic flow in the beiness district, the North Side and East Liberty sections. Pedestrian traffic also was being counted.

The tie-ups occurred during the morning peak hours.

Woman Asks $10,000 In False Arrest

Ida M. Kimberly, 711 Middle street, who claims Policeman Walter D. Shelton arrested her June 4, 1928, without just cause, has brought suit against the officer for $10,000 damages. The plaintiff says she ordered the defendant out of her home and that he put the handcuffs on her and took her to the police station. The next day Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court discharged her.

Services to Be Held For G. W. Overbeck

M.; New Castle Consistory, Syria Temple and Brashear Lodge, I. O. O. F. He was a member of the Aliquippa Presbyterian Church. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Marie McKissock Overbeck, and his mother, Mrs. Amanda Overbeck, of Pittsburgh.

Boy on Scooter Injured by Auto

Jackie Smith, 5, of 319 Third avenue, Carnegie, today was in Mercy Hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull sustained, police said, when struck by an automobile driven by Edward Kapinski, 17, of 28 Ash street Glendale, last night. The accident occurred, police were told, when the boy attempted to cross Third street, Carnegie, on a scooter. Kapinski crashed into a telephone pole in an effort to avoid striking the lad. Kapinski was arrested, but released later under bond, pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

Small Boys Rescue Chum From Water-Filled Pit

In the Columbus School today, Harold Jackson, 7, of 1822 Charles street, was telling classmates of his rescue by two companions from a water-filled sewer in Irwin avenue into which he fell last night.

Harold and the two chums, William Montgomery, 10, of 1904 Irwin avenue, and Steve Dezurko, 9, of 1906 Irwin avenue, were playing ball in the street near their homes. Young Jackson sat down on the curb sewer, the lid of which had fallen. He fell backwards into the water.

Plans for Presenting Case To Public Service Board Made at Chamber Meet

Pittsburgh district steel producers and consumers met at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday to lay plans for presenting testimony in their fight against increases in short-haul freight rates.

Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the Chamber of Commerce, stated following the meeting that 40 complaints against the rate increases have been filed by Pittsburgh companies whose competitive position will be seriously impaired.

The meeting was attended by 15 traffic representatives. A steering committee was appointed to obtain a summary of the testimony to be presented by each complainant. Arrangements will then be made to eliminate unnecessary duplication of evidence.

The steering committee consists of Moore, chairman; Charles Donley, J. E. Duffy, F. W. Hass, R. H. Reese and C. W. Crust.

The committee will hold its first meeting within about a week.

The increased freight rates on short hauls were placed in effect on May 20. The Public Service Commission is expected to set a date for the hearing about June 16.

TRADE GROUPS IN SESSION

More than 100 delegates representing trade, civic and commercial bodies were to meet at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Commercial Secretaries Associatnon today in the Chamber of Commerce. The convention is to be in session until Saturday afternoon. The meeting will be opened by A. V. Snell, president of the state organization and secretary of the local chamber.

Mr. Snell will speak on the problems pertinent to the work of commercial bodies in promoting, protecting and developing commerce in the various communities of the state. The principal speaker at the meeting today was to be Ralph Bradford, of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Tonight there will be a surprise party for delegates and their wives in the chamber auditorium. Later the women will attend a theater party and the men will hold a smoker in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Officers Elected By Keystone Club

The Keystone Athletic Club elected officers at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday in the club rooms. They are E. H. Eggleston, president; James B. Kelly, vice president; Harry H. Hunter, secretary, and J. C. M. White, treasurer.

President Eggleston enters his sixth year as head of the Keystone Club, having been president since its inception.

Motorcycle Rider Injured in Plunge

Paul McKnight, 23, of 312½ Walnut street, West Homestead, today was in Homestead Hospital suffering from a fracture of the skull sustained when the motorcycle he was riding went down an embankment last night. The accident occurred at Seventh and Eighth avenues, West Homestead. McKnight was thrown head first on a side track of the Pennsylvania Railroad, police said.

Batchelor Speaks On Regional Parks

Dublin Teacher Talks Here On Irish Culture

The romance of old Ireland, before the Christian era, its cultural developments and drawbacks by war were pictured last night by Eoin MacNeill, professor of history at the National University, Dublin. His address in the lecture hall of Carnegie Institute dealt with a new organization, an Irish Culture Society, which will be formed to present similar talks and musicals.

After tracing the conception of the Gaelic back to the Druids, the development through the centuries before Christ, and until the wars with the Norsemen halted the growth of Irish culture, Prof. MacNeill discussed modern Ireland. He said the ancient language was returning to the tongue of the people, although not without difficulty; that all the universities and schools had adopted it and that songs are being written and sung in it.

A program of old Irish music was given by Eoin O'Broichain, who sang in the ancient tongue, and Mrs. Edward P. Riehl, with Miss Alberta Yeaglin at the piano. William J. Balfe presided.

6 DEFENDANTS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES

$2,300 in Fines Assessed By Federal Court Judges; Probations Total 11 Years

At the first day's session of criminal trials of the present term of the Federal District Court, 19 defendants pleaded guilty to violations of the prohibition law. Six were given jail sentences, and the others were fined or placed on probation by Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker.

The fines aggregated $2,300 and the probations, ranging from one to two years, totalled 11 years.

The most severe sentence, six months in jail and a $500 fine, was imposed on Charles F. Smith, who admitted selling and possessing contraband and maintaining a common nuisance in a club on Cayou way. Albert Miller was sentenced to two months to jail for selling liquor and maintaining a common nuisance in the Hotel Uberli, 108 East General Robinson street.

A two-month jail sentence was imposed on Henry J. Kearns for maintaining a nuisance at 538 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks. Domenick Cornelio, of Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty of possessing and manufacturing moonshine and was sentenced two months to jail and fined $200. Walter Eglisdorf, of Pittsburgh, was sentenced two months to jail for unlawful manufacture. Joseph Bird, Pittsburgh was sentenced two months to jail.

HOLD 3 AFTER ATTACK ON OFFICER

Patrolman Set Upon as He Investigates Shots Fired by One of Group

Three men who attacked a policeman investigating two shots fired by one of them on River avenue early today, were in North Side Police station charged with being suspicious persons.

They said they were John Rogan, 37, and Andy Viuckas, 33, of 1102 River avenue, and Joe Vack, 38, of 1112 River avenue.

Traffic Policeman E. S. Voegler, who lives nearby, was awakened by the shots fired near his home, and went to investigate. He found the three men in front of 1102 River avenue. When he attempted to arrest them, he said, they jumped upon him.

Neighbors notified North Side Station, and additional police were sent to the scene. In the fight Viuckas suffered cuts on the head which sent him to Allegheny General Hospital for treatment.

Police said the shooting was done by Vack, who fired a revolver at two men who were arguing half a block away.

Racketeers Shoot Wealthy Builder

NEW YORK, May 22.—(INS.)—Albert J. Schwarzler, 59, multi-millionaire and one of the most prominent builders in the Bronx, was shot and critically wounded today by three young gangsters as he entered his car in front of his home.

His assailants, believed by police to be building racketeers, fled. Detectives questioned him, but he is said to have given little information.

Working Hour Clash Prompts Divorce Suit

Her husband worked late, the wife went to work early and they could not hit it, so Henry A. Wensel, of Elliott, told Judge James B. Drew in asking the court to divorce him from Grace L. Wensel, of Wabash avenue. There were numerous squabbles regarding their working hours interfering with each other and finally he says the wife deserted him.

Mother Asks $25,000 For Son's Eyesight

James Green, by his mother, Lettie Green, has brought suit for $25,000 damages against William Herdman for the loss of the sight of her son's right eye and other hurts when the lad was run down by the defendant's machine at Reddour and Eloise streets. The boy, who is 9, was roller skating at the time and was crossing Reddour street when the accident occurred.

Synod of Toronto Favors Civil Marriages

TORONTO, Ont., May 22.—(AP.)—The Toronto Synod of the Church of England in Canada adopted a resolution favoring establishment of civil marriages in Ontario.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 111 to 86 after rejection of a plea by Bishop James Sweeny that the question be left to the executive.

Canon H. O. Plumptre, of St. James Cathedral, spoke in favor of the resolution.

"It does not seem right to us," he said, "that men and women who want to be married should be compelled to go through a religious ceremony."

DETROIT MAYOR FACES RECALL

DETROIT, May 22.—(AP.)—A citizens' committee, including a number of persons who supported Mayor Charles Bowles for election last fall, today was ready to circulate petition for recall of the executive. The petitions contained 12 charges against the Mayor.

The move to recall Mayor Bowles followed his dismissal of Police Commissioner Harold H. Emmons, whom he appointed slightly more than four months ago. One of the charges against the Mayor is that he discharged Emmons for "ordering enforcement of the law."

Although dismissal of Emmons is regarded as having precipitated the recall move, the petition also alleges that the Mayor "substituted secrecy for frankness in public business" and "seeks to weld street railway and other city employes into a political machine."

SOVIETS SCORN BRIAND PLAN

MOSCOW, May 22.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia sees in Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's proposal for a federation of European countries a direct attempt to "offset the influence of the United States in Europe, as a counterweight to the Kellogg pact and an effort to combat Bolshevism."

This is the view expressed today by Izvestia, Soviet mouthpiece:

"France thinks Europe must unite against the American dollar on one hand and the destructive forces of the Soviet union on the other.

"M. Briand's Pan-European scheme is simply an attempt to establish French hegemony in continental Europe, to block the American advance."

House Passes Bill For Foreign Clerks

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Linthicum bill to grade and classify clerks in the government foreign service, with a general upward revision of salaries, was passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

The Eaton bill to provide living quarters, including heat, light and fuel for civilian officers and employes of the government stationed in foreign countries, was then passed and sent to the Senate.

Vocation Lecture Given at Duquesne

The first of a series of lectures on "Vocational Guidance" was given yesterday to women students of Duquesne University by the Very Rev. M. A. Hehir, president of the university. The lectures will close next week for the 150 co-eds. Co-operating with the president in the presentation of the lectures is Miss M. Gertrude Blanchard, dean of women.

216 BOYS, NUNS ESCAPE FIRE

MILWAUKEE, May 22.—(AP.)—The 190 small boys and 26 nuns at St. Aemilian's Orphanage of the St. Francis Order trooped down the fire escape in their night clothes shortly after 1 a. m. today as fire destroyed the $350,000 building.

Though the fire broke out in the dead of night when all were asleep, none was killed or injured.

An automobile party discovered the fire. They hurled bricks through the windows to arouse the nuns and children. The sisters took charge of the children and directed them without panic to the fire escapes and safety.

Firemen from Milwaukee were called to aid the volunteer firefighters who answered the first alarm. The orphanage is on the campus of St. Francis Seminary, just outside the Milwaukee city limits.

All the boys at the orphanage are under 15 years of age. They were asleep on the second and third floors of the four-story brick and frame building.

The Rev. Joseph Korha, superintendent of the orphanage, was ill and not present. The Rev. Joseph Baier, acting superintendent, supervised the rescue.

Other buildings on the St. Francis Seminary were endangered.

LABEL FORGERY CHARGED

Fred W. Rose, alias Rosenthal, of 5151 Butler street, will be arraigned before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan Friday for his alleged forging of copyrighted labels of a popular brand of malt extract.

His arrest was caused by representatives of a malt extra company of Cincinnati. He was held under $4,000 bond pending hearing.

Income Tax Takes Half Peer's Income

LONDON, May 22.—(AP.)—Lord Melchett turns over half his income to John Bull and spends at least six months of the year working for nothing at all, he told the Society of British Advertisers. He was referring to the income tax.

'East Side' Drink Name Battle Settled

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(INS.)—Memories of pre-Volstead days, of beer-with-a-kick, and Al Smith's presidential campaign of 1928 were brought back today in a decision of the United States Patent Office as to the use of "East Side" as a trademark name for malt syrup, near beer and fruit juices.

The patent office held that the Los Angeles Brewing Company, of Los Angeles, had the right to use "East Side" as its trade name for malt syrup and other products, and prohibited the use of that name by Delfino Damonte, of Oakland, Cal.

The brewing company, after Damonte had applied for the use of the registered name "East Side" for a malt syrup, claimed prior adoption of the name and consequent ownership of the same notation on beverages including beer, near-beer and certain fruit juices.

House on Wheels Hits Trolley, Overturns

John Warnon Orr's house on wheels was overturned yesterday in a collision with a street car at Federal and South Diamond streets. Orr, of Shreveport, La., escaped unhurt, but Mrs. Odell Orr, 23, who was riding with him, was slightly injured and treated at Allegheny General Hospital. Passengers in the street car, operated by Peter Suman, were shaken up.

COUNCIL GIVEN DEPOT PAPERS

Reports on the proposed agreement ordinance between the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad, relative to the railroad's terminal improvements, were received by Council yesterday. The only actions taken were motions to furnish interested parties, including public utilities, with copies.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and C. M. Reppert, acting head of the Public Works Department, later conferred with Council. Mr. Reppert suggested that some consideration be given in the ordinance to the need at some future time for an approach to the proposed North Side highway bridge.

DUQUESNE TO REPEAT SHOW

The annual Duquesne University student theatrical production "Wedding Slippers" will be repeated in the campus theater tomorrow night, as a result of a popular vote taken among the audience last night. It is planned to take the student company for road performances in towns within a 100-mile radius of Pittsburgh following the local performances.

Miss Loma Yates as "Aunt Millie," was the outstanding member of the student cast in the second performance last night. Other well-played parts were those of Miss Marjorie Taylor, the "mother," and Stanley F. Ebert, the "father."

Boy Hurt, Police Hunt for Autoist

Munhall police today were seeking to learn the identity of the motorist who struck and injured Andrew Dunsavage, 12, of 346 Grace street, Homestead Park, near his home last night. The boy was taken to Homestead Hospital by a stranger who failed to make known his identity, attaches said. The boy sustained internal injuries and a fracture of the right leg, according to a hospital report.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Were you surprised at the results of Tuesday's election?

MRS. THOMAS M'QUAIDE, East End, housewife: Oh, I don't know. Davis was a labor man, you know, and labor generally wins. Politics are politics. I think Davis is foolish, however, to give up a cabinet post for the Senate. Still, he probably wins in prestige.

Mrs. McQuaide

MARY DANIELS, Homestead, saleslgirl: Yes, I was surprised at Pinchot's showing. Here Pinchot has been out of office for four years while the organization crowd has been working. Brown had everything for him except Grundy — and he'd be excess baggage, just now, to any side.

Miss Daniels

C. M. M'DONALD, Grant Building: I would have sworn from the first that Davis and Pinchot had the election sewed up.

C. M. McDonald

NELLIE ZIAS, Homestead: I was surprised to see Allegheny County go for Pinchot. I didn't think the people were that tired of the gangs and their bosses. That, to me, is a sign of the coming awakening of the people and the fall of the Klines and the Armstrongs. That and the anti-dry vote, strange as it may seem, were both hopeful signs.

Miss Zias

MISS EVA ALBENSI, Turtle Creek, saleslgirl: I sure did want Pinchot to win. He is for showing up those power interests in Harrisburg.

Miss Albensi

RAYMOND ALTVATER, Bellevue, station attendant: I thought Davis and Brown were the logical candidates. Pinchot is just a glorified woodsman and Grundy a good salesman gone wrong. The anti-drys were going on a platform with one plank, backed by the Association against the Prohibition amendment, as bad lobbyists as Grundy or the Anti-Saloon League.

Harwick Woman, Hurt as Auto and Street Car Hit, Awarded Money by Jury

Mrs. Anna Arch, of Harwick, permanently hurt when a Pittsburgh Railways Company car collided with an automobile in which she was riding, won a verdict of $18,800 yesterday from the railways company.

The accident happened November 24, 1928, at Northumberland and Shady avenues. Witnesses testified that a large crowd which congregated following the accident threatened the motorman for not bringing his car to a stop more promptly.

The case was heard before Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court and was filled with interest, due partly to a clash between E. W. Langfitt, who represented the railways company, and Dr. Joseph Jackson, of the staff of the Montefiore Hospital. Dr. Jackson was for many years an examiner for the railways company, but on this occasion represented the plaintiff and her husband, Frank Arch. Ben Paul Brasley was counsel for Mrs. Arch.

WEST VIEW GAIN IN CENSUS BIG

While West View Borough gained more than 200 per cent in its population since 1920, Sharpsburg Borough suffered a slight slump, according to census returns announced today by Dr. George Metzgar, supervisor for the Allegheny County district north of the Ohio River. Brackenridge Borough and Pine Township also showed material increases.

The figures are: West View, 6,028, against 2,797 in 1320.

Brackenridge, 6,251, against 4,987 in 1920.

Leetsdale, 2,779, against 2,311 in 1920.

Sharpsburg, 8,631, against 8,921 in 1920.

Pine Township, 937, against 685 in 1920.

Sewickley Heights Township, 982, against 654 in 1920.

Reserve Township, 3,108, against 9,389. Reserve Township lost territory as a result of annexations during the decade.

MAN DIES WITH FINAL DESIRE UNFULFILLED

Louis Grodstein Wanted to Attend Wedding of His Great-Great-Grandchild

Louis Grodstein, 105, believed to be Pittsburgh's oldest citizen, died at the Montefiore Hospital last night, with one ambition unfulfilled. He had hoped to attend the wedding of his great-great-grandchild, Miss Ida Canter, 18, of Hobart street.

The end was peaceful—it was as if he fell asleep.

LED ACTIVE LIFE

Mr. Grodstein had led an active life. The Sun-Telegraph printed a picture of him last Monday, showing him putting a record on a phonograph—and a story calling attention to his fondness for dancing. Mrs. Rebecca Rosenberg, 104, was also in the picture.

Mr. Grodstein was born in Meritz, Russia, in 1825. He came to the United States at the age of 70 and had lived in Pittsburgh since. For 28 years he was a member of Sharrah Torah Synagogue and was for some years president of the congregation.

He was married twice, his second wife dying about a year ago, aged 80.

7 CHILDREN SURVIVE

He had 15 children, of whom five sons and two daughters survive—Herman and Abe Grodstein, of Pittsburgh; Sam Grodstein, of New York City; Israel Grodstein, of Hollywood, Cal.; Samuel Grodstein, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Jacob Simon and Mrs. Z. Miller, both of Pittsburgh. He leaves 72 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Mr. Grodstein is also survived by two sisters and a brother, A. Grodstein and Mrs. B. Williamson, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. C. Kubitz, who lives in Russia.

The funeral will be held from the home of Herman Grodstein on Hays street.

HEIRESS AND PLUMBER

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS MATTHEWS

The former Dolores Ford, Cincinnati heiress to a $20,000,000 glass fortune, in New York with the unemployed plumber she's reported to have married within 24 hours of her divorce from an alleged mulatto cafe entertainer. She's 24 and a Smith graduate.

SPURNS RICHES FOR POOR MAN

NEW YORK, May 22.—(AP.)—The Daily News says today that Dolores Elizabeth Ford, 24, daughter of William Ford, Toledo, O., glass manufacturer, has instructed her father to discontinue her $12,000 annual allowance and intends to live on the $35-a-week wages of her husband, a plumber's assistant.

Louis Matthews, the plumber's helper, is her fourth husband, whom she married immediately after the annulment in Buffalo, N. Y., of her marriage to Eugene Newton, a Negro cabaret employe, May 7.

The News quotes Mrs. Matthews as saying:

"I am not planning on using any of my father's money. I don't want any of it. I told daddy that I was marrying Lou and that we would live on his $35 salary. My father told me he would continue my allowance until I asked him to stop—and I have done just that. I have written to his secretary, telling him that from now on we are on our own."

Matthews said they were going to Richmond, Va., his home, where he has a job helping to put up a metal garage.

In New York the couple are occupying a $7-a-day hotel room.

VICTIM OF AUTO RECOVERING

M. W. Meister, of 230 Chalfont street, today was reported recovering in the Homeopathic Hospital from injuries suffered Tuesday when struck by an automobile in Schenley Park.

Police, reporting another accident in which a man was killed, to the coroner's office, erroneously gave the victim's name as M. W. Meister, deputy coroners explained. Morgue attaches discovered the mistake yesterday when they removed the body from Mercy Hospital. The dead man has not been identified.

MAN DIES, KIN FACE QUIZ

Seeking solution of the death from a fractured skull today of Peter Mekonis, 39, of 1326 Franklin street, North Side, homicide squad detectives announced they would question all members of his family this afternoon to obtain their versions of recent family disputes.

A son, Stanley, 19, was to be brought from the county jail to police headquarters and Mekonis' widow and daughters from their home.

Allegheny General Hospital authorities informed police Mekonis had told them he had been beaten with sticks by members of his family.

The son admitted in Morals Court Monday he had struck his father two or three times in a squabble last Tuesday, but no testimony was given of anyone having struck Mekonis early Sunday, when the father and son were arrested at their home by Patrolman R. D. Thompson. Thompson testified he had been called to the home to stop "a man beating his family." He found the elder Mekonis upstairs with a hatchet.

The elder Mekonis had not testified at the hearing, which was continued by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones until others of the family could be brought in to testify. The son was held in jail and the father sent to the hospital.

TRIO RELEASED IN POLL ROW

Charges against three members of the election board of the Second District, Fifth Ward, were dismissed by Judge James H. Macfarlane today when the prosecution failed to identify the trio.

James J. Tennyson, Negro, appointed judge of election March 20, had charged after he opened the poll Tuesday morning he was bodily thrown from the place and a successor named at a curbstone election. The information made by Tennyson named Matt Malt, D. J. and Joseph Rosenthal. Tennyson today denied the men threw him out, testifying a Louis Schwartz and others were the participants.

Girl Killed as Auto Upsets, Driver Held

WILMINGTON, Del., May 22.—(INS.)—A girl was killed and another injured today near New Castle, a few miles south of here, when the auto carrying them home from a dance left the road and overturned.

The victim was identified as Miss Mary Shaw Gordon Lennox, 20, of New Castle.

Miss Isabel Moodie, 21, of Delaware City, is in a hospital here. William Kirk, 22, of Delaware City, the driver, who escaped injury, was arrested, police said, for driving without a license.

FLINN FORCED TO BE JUROR

Ralph H. Flinn, prominent oil executive and son of the late Senator William Flinn, was doing jury duty in Common Pleas Court today after somewhat of a wrangle.

Flinn appeared in answer to a summons ordered by Judge James B. Drew, wrathful when the oil magnate failed to appear Monday for service.

Flinn was sitting as a juror in the case of Bridget Conroy, a domestic, who is suing the Pittsburgh Railways for injuries received in a trolley accident.

The wealthy juror explained to Robert J. Moore, chief clerk of courts, that he understood his secretary's earlier explanation that he, Flinn, would be out of the city on business had been accepted as an excuse.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Laura Collord to Make Her Debut at Ball On December 19

No matter how interested we may be in June brides, we are eager to hear the least bit of news about the debutantes of the coming winter, the list of which is slowly growing.

And today I have a name to add, the name of a daughter of one of Pittsburgh's most prominent families. Laura Collord is the debutante, and she is the daughter of the Gerber L. Collords, of Morewood avenue. Her mother and father will present her to society at a tea on December 19 in the Pittsburgh Club. Laura is a Dobbs Ferry girl and spent the past winter in the South.

More and more dinners are being planned for the three red letter days of June 5, 6 and 7 when the annual horse show will be held in the Allegheny Country Club show ring in Sewickley Heights.

Show Dinners

On the final day of the show the Lewis A. Parks will give a tea in their Sewickley Heights home for the exhibitors at the show.

On Friday evening, June 6, the James Francis Burkes of Devonshire street will entertain with a dinner in the Allegheny Country Club.

Another dinner will be given by the Simon Pattersons on the closing day of the show in the Allegheny Country Club. The Pattersons have a number of entries in the show, by the way.

And now I know of another June wedding at which a Sewickley girl will be a bridesmaid. Mary Cooper of Sewickley will be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Helen Cunningham Mitchell, daughter of the C. Stanley Mitchells, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Sharon, Conn., and Berkeley Daniels Johnson, son of the Arthur C. Johnsons, of Newton, Mass., which will take place at noon on Saturday, June 14. The ceremony will take place in the lovely garden of the Mitchells' summer home in Sharon, and officiating will be the Rev. Wendell Prime Keeler, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Yonkers. After the ceremony there will be a wedding breakfast.

Bridal Party

Besides Mary, the bridal party will include Mrs. Philip K. Bates, of Dayton, O., sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, and the other bridesmaids will be Nancy Hull, Marjorie Land and Catherine Kouwenhaven, of Yonkers; Harriet Anne Duell and Jacqueline James, of New York; Marian Kelly, of Natchez, Miss., and Jeanne Ward, of Clinton, Ia.

And the best man will be Robert D. Guilford, and the ushers will include Phillip K. Bates, John Knox Bodel, Jr., John Atlee Kouwenhaven, William B. Lodge, Alfred E. Longacre, Frederick V. S. Parr, Jr., Charles H. Phelps and Dudley F. Wing. And a special attendant will be Charles Stanley Mitchell, Jr.

Another wedding to grace this month of May is that of Dorothy Gleeson, daughter of the George Henry Gleesons, of South Orange, N. J., who will marry Charles Newell Fisher, son of the Charles A. Fishers, of Westminster place, on Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, in the home of the Gleesons. Officiating will be the Rev. Joseph A. Kelly, of Plainfield, N. J. And of course there will be a small reception after the ceremony.

Bride's Plans

Ruth Gleeson, sister of the bride, will be the maid of honor, and her other sister, Margaret Gleeson, will be bridesmaid.

And Howard Fisher will be his brother's best man, and another brother, Henry Fisher, will usher.

Mr. Fisher and his bride will go to the Fisher summer home in New Florence, Pa., on their honeymoon, and will live in Pittsburgh later.

The bride-elect attended Barnard College at Columbia University, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Williams College.

"Oak Hill Manor," the Wildwood, Pa., home of the George Schroeders, was the scene yesterday of a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Schroeder and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Schroeder, Jr., in honor of Helen Hoch, of Chicora, Pa., who will become the bride of the Schroeders' son, William Schroeder, on Saturday, June 7.

Give Bridge

The home, situated on top of a wooded hill, was decorated with rhododendrons and a profusion of garden flowers. The guests were seated at small tables. And during the luncheon an orchestra played.

In the receiving line were Mrs. E. P. Douglas, the two hostesses, the honor guest and Mrs. Martin Hoch, the mother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Douglas wore fleet blue lace with a gray hat of the same shade, and Mrs. Schroeder wore a black chiffon gown in the princess mode, flowered in green, and the daughter-in-law chose a gown of white chiffon with a white horsehair hat, and the mother of the guest of honor wore flowered chiffon.

The guest of honor chose a frock of sky blue chiffon fashioned with a ruffled skirt and a peplum jacket. Her hat was of eggshell straw trimmed with pink and white velvet ribbon.

Chiffon Popular

Martha Arnold, Dorothy Kerr, Mrs. John Hoch and Mrs. Leroy Hoch, all of whom will be in the bridal party, I saw chatting together. All wore flowered chiffon or print gowns.

Among the guests were Mrs. J. O. Horning, Mrs. Edgar W. Tate, in blue chiffon; Mrs. Hillis Boyd, in green lace with a green straw hat; Mrs. Ralph Hoch, in green chiffon; Mrs. George Whitmar III, in a pink lace weave frock; Mrs. Jean Casper, of Buffalo, in green chiffon; Mrs. Charles Kelly, in black and white flat crepe; Maude and Blanche Dunham, of Cleveland, in green and black chiffon, and Mrs. Victor Ernart, in turquoise blue chiffon.

On June 6 the George Schroeders will give the rehearsal dinner in their home and will also give a garden party and dance the same evening for their future daughter-in-law and son.

To Give Dinner

The Oliver Hershmans, who have been in California for the winter, will arrive in the city for the wedding. Next month the George Schroeders will go to California for several months.

On Tuesday evening Miss Anna Goretta Ray, daughter of Mrs. Mark W. Ray, of Mount Troy road, became the bride of the Rev. Clyde Henry Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Canfield, of Bowling Green, O., in her home. The Rev. Mark S. M. Ray, pastor of the North Buffalo United Presbyterian Church and brother of the bride, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Chalmers S. Morrow.

Home Wedding

Miss Sarah E. Morgan played the wedding march, accompanied by Wayne W. Canfield. Miss Morgan also played violin solos during the reception. The home was decorated with ferns, palms and spring flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Emerson R. Ray, wore a gown of white georgette in princess mode, and a veil of silk net, held by a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne E. Morgan, the bride's only attendant, wore orchid georgette and carried pink rosebuds. Wayne W. Canfield was his brother's best man. The bride's mother wore blue georgette and the mother of the bridegroom wore olive green crepe. They both wore shoulder corsages.

After the ceremony a reception was held for 100 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Canfield left for an Eastern honeymoon.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Muskingum College, class of 1926. They will be at home after July 1 in Clinton, Pa., where the Rev. Canfield is pastor of the United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Helen Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Andrews, of South Braddock avenue, whose engagement to Grosvenor Cramp, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Cramp, of Crafton, was announced recently, has named her wedding date as June 10. The ceremony is to take place in the Highland Presbyterian Church.

Miss Andrews has named her bridal party. Mrs. Francis Handy will be the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Mary Louise Hampton, Miss Alice McConahey, Miss Dorothy Mease and Miss Helen Wilson. Thomas Anderson, Jr., of Crafton, is to be the best man. The ushers will include Francis L. Handy, Harry Baker, Ned Hemingway and John Peterson.

Several entertainments have been given in honor of the bride-elect. Miss Mary Hampton and Miss Helen Wilson gave bridge-luncheons, and on Saturday Miss Dorothy Mease will give another bridge. On May 27, Miss Helen Wilson will entertain for the bridal party in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Girl Scouts To Exhibit Scrapbooks

What is thought to be the very first Girl Scout scrapbook show ever held will be staged in Kaufmann's auditorium Saturday by the Allegheny County Girl Scouts. Almost every Girl Scout keeps a scrapbook of some kind—her work, her play or her hobby—and last fall it was suggested to the county scouts that they keep this sort of record of their scout life for exhibition so that each troop might see what the other was doing.

The show will be held from 10 o'clock until 5, and during those hours Scouts will be on duty to display the books, which are an interesting story in themselves and represent hours of time and patience, in addition to indicating a decidedly artistic and versatile turn of mind. The books are made in a variety of colors from leather, cardboard, oil cloth, gingham and construction paper.

A living scrap book will be an entertainment feature at 2 o'clock. Dorothy Berquist, of Troop No. 53, will be "The Story Book Lady" who turns the pages and explains the contents of the volume. Patrols will step out of the book to sing their patrol song, bits from the flag pageant will be re-enacted, first aid work will be shown and a playlet will be given.

The ticket presented by the nominating committee of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Allegheny County Medical Society is: President, Mrs. James O. Wallace; vice presidents, Mrs. L. L. Thompson and Mrs. Isaac Davis; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles G. Eicher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. David B. Ludwig; treasurer, Mrs. Homer W. Grimm; directors, Mrs. Charles A. Orr, Mrs. George Liebold and Mrs. George S. Bubb.

To Hold Election

The ticket will be voted on at the annual business meeting Tuesday in the Hotel Schenley, the business session preceding the annual luncheon, at which Dr. Joseph R. Wentler will be the speaker. Elsie Brese Mitchell will be in charge of a musical program and the District Dairy Council will present a marionette show.

Mrs. Carrol Miller, first vice chairman of the Pittsburgh Section, also a national board member of the Women's International League for Peace, and Mrs. George Bray, corresponding secretary of the local section, are attending the national annual meeting in Washington.

Attend Meeting

The sessions, which are to be held at the Friend's Meeting House in East Y street, opened yesterday with a reception in honor of Jane Addams, honorary international chairman.

Miss Emily Balch, chairman of the United States Section, is presiding.

Miss Addams will preside at a meeting Friday evening when a symposium on "Peace in Education" will be the topic.

Mrs. L. J. Kloos and Mrs. J. S. Miller are hostesses for the card party to be given Saturday by the Mothers' Auxiliary to Boy Scout Troops 43, 45 and 52, at Mrs. Kloos' home, Fifth avenue, East End.

TAILORED CHIFFON FROCKS APPEAR AT MANY RESORTS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 22.—Chiffon cannot be shifted from its place in the sartorial scheme. Flowers may or may not bloom on its soft surface in colorful profusion, but in either case its attraction is more potent than ever. In monotones of all shades and hues, we see it everywhere here, and it is especially liked in pastel blues and greens. The chiffon evening frock, if it is well cut with fine detail and an avoidance of superfluous points, should prove a true friend throughout the season for it is so smartly unobtrusive that it can be worn many times without loosing it refreshing appeal. The tailored frock of chiffon fashioned with little individual touches is much in demand here and is seen at the resorts where the smartest women foregather. Flounces and a softly bloused bodice are details used to break the severity of such frocks that are generally worn with matched accessories in order to retain the key-note of simplicity.

CHECKS ARE drawn into the whirl of fashion this season, for the checked pattern together with the dotted design emerge as the two most popular designs of the season, despite the prevalence of all sorts of printed patterns. The youthful little frock sketched is a Redfern model made of soft wool etamine in a green and white check. Parallel, horizontal bands trim the bodice and the upper half of the skirt. The lowest band of all is drawn up at the left side and treated to being tied in a crisp little bow. The skirt flounce is laid in box-pleats. Collar and cuffs are of scalloped white pique.

THE SOFTLY tailored evening frock is by Lucien Lelong and is a delightful Summer model of pale, sea-green chiffon. The simple bloused model is belted at the natural waistline and the buckle is of gleaming strass. The upper part of the softly flaring flounces is stitched after the manner of pleats. At the center back the lower flounces takes a dip and terminates in a short train.

Mrs. Moses Ruslander, prominent Pittsburgh clubwoman, who is leaving Pittsburgh to make her home in Atlantic City, will be guest of honor at a luncheon which Mrs. Leo Half, president of the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, and the outgoing and incoming members of the board will give at the Hotel Schenley Tuesday. Mrs. Samuel Lebeau is taking reservations.

To Fete Ex-Head

Mrs. Ruslander served the Council 13 years as vice president under Mrs. Enoch Rauh and was president for one year. She is a member of the present executive board as chairman of religion and religious schools, and it was she who established the first religious extension school. Mrs. Ruslander also established the penal and institutional work under auspices of the council, a movement which has since become state-wide. She has served the council local, state and national, in various capacities and has been instrumental in founding 12 sections, having gone as far afield as California and Florida.

Her work for the sightless people of the city has been outstanding. She has been a vice president of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind since its inception and organized the Progressive Blind Women's Club.

In addition to her work among Jewish organizations, Mrs. Ruslander has been prominently identified with non-Jewish activities.

Following the luncheon on Tuesday, the executive board will hold its final meeting for the season.

Paris Fans Call Talkie Films Fakes

PARIS.—(INS.)—When does a talking film really talk?

When there is not a phonograph behind the silver screen furnishing the words, music and sundry noises.

This at least is the contention of one Parisian movie fan.

By going back stage the fan said he discovered the phonograph. Now he wants his money back on the grounds of a misleading advertisement and has brought suit to get it.

Cheap Sweets Most Popular to Public

WASHINGTON.—(AP.)—America's candy-consuming public has made penny portions and 5 and 10 cent bars and packages most popular. The foodstuffs division of the department of commerce found, in a survey, that there is a trend away from fancy boxes.

Quilting Party And Husking Bee Revival Urged

DENVER, Colo., May 22.—(AP.)—Return of the rural quilting party, from which the young man of yesterday used to see Nellie home, is urged in a report to be submitted today before the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, meeting here.

The report, prepared by the Bureau of Rural Life of the organization, also favors a revival of husking bees, clambakes and old-fashioned sings around the parlor piano. Such entertainment, it was asserted, would be intended to supplement but not necessarily replace the moving picture and other amusements offered by nearby centers of population.

HISTORY OF U.S. IN FRENCH

PARIS.—(INS.)—The first complete history of the United States written in the French language has just been published. The author is Firmin Roz who has spent many years on the other side, first in 1913 and then in 1923. Later, during the war he directed the section of the United States at the Press center and in 1918 he lectured at the Sorbonne on Washington, Lincoln and Emerson.

Monsieur Roz has endeavored to present his work from a broad general point of view, to make present understood by the past, in short to give a brief but complete account of how the United States have grown to be what they are today.

There is a prologue which tells of the early colonization of the States. The first act is the story of Independence and the second, the crisis which included the Civil War and the third, the great period of prosperity which takes the reader up to the present moment. The entire "historical drama" shows the United States which have become the greatest power in the world.

Sleep Soundly
Smile In Your Dreams!

This pretty nurse to say "good-night" is undoubtedly a help—not only because of her good-night smile, but because she brings a glass of Welch's. Taken just before retiring, this pure juice of luscious Concord grapes quickly leads to restful slumber. While you sleep, its rich fruit nourishment and mineral salts are readily digested and quickly assimilated into the blood-stream. They restore your broken-down body-tissues, build you up. Make this two-weeks test. Each night before retiring, sip a large glass of Welch's—adding one-third water, if you like. Before long you'll find your self sleeping like a top, and waking up feeling like a million dollars! Try it also as a breakfast fruit. Six liberal portions to the pint make it the most temptingly delicious 5c drink in America. Recommended by physicians and on the diet-list of leading hospitals

CHRONICLES OF HOLLYWOOD COMBINED WITH BITS ABOUT LOCAL THEATERS

Mrs. Gleason Supervises At Studio But Not At Hearthstone

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, May 22.

Now that Mrs. James (Lucille) Gleason has gone in for supervising cinemas at the Columbia Studio, life at home isn't worth two cents to her. Her men folks, Jimmy (husband) and Russell (son), have banded together in self-preservation.

"Tother night I saw Jimmy and Russell to do something for her. He didn't move as fast as she thought he should. Exasperated, she stamped her foot. Russell stopped dead still, lifted his right foot, placed his hand gracefully on his hip and waited.

Lucille Gleason

"Madame," easy now, you aren't a supervisor around here."

Lucille, herself, had to laugh it off.

"Isn't it a kick," Russell confessed, "having a supervisor in the family? A supervisor."

And of course everybody knows it . . .

Jimmy, by and by, goes to work pretty soon, with Zasu Pitts in a featured sequence for "Beyond Victory," direction John Robertson. Gleason, Sr., is like a 2-year-old ranin, to get. The sequence sounds simply grand. Gleason, Jr., will be in the same flick.

THE BIG TREK

George Duryea, Sally Starr et al take the 275-mile trek to Lone Pine pretty soon for western locations. The picture isn't much started as yet, but will debut under the Pathe banner, regardless. Lone Pine, according to George, is a beautiful spot. It looks on one side toward Mt. Whitney, the tallest whoosit in the country, and the other toward Death Valley, the flattest ditto.

Sally Starr

NO SURPRISE SHOWN

And Victor McLaglen's "Sun and Dust" company, title subject to change and no surprise shown, have hit down to Palm Springs for three weeks. The troupe is living in a camp especially constructed for its domesticity. Vic was quite pleased at the location. He's crazy for that desert spot. As you know in nearly every flick he is called upon to wage mortal combat for his life before the final reel. Vic makes it his job to keep in shape for these sockfests. Did I ever paragraph about his gym? Um, has a special room in his Bev Hills' house loaded with gym apparatus. About 3,000 bucks of paraphernalia.

"JUST A PAL" WRITES

A couple days ago one who signs himself "Just a Pal" penned a note to this department complaining of mistakes in the column. First came the one about Tom Mix playing in "Connecticut Yankee" and then right on its heels

"You had Irene Rich an extra girl in 'Stella Maris.' This is just a friendly tip," the card goes on to say. "Irene Rich was leading woman with Bill Rogers in 'Water, Water Everywhere' in 1920."

Yeah, that's kerrect. But Mary Pickford produced "Stella Maris" in 1918. And what's more, Irene says her first picture was as an extra in "Stella Maris." She had just come to the U. S. A. from Honolulu at the time and had to get something to do, so she tried pictures. Will Rogers is the chap who gave her her first big chance. Will repeated when he insisted Irene be his lead in "So This Is Paris." It was this film that brought her back with a bang.

How 'bout it, Pal? Once in a blue moon by gum this department scores for accuracy.

NEW SCREEN TALKIES OPEN TODAY AND TOMORROW

The George Sharp Players will close their season in the Pitt Saturday night, May 31. The closing bill will be "Ritzy," a comedy that was seen in New York last season. All the regulars of the company will be in the cast and adieus will be the order of the day.

Ramon Navarro is starred in "In Gay Madrid," his second talking and singing picture which comes to the Penn tomorrow. Teddy Joyce will return to the Penn stage as guest master of ceremonies.

IN TWO THEATERS

"Paramount on Parade," said to be a frolic of the movie stars, will stay in the Warner for a second week, beginning Friday, and also will open the same day in the Enright. Clara Bow, Jack Oakie, William Powell, George Bancroft, Helen Kane and Nancy Carroll are a few of the players featured.

"Buddy" Rogers comes to the Stanley today, supported by Kathryn Crawford and Josephine Dunn, in his latest screen production, "Safety in Numbers." On the stage, Dick Powell will be present in "Smart Smarties."

More than 350 show girls and boys appear in "Movietone Follies of 1930," a romantic musical comedy which comes to Loew's Aldine Friday. El Brendel, Marjorie White and Frank Richardson head the big cast.

TO STAY TWO WEEKS

"Journey's End," film of R. C. Sherriff's play, is proving so successful in the Sheridan Square that it will be held for a second week, which will begin next Monday.

Beginning Saturday, the screen feature in the Harris will be "Double Cross Roads," featuring Lila Lee and Robert Ames. Stage vaudeville presentation will be resumed, with Victor Graff as master of ceremonies.

MUSIC

"The Golem"

Y. M. & W. H. A.

That astonishing drama, the "Legend of the Golem" of Boris Glagolin, now playing on the boards of the "Y" playhouse, is so full of meat for the painter, the literary enthusiast, the playgoer, the historian, that its subtle music values seem to have escaped entirely a large audience that twice has sat into the morning hours in wonder at the magic of its changing scenes. It is not the finely arranged interludes of organ melody, the fragments of Hebrew tunes, or the closing choral singing, which is obviously well-planned, that grips the audience, but a more elemental music that works this magic throughout the play, weaving its spell over actor and onlooker alike.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The music of the "Golem" belongs entirely to the realm of rhythm. The verses of Glagolin are so written that the actor makes the transition from the spoken to the sung word without a jar; the only perceptible reason for singing the phrase being that the poetry is really song. What an ideal verse then for an opera composer, whose word only in the hands of a genius like Wagner is so closely allied to tone.

For the first time in Pittsburgh has the Dalcroze idea of rhythmic expression been so applied as in the "Golem." Doris Portman, from the Cleveland Playhouse, not only gave her dancers the graceful fundamentals of this system of expression, but moulded their movements so accurately into the literary and scenic design of the play, that they enhanced the meaning of every scene intensely. When they moved the stone of Prague, the picture was of such cosmic beauty as we see only in the pictures of Rockwell Kent, and they are surely akin to great music.

The play will be repeated tonight.

Quaill Firemen To Hold Carnival

The Quaill District Firemen's Association will hold a carnival tonight, tomorrow and Saturday on the Bellevue road opposite the Quaill School. H. F. Kentzel is general chairman, assisted by these committee chairmen: R. W. Harris, J. Walter Holmes, N. E. Hermbold, W. F. Weppner, H. G. Ruehl, George Brunner, R. D. Russell, Edward Frederick, Erwin Deuber.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Panic

So, casually, I earn my daily bread
And wander home among the buoyant crowd.
A bite to eat, a book, and then to bed,
Some program!—It's a cause to laugh aloud.

I can remember not so long ago
When life was just a gay, enchanting game,
But since we're through,—I'm keen enough to know
That happiness is quite as brief as fame.

I try to smile—I've made myself a mask
And wear it with a blithe and jaunty air.
But I have set myself a pretty task
For since you let me know you couldn't [illegible]—

It's small account to me what people say
Or whether it's December, dear, or May!
—The "Torch" Singer.

Swifty

That some columnists are capable of holding down a headline spot at the Palace Theater was again proven by the success of Heywood Broun's act. But what we started out to report was that after the opening matinee the management decided he was strong enough to go on later, so he was switched to "next-to-closing," the toughest of the spots on a vaudeville program.

He went on at 11 p. m., and many commuters were forced to leave to catch their Long Island trains. As a group ankled up the aisles, a Broadway ham whispered: "Gee, they're walking out on him!"

"He's lucky," replied another lay-off, "that they're not walking towards him!"

Merciless Truth

Lester Edwards, who tried to out-smart the stock market, too, megaphones that the only thing certain to go from 60 to 90 this summer will be the thermometer.

This Village of Ours

Lilyan Tashman, the screen-celeb, is in New York again, this time with her second husband, Edmund Lowe, a philicker king.

These Hollywood citizens have been taking in the better shows and went to enjoy George White's "Flying High" at the Apollo Theater.

The first man to greet Lilyan was Al Lee, the general manager of the show.

He was her first husband.

George M. Cohan

As he is described in the playbills at the Fulton Theater, where the ace of the Cohns, Cohens or the Cohans is now starring in "The Tavern."

George M. Cohan was born in Providence, R. I. What of it? He does his writing at night. Who cares? He knows, perhaps, fewer steps than any celebrated dancer. So he says. He puts a play into rehearsal with only one act written. Seems we've heard that before. What else is there about the man? What does he think about? He thinks that nothing is good or bad, unless it is bad dreams. His vision? His is the esthetic vision of the world conceived as Shakespeare conceived it; the world is a drama invented for his brain.

"There is probably no one in America who knows better than he what is effective in the theater. He is aware, as few others are aware, just how audiences react to certain things that may be made to happen and just what sort of things must be made to happen if a certain sort of reaction is desired. He is expert at playing upon the feelings of the crowd, a shrewd, intuitive economist in theatrics. In addition, he has the good sense not to take himself too seriously and, better still, a sense of humor sufficient to prevent his taking the theater itself too seriously. He can make fun of the sort of things he knows best. Few men are willing to do that. He is the greatest pal the legitimate theater in America ever had."

Just took the words right outta my mouth.

The Pity of It

The other night a young policeman about to turn in, approached a suspicious character who was driving a stolen car and demanded identification. He was shot dead and the man escaped. The stolen car was six years old and had rotten brakes. Thank Mr. Baumes, who fathered the Baumes law, which sends anyone with four convictions away for life.

Ask any of the Broadway banditti who have three raps against them what they would do if they were about to be arrested a fourth time. They will reply: "I'd kill any cop on the spot, for if I were cornered I would kill myself rather than do life."

Tee, Hee

Willard Keefe, one of the better typewriter comedians, woke up the other day, ill and weary of life, for the company that employed him suddenly went out of business. Keefe not only was out of a job with nothing in view, but he was broke and his friends were "out of town," as they usually are when you need them most. Besides being sick, despondent, broke and disgusted, he also had a fight with his girl.

Imagine, then, how he tittered when he picked up the very odd McIntyre's column and read "Willard Keefe, a Minneapolis boy, who made good in the big city!"

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XCII.

Chickie looked into the baby's basket. It was the one distinct, quiet thing in a room growing dim, swaying as with fogs. They rose in a heaving sea; they stole the breath from her.

"Hurry! In God's name, hurry!"

But her hand touched the baby's fingers — oh such delicate pointed things and the nails were a work of art. It didn't stir — little unprotesting creature. Suddenly Chickie saw Bertie Groom and the welt on the frightened soft cheek. She shivered. No — oh no — a tiny thing to suffer so—

She raised the baby. Ho! Jennie would be glad. Jennie was so warm: such a plump kindly breast — lay the baby there — put it in her mother's arms!

Suddenly she saw Jennie's elbow cradling the child; heard Jennie's high falsetto crooning to it. A great softness like music played in her thoughts.

Do that—go—take the baby with her—give it to them.

She wiped the heat from her neck, but the throbbing at her throat quickened—it beat wildly.

She began pulling things from drawers, shoving them in her trunk—letters, clothes, books. She snapped down the cover and locked it. She said quietly, "Get there tonight."

Emily Faris came into the room with the chicken. Even in the hallway she began to talk. "Now you'll feel strong as a lion after this—melt in your mouth. When I was down with Clemcy—she's my fourth—"

Sends Nurse Away

Chickie said: "Did Billy come back with the car?"

"Land sakes no! He's gone to see Ryerson about the bean money. He won't be along till late."

Chickie said to her thought: "I'll have to walk—not far." She could scarcely breathe. She made a hasty shift in her plans. Now she would have to send Mrs. Faris away—the woman wouldn't let her walk to the train. She said to her: "Didn't you say you needed some clothes?"

"Oh, there's no great hurry, Mrs. Clayton. I can go over tomorrow and get them. Out here in the wilderness we don't fuss like city folk, do. Of course—"

"But you might as well go now. I feel fine, and there's a little sun today. Go while it's fair."

"Well, if you don't mind—it won't take me long. Do you think you'll be all right for an hour?"

"Why, yes—I'm perfectly fine today. Take your time. You needn't come till six."

From the window Chickie saw the stout, short figure and the wind ballooning the wide skirts. Mrs. Faris seemed to be driven along, the wind was so stiff.

Chickie was alone. For a moment unable to move because of the excitement—of the hush and the fears.

Starts for Home

She wrote a note:

"Dear Agnes Robbins:

"My mother is dying. I just got word from my father of a horrible automobile accident. She isn't expected to live through the night. They were on their way here from the West to surprise me. This morning in Newark another auto crashed into them. I must go. I can't wait here. Forgive me for this haste, but you can understand. I intended asking Billy to drive me to the train, but he's away. I was afraid Mrs. Faris would try to stop me from walking so I sent her home. Dear Agnes Robbins, you've been an angel to me and I shall never forget all your kindness. Don't be angry with me now. What else can I do? I'm enclosing the money I owe you, also enough to cover the charges for telegrams I've sent. I'll have a man call for my trunk. I'm only taking a few of the baby's things with me. A thousand thanks to you, dear Agnes.

"MERLE CLAYTON."

She took a blanket and wrapped the baby in it, laid it on her bed, staring mutely at its quiet face touching its hair. She fancied that it smiled at her.

Then she raised it swiftly, its cheek against her neck, half hidden in the straggly fur of her coat. She crept down the stairs, then through the empty kitchen. And lowering her head as one breasting a storm, she passed through the oaks to the river road. Going to them—taking the baby with her. The wind drove; the leaves circled. And she hurried.

A mile and a half to the train. The train due in an hour. Oh, she could walk that easily. Not so long now, and she would kneel at Jennie's bed.

Tormented by Visions

And she sank down a moment, resting. She drew her coat tighter—oh, it was cold. She held the baby close.

As she did this there was a twisting in her mind—a chill voice that said: "Taking it to Jennie — lay it in Jennie's arms!" She got to her feet—shaking. Every pulse was shaking with a stark vision of herself ringing the bell of the yellow cottage, smiling at Jonathan walking into the hall. And a baby in her arms!

She sat down again on a mound of earth. She opened the collar of her coat—hot now. The wintry sun was hot—or her blood was on fire.

Insane—was she insane? Imagine little Jennie and the horror in their hearts seeing their Chickie—and all this—and the hiding and the lies—the neighbors peeking behind the shades—oh—

She sat motionless and numb. The baby lying on her knees. She put her hand to its face. Its lips were blue, chilly. Poor little thing—so quiet. Keep it warm. She opened her coat and laid its face against her breast—a fainting weakness in her thoughts.

She said, "I can't do that—or kill them—"

Infant Still

An idea flashed upon her. She would go to Dorothy Wreden in Rutland. Dorothy would tell her of some kind, efficient nurse. And she would pay her well—pay her enormously to keep the baby—oh—made it heavy like a stone. She laid the baby on the ground, knelt beside it, listened for its breath. She raised it and whispered to it. She said wildly: "It's all right—weak—it's just the same!"

And she began to run with it. She kept running—afraid to look—afraid to stop.

But she felt under the blanket for its hands and they, too, were cold. She cried: "Oh—no—just for a while—just till she could think—just till she could know the thing to do—

Yes—do that—then rush away—then rush to them. Make them smile. Oh—never crush their hearts. Her anguish this—bear it by herself—brave it alone—

She felt stronger. She began to hurry. She drew her coat because the baby's face was cold. She ran. A faint shiver stirred the tiny form. She looked at it—its lips switched—a little, flickering movement. It startled her. And she stooped down with her cheek against its mouth, waiting for the warmth of its breath.

But the wind blew—ruffian gusts. She felt no warmth—no breath. She touched the baby's eyes—she rubbed the baby's hands—she shook it—oh, its mouth curving—parting. Then a stillness—stiller than before—

Chickie stared at its shut eyes—its open mouth. A mortal fright crossed into her heart no—" And looked at it—and it was still—utterly still—

You must pardon my elation, for I have reasons to believe that I am about to make a vast fortune.

No, I have not bought any oil stock, nor am I carrying on a correspondence with anyone who urges me to look into one of those long lost Spanish estates.

It is the possession of a very old twenty-five cent piece which came to me in a handful of change.

It must be one of those famous last quarters I have heard so much about, down to which a man gets, just before he starts in to make his first million.

It has got back into circulation!

What worries me is wondering whether a "last quarter" still holds its magic when it circulates again!

Dicky's Long-Distance Call Stirs Up Mother Graham

I schooled myself to meekness at my mother-in-law's fault-finding concerning my extravagance—and Dicky's—in the matter of the long-distance telephone call. I did not even defend myself by telling her the truth—that if I had not cut Dicky short, he would have carried on the conversation to even greater length than it had reached. For I realized that her captiousness has its roots in the reaction from fear of tragedy which my assurance had given her.

"We were long-winded," I told her, "but I think we were both a bit excited over this news which I am sure you will like, too. Just think! William and Richard and Roderick are coming to us for the Christmas holidays."

Her face softened with that tenderest of all emotions—grandmotherly love.

"The blessed children!" she exclaimed. "I shall be so glad to see them." Then her eyes narrowed and she looked sharply at me.

"Harriet and Edwin are coming too." The words were an assertion instead of a question, and I dreaded the answer I must give her.

"No, Mother, Harriet told Dicky they could not come."

"What nonsense! I never heard of such a thing," Dicky's mother snorted. "When did Harriet tell Dicky that? Is she in New York, and not coming out here to see me?"

There was wounded vanity as well as affection in her voice. I answered both promptly.

"No, she telephoned Dicky this morning from Detroit."

"Oh!" She sat silent for a second or two digesting that piece of news. Then she opened fire on me again.

"Something sudden—and important—must have happened to call them away from home. Harriet is too thrifty to throw away her money in long-distance telephone tolls when she has time to write. What was it? She told Richard, I suppose."

"Yes, I believe she did." I answered, mentally squirming, for I knew what was ahead of me. "But he didn't tell me."

"Why didn't he?" She was like an active old terrier on the trail of a rat. I told myself disrespectfully, but I could not be reverential when enacting the role of the hunted rodents. "Didn't he think it of enough importance to me to mention?"

"Yes," I acknowledged reluctantly. "He was going to tell me about it, but I asked him to write it instead because the tolls were counting up so fast."

"Humph!" There was a whole volume of disapproval in the ejaculation. "You were perfectly willing for Richard to spend money in talking to you—you were at that phone five minutes at least, but when it comes to giving me any news about the only daughter I have left, you suddenly become very thrifty. I am glad you are honest enough to say that Richard tried to tell you. But he wasn't thoughtful, either, or he would have telephoned to me. The boys are my grandchildren, not yours."

The little speech stemmed the tide of my anger, turned it into helpless mirth which I was afraid she would detect. But she was too absorbed in her own grievances to notice my reactions to her tirade.

"I have never known it to fail," she swept on, and I settled deeper into my chair, for I knew that preamble. "I have never known it to fail," she repeated impressively, "when a mother has given her life for her children, sacrificed everything for them, lived only for them, asking nothing in return, that when she becomes old and helpless they forget everything except the fact that she is old and helpless, a burden and an annoyance to be put up with as best they can until death releases them both. When I think of the way I used to shield Harriet—why you know that I took full charge of her house for years so that she could devote herself absolutely to Edwin and his work, and the way I have watched over things in this house — how they would have gone without me, I shudder to think. And what thanks do I get? Not the pat on the head you would give a stray dog."

I had a sudden mirthful vision of my mother-in-law's face should I attempt to give her the caress she had named. It was too much for my risibles. Though I struggled heroically I could not repress a faint little chuckle, which to my dismay she heard.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Unsweetened Truths

One man makes love so exactly like another, these days, that a girl sometimes wonders if they are all graduates of the same Correspondence School of Courtship.

No married woman will ever tell you what her husband said when he proposed to her—because, usually, she can't remember that he said anything.

What makes a woman maddest is the way all the men glare at her with that "woman's-place-is-in-the-home" expression, when she is trying to drive a car through traffic.

Fame is a fickle mistress, who deluges you with honors, favors and flattery until you cannot live without her—and then deserts you for a younger and newer favorite.

A sweet, unselfish, tolerant disposition may get you into heaven, but apparently, a reputation for a fire cracker temper gets you a lot more, here on earth.

It is better to love foolishly than too wisely—and wiser to love too well than too often.

* * *

Jazz and a pocket-flash may make the world go 'round for a little while; but, without real love as the motor, everything soon comes to a dead standstill.

Probably, woman was called "the weaker vessel," because soon or later she lets everything "leak out."

At this time of year almost any man would rather pet a girl who bores him than talk seriously with one who dazzles him.

Correct Manners

Returning Engagement Gifts Gracefully

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have recently broken my engagement. What is the proper thing to do with my engagement gifts? Should they be returned to the people who gave them to me? Or are such gifts kept regardless of what has happened?

2. Should they be returned in person, or should they be mailed?

3. If the latter, should an explanatory note accompany them? READER.

1. The gifts that were sent to you as felicitations for a status that no longer exists, should be returned when the engagement is broken.

2. Either — whichever is the more convenient.

3. Yes, you should write a note of explanation. That is, a very short, impersonal note, explaining that the engagement has been broken, but not explaining why. Something like this:

Dear Mary:

Jack and I have broken our engagement, by mutual consent, so I am returning to you the gift that you so beautifully and thoughtfully sent to me to celebrate our engagement. Since it no longer exists, I feel that I have no right to keep the gifts. I am sure that, with your usual friendliness and sweetness, you will understand.

Thank you always for your goodness to me.

Devotedly yours,

JANE.

The Etiquette of Shower Parties

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for a mother to give her daughter a farewell shower as she is leaving town to be married?

MRS. L. F. Z.

Since there aren't any rules of etiquette about showers, we have to examine every one and determine if it is in good taste and good form as considered from the general point of view of etiquette. This is what we must do in this case. And examining it in this way, I should say that such a party might easily be misinterpreted as a "begging party." And probably you have thought of it in this way too, and hence your worried and wondering question about it. Is this true?

If the mother wishes to get together the friends of her daughter, for the good wishes to speed her on her significant and important journey, this can be done by giving a tea or reception or luncheon, a party that will be purely social and not have the "business-like" quality of shower.

Household Hints

When preparing French fried potatoes, try letting them stand in ice water for half an hour, drain well and dry, then drop into boiling water for one minute, drain, dry and cook in keep fat. They will be a golden-brown on the outside and soft inside. This is a time-saver when cooking a number of French fried potatoes.

A brand-new idea for the use of bran! There is nothing quite so distressing to the seamstress who is handling delicate material as perspiring hands. Dusting them with talcum powder has certain disadvantages. The powder comes off and soils the fabric. But the condition may be happily remedied by keeping a box of bran that has been brought from the kitchen in a handy place. When the palms begin to feel damp pour some of the bran on them and rub the palms together; then shake off the bran and wipe the hands.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Liquid rouge is more likely to last the day through than the compact or the creamy blush. The proper way to apply it is to dip a bit of absorbent cotton in water, squeeze it almost dry, then dip into the rouge and squeeze again. Applied to a creamed surface, it blends in fairly well.

Before having her hair dyed, the supplicant for renewed youth should consider the upkeep. The hair grows six inches a year. Every month half an inch of grey hair will appear at the scalp. There must be a touch-up every six weeks, if the deception is not to be advertised to a curious and interested world. If possible have a specialist do the work. It is cheaper in the long run.

To discourage frowns between the eyes, anoint with a heavy cream, place the thumb at the lower end, the first finger at the upper; hold thumb stationary, iron and smooth with the finger.

Women who live in hotels, who are not muscularly active, should join a gym class. There is danger of developing the hotel shape, which shows too much hip spread. Active muscles keep fat cells from taking squatters' rights and when fat cells are settled they are not easy to chase away. Too much bridge and not enough golf, tennis or swimming means that the meal bag figure is a possibility. Nothing suggests youth so much as the active step and slenderness of silhouette.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Slouchy Bodily Postures

It is a good thing that physical education is now so popular. I am glad it is being given more prominence in the schools. Its methods of publicity bring it before the public mind.

DR. COPELAND

Good posture of the body makes for good health. If you don't have good posture, and your mistakes are not corrected early, you are in danger of many ills of the body later on in life.

You may look over a group of persons assembled anywhere, in the street or any public place, and you will be astonished to find how few have good posture of the body. How many do you see who have the splendid upright carriage?

The time to teach posture is in early childhood. A child is easily taught to stand straight. Every child should be trained so that he will have a straight back and a well-poised head.

At school your child may have some daily exercises in gymnastics to teach him bodily exercise and body poise. But if you do not encourage him at home to practice the things he learns at school the chances are he will forget to apply them. What becomes habit with him now will probably last him as a habit through life.

Years of round shoulders, a bent back and slouchy bodily posture bring with them weak muscles of the stomach and intestines. Indigestion and worse things are bound to follow. The lungs are restricted and cannot do their full duty.

What is the correct posture? A correct standing attitude enables you to carry a book or other load on top of the head with perfect ease. The back is straight, legs are straight, the abdomen is kept in, the head is erect and chin in.

Look at the outstanding men and women in the world. You will find scarcely one who isn't possessed of good posture and an alert, active body and mind. It is the man and woman thus endowed who most easily make good in the business and professional world. The young man with a good carriage, well-poised and pleasing personality has a distinct advantage over others in the line of applicants for the business position. Good posture gives you self-respect.

Sometimes, of course, poor posture is due to poor health. We live in a hothouse atmosphere for the most part, and too many of us get far too little exercise. Right living brings better health. Proper exercise out-of-doors builds for bodily resistance to disease. Good posture does more for you than it would seem possible.

Sitting in the right posture—that is, bolt upright—keeps stomach and bowels in the right place, and the weight of the stomach helps the automatic movement of the bowels. With it comes free elimination of the intestines.

You can breathe deeply with the right posture. Deep breathing from the lungs is good for the physical vigor and for the lungs. It leads to purification of the blood and to its increased flow. It reacts on the stomach and bowels, stimulating the work they have to do.

Isn't it worth while to practice good posture in sitting and standing? Is it not wonderful that you have the privilege of teaching your children that good posture is a necessity for good health? You are giving them something worth more than wealth.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, May 23

A rather propitious state of affairs is the augury for those in employment of others who are quite likely to enjoy some meed of recognition or favoritism from those above them in position or authority. It is an encouraging way for seeking such preferment. However, it might be well to do this with proper approach, since another aspect hints of the undermining of personal popularity, possibly because of an accented tendency to pleasure or extravagance. There may be some loss of friends or personal disappointment or bereavement.

Those whose birthday it is may expect some advancement or recognition if in the employment of others, or some favors from superiors of those in authority. In personal matters there may be some anxiety, disappointment or sorrow. The inclination to excessive indulgence in pleasure or in extravagance and show should be handled judiciously.

A child born on this day may have its social qualities outstanding, leaning toward pleasure and extravagance. Nevertheless it should succeed in employment to a fair degree.

The Talking Picture Story of

"CAUGHT SHORT"

Starring

MARIE DRESSLER
POLLY MORAN

Based on

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Caught Short," Written by Willard Mack.

A Cosmopolitan Production.

When Marie Jones' daughter, Jenny, came home from finishing school one day, Marie borrowed a tablecloth from her rival boarding house mistress, Polly Smith, and gave a party at which Mr. Kidder, the star boarder was a guest of honor.

"Don't go out on the street, Miss Genevieve," says Mr. Kidder to Jenny, "because Joe the Barber probably would cut some one's throat trying to give you the once over."

Mr. Kidder was even funnier than that after he had had his second helping of tapioca pudding.

Polly's son, William, dropped into Marie's boarding house after the demi-tasse. When William saw Jenny, he started to sing, and after he was through singing, Jenny continued to let him stick around. And neither of them paid any attention when Marie said:

"One of the advantages of the radio is that you can turn it off when it squawks."

William's mother, Polly Smith, went across the street to get back her tablecloth from Marie Jones.

"Heavenly day!" exclaims Mrs. Smith, "there's more food on the tablecloth than there is on your guests—not counting Mr. Kidder's necktie."

"Just for that I'll never borrow a tablecloth from you again," replies Mrs. Jones.

And the fight is on.

William Smith and Jenny Jones cared too much for each other to let their mothers go to court over a tablecloth.

"After all, ma," says William, "with our book on how to make money on the stock market we can get some more tablecloths."

"And ma," says Jenny, "next time we can borrow a tablecloth that's already spotted."

CRITZ MAKES NEW YORK INFIELD BEST

AS A GENERAL rule, when a trade is put through in the big baseball leagues, each side has its own good reasons for making it and knows full well what it is doing. Sometimes there are angles that cannot be seen from the outside. So, possibly, the Cincinnati club sees a way in which it will be benefited by disposing of Hughey Critz. Dan Howley is a pilot who knows his business. But as far as can be determined on the surface, it looks as if the Giants got all the better of yesterday's swap in which the great little second baseman was obtained from the Reds in exchange for Pitcher Larry Benton.

Hughey Critz

So much so, in fact, that many fans are inclined to doubt the statement supplementing the announcement of the deal, to the effect that no money was involved in the dicker. The transaction appears to be a little too one-sided for that. For as far as playing values go, John McGraw is getting something for nothing. He has landed about the best second baseman in baseball, plugging the only weak spot on his club, for a disappointing pitcher who is almost 33 years old and has been practically worthless for two seasons.

EVEN IF THE Giant boss had to throw in some cash on the side, as he probably did, he made a smart trade. He has not added any hitting power, as Critz batted .300 only once in the big show, finished as low as .247 last year, and up to date this season has made an average of only .219. But as a fielding second sacker Hughey has no superiors. He can kill more base hits than any other midway player seen in the National League in years.

The New York attack is so strong otherwise that McGraw probably can afford to carry a light hitter like Critz for the increased defensive strength he represents. In Lindstrom, Jackson, Critz and Terry, the Giants will have the greatest infield in baseball. Jackson and Critz ought to be an even better double-play pair than were Critz and Ford in Cincinnati, and the Critz-Ford combination started the great majority of the 194 two-ply killings with which the Reds set a new major league record in 1928.

THE ACQUISITION OF Critz does not assure pennant success for the Giants, by any means, as they appear not to have sufficient pitching strength to carry them through. But, clearly, the latter department has not been made any weaker by the going of Benton.

Larry Benton

Larry had a big season in 1928, when he won 25 games against only nine lost and led the National League hurlers in effectiveness with an earned-run average of 2.73. But last year he won only 11 games while losing 17, his earned-run average was 4.14, he was lifted in 17 out of 31 starts, and this spring he has continued his slump. He has won only one game against three defeats, lasted the distance but once, and has been nicked for 42 hits in 30 innings pitched.

M'GRAW RARELY FAILS to enliven things with a trade at this stage of a pennant race. In all except two seasons (1917 and 1925) since 1915 he has swapped one or more players, generally just before the expiration of the time limit, which is now June 15. In 1915 he traded Demaree, Stock and Adams for Lobert; 1916, Mathewson, McKechnie and Roush for Herzog and Wade Killefer, also Merkle for McCarty, besides buying Sallee for cash; 1918, Herzog and Jimmy Smith for Jess Barnes and Doyle; 1919, George Smith for Oeschger, and later Oeschger, O'Neil, Jones and Causey for Nehf.

IN 1920, M'GRAW gave Fletcher and $80,000 for Bancroft; in 1921 he exchanged Richbourg, King and Rapp for Stengel and Rawlings; in 1922 he turned over Benton (this same Larry), Toney and Hulihan, with $100,000, for McQuillan, and in 1923 he gave Earl Smith and Jess Barnes for Gowdy and Watson.

In 1924, Bancroft, Stengel and Cunningham were given for Southworth and Oeschger; in 1926, Southworth was swapped for Mueller; in 1927, Greenfield, McQuillan and Farrell were let go for Benton, Taylor and Thomas; Hornsby was traded for Hogan and Welsh, while Virgil Barnes, Spohrer, Clarkson and Cantwell were exchanged for Genewich; in 1929, Welsh was traded back for Farrell, and this year, prior to the Critz-Benton deal, Farrell and Fisher were given for Roettger, and Judd was exchanged for Mitchell.

THE MOST ENCOURAGING feature of the Pirates' victory in the opener with the champion Cubs yesterday, aside from the return of Pie Traynor to the lineup, was the evidence given by Heinie Meine that he is finally back in form after his spring illness.

Heinie Meine

Meine flashed a great fast ball and a lot of other stuff that had the Bruins stopped. The bases were filled with only one out when he relieved Kremer in the seventh, but he got out of the hole without damage and did not allow a hit during the remainder of the game. Only eight men, the lowest number possible, faced him in two and two-thirds innings.

IT WILL HELP the Bucs a lot to have Meine in the stride he showed in his rescue act yesterday. It means that Manager Ens will have another starting pitcher available, and strengthens the chances for the keeping up of the improved gait in which the Rovers won four games in a row and five out of six up to today. Better pitching has been the club's trying need, and with one more regular going well some of the strain will be lifted from the others and the slab situation will be improved all around.

THE CASE OF Kremer is one example showing how another dependable starting pitcher will help matters. Though he has begun nine games, Remy has lasted the distance only twice, mainly because he has appeared to tire and lose effectiveness in the late innings.

Generally the remedy for that is a longer rest between games, but owing to his limited number of starters Manager Ens has not been able to follow that course with Kremer. It may now be possible to give Remy a rest of four days instead of only three between starts, and the big right-hander is likely to show something more closely approaching his best form of past seasons.

THE GREAT IMPORTANCE of good pitching to any club is demonstrated again in the plight of the Cubs. With Hartnett back and Bell supplanting Beck at third base, the Bruins' line-up is stronger than it was when they won the pennant last year, yet, with

TEAM LEAGUE MATCHES ON PROGRAM

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Oakmont Country Club's marvelous links is having its first real tournament test of the season today—and the women have the honor of inaugurating its outside competitive season, which is to see as a highlight of local competition the national intercollegiate championship next month. The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania Team League will blossom forth, with Anjeannette Hunter's eight-club Section I in foursome action.

The women do not usurp all the local interest for the day, however, for at the Highland Country Club, the Greenkeepers' Association of Western Pennsylvania is holding an equipment demonstration. Chairmen of the green committees of the various district clubs accompanied their greenkeepers to the Highland layout, where on display are to be found various and sundry outfits for the beautification and care of golf courses. Johnny Quaill, Highland's greenkeeper, secretary of the local as well as of the national greenkeepers' body, will be host.

Tractors, fairway mowers, green mowers, power and hand, and watering equipment are included in the thousands of dollars' worth of interesting implements on exhibition. The affair got under way at 10 o'clock. A buffet luncheon was served.

The popular Riverside Golf Club, in Cambridge Springs, is the scene today of the first official tournament of the Northwestern Golfers' Association, which was originated only last week. Charley Hymers, Kahkwa's affable professional, is temporary chairman of the organization; officers are to be elected and by-laws drawn up at a meeting to follow the tourney.

OAKMONT FAVORED

When the women resumed their league matches at the Oakmont Country Club this morning at 10:30, Oakmont was playing the Stanton Heights team. Oakmont, by the way, is the top-heavy favorite to triumph this year, inasmuch as Stanton Heights, its strongest competitor last year, has been weakened by the loss of Anjeannette Hunter, former West Penn champion, who is now playing at Oakmont. The Pittsburgh Field Club and Fox Chapel started battle at 11 o'clock; Edgewood and Chartiers Heights opened warfare at 11:30 and Allegheny and Shannopin teed off at noon.

Tomorrow, Section II, of the league, has its second competition of the week, at the Alcoma Country Club, out on the Frankstown road. Poor weather was encountered for Section II's inaugural matches at Westmoreland Monday, and it was expected the weather of tomorrow would be more favorable. The teams will lineup and begin play in this order: 10:30, Alcoma vs. Longue Vue; 11:00, Country Club of Pittsburgh vs. South Hills; 11:30, St. Clair vs. Westmoreland.

Plan of Battle Depends On Max—Sharkey

By JACK SHARKEY,
American Heavyweight Champion.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 22.—"How are you going to fight Schmeling?"

This has been a common question asked of me by sports writers and other followers of the boxing game since I started training here for my 15-round bout with the "German Dempsey" in New York on June 12.

Jack Sharkey.

My usual answer is that what I shall do will depend largely upon the style adopted by Schmeling. I never have fought an important bout according to a particular plan. One must change his style and plans to meet what his opponent does.

The one-style fighter seldom is successful. In order to gain the fistic heights, a boxer must be able to adapt himself to different situations.

One thing I promise, though, and that is that I shall do the same to Schmeling as I did to Loughran—defeat him by a knockout.

I have been in camp here for 10 days and already am in fine condition for my tussle with Herr Max.

The first week was an easy one for me. I had worked for two weeks in a Boston gym before hitting Orangeburg and so weighed only 202 pounds when I opened my training camp.

During my first week in camp, I restricted my drills to bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing. I felt I didn't require boxing at such an early date. It is less than three months since I fought Phil Scott at Miami and so I am not rusty for the want of work.

HAS TOUGH MATES

This week I started the boxing end of my program. From now until I end my training I shall box from four to six rounds a day with capable sparring partners.

Dan O'Leary Here To Circle Bases

Dan O'Leary, veteran 91-year-old walker, arrived in Pittsburgh last night and will give an exhibition of his prowess this afternoon when he circles the bases at Forbes Field prior to the second Pirate-Cub game. O'Leary has been doing this stunt throughout the major and minor leagues for a number of years. He will repeat the act in Shibe Park, Philadelphia, tomorrow.

Despite his 91 years, O'Leary does not appear to be more than 50. He hopes to reach 110 years.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Flirting with first place, the Pirates with four running victories to their credit, today are ready to clash with the Cubs in the second game of what ought to be a highly interesting series. The National League champions, making their bow at Forbes Field yesterday, finished on the short end of a 10 to 3 clash with the Oaklanders.

Manager Ens will rely on Steve Swetonic to put the Buccos over this afternoon. Boss McCarthy is expected to use Bob Osborn, a big righthander, against the Pirates. Marse Joe is somewhat disgusted with the showing of his first-string hurlers and is inclined to give his reserves of the slab a chance.

PIE IN LINEUP

Capt. Pie Traynor returned to the game yesterday, and while he played brilliant ball and batted consistently, there was still something left to be desired in the condition of his ailing left eye. Traynor was given a treatment in the morning and the eye appeared to be much agitated as he went back to his post.

Good news on Lloyd Waner was received this morning from Baltimore by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. This paper, through its

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

Well, folks, I guess that was the best home show we put on this year. We've been playin' a lot of games in the Pullman League like that and we're all hopin' we stay in that stride at home.

The gang's roundin' into good shape now except for some bruises. Commy spiked himself in Cincinnati in trying to make a circus catch of a ball. Doc Jorgenson worked on Adam in a hurry and tried to relieve him, but he has to wear a bandage on the sore spot on his leg.

Commy was socked in the ribs with a ball and then he gets spiked, but he comes up laughin'.

"I guess I am getting paid back for the mean way we used to treat those poor mules," said Commy as Doc was puttin' on the bandage. You see Commy worked in the mines when he was a kid. He says he ain't kiddin' a bit when he tells us that he got bow-legged from ridin' a mule back and forth from the mines when he was about 10 years old. I've heard of kids gettin' that way from ridin' barrels, but Commy is the first one I heard of that got bow-legged from ridin' donkeys.

AIDED IN WIN

Well, I finally did a little to win a ball game. I forgot to tell you that in Larry's game in Cincy he kicked the spike off one of his shoes in the eighth inning and he was kinda out of luck to finish, so I off with one of my shoes. We wear the same size, so he was O. K. Jule told me that my shoe was the best thing I had pulled off since I joined the club, and of course the gang gave me the laugh, but I've been thinkin' up some good cracks I'm gonna blast him with when I get a chance.

I also forgot to tell you that Rolly Hemsley and Ray Kolp, the bird that Hack Wilson took a sock at, was ridin' each other pretty hard in the last game on Redland Field. I guess Ray was sayin' something about how good Bool was goin' and Rolly told Ray that

VERONA, ACES IN FEATURE TILT TODAY

CITY LEAGUE BOOKS FULL PROGRAM

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

By TOM BIRNS

A big schedule faces the following ... ning with ... schedule ... leading ... tion.

Two games will be played in the Central League ... will meet ... the Bessemer ... Hills, and the Y. M. H. A. team clashes with Lincoln Clubs at Hartman Park.

In the West Penn League a real battle will be fought at Verona when Jack Fetig takes the Homestead Aces to church with Bill Bright's club. Verona now is fighting an uphill battle for while the pitchers are holding up the batsman are not getting any hitters.

STOWE TO OPEN

Pop Geer, popular manager of the Stowe Clubs, anticipates that weather permitting his team formally will open its season ... with St. John's providing the opposition. This will make the third attempt Stowe has made to open its new playing grounds, and President Harry Yera of the City League will be on hand to throw out the first ball. Let us hope that the weatherman will be in Pop's corner this evening.

The City League shows a heavy schedule. Pleasant Valley will invade Olympia Park to tangle with the undefeated Bon Air nine. Jimmy Smith's travel to Death Field to meet J. L. Thomas and the W. O. W. outfit hooks up with the North Side Clubs at the Ball Works grounds.

One game will be played in the Steel City loop. This will test the strength of the Hale and Hart Liberty Crimson nines. The game will be played at the Union High School Stadium and should draw a big crowd of valley followers.

LIFERS MEET WHITAKER

George Miller will play his first game at Pleasant Valley this evening when Reliance Life entertains the Whitaker club. Reliance is having a wonderful season and looks like first half champions in two leagues.

At Homewood playgrounds the Joseph Horne nine will meet the Mine Safety Appliance team. The East Enders will have to fight hard to win this game. Joseph Horne threw a scare into B. & O. Tuesday, errors in the outfield sending the Penn avenue boys down to defeat.

The Minor league battle brings together the L. F. Burkes and the Sankey Club at Troy Hill. Three games will be played in the Twilight League. Troy Hill at St. Boniface, Blaw-Knox at North Siders, and Immaculate Heart at Ingomar.

SAINTS, W. O. W. TIE

St. John's and W. O. W. battled to a 4-all deadlock in a City League encounter last evening. In the Greater Pittsburgh League the Reliance Life nine hammered out a 14-to-1 victory over the Dan Heeps. Raybestos defeated Rosenbaums, 20 to 3, in a Commercial League encounter, and in the Major League, the Lineys lost to Iroquois, 9 to 2.

In independent battles, the Brown Stars defeated the Union Printers, 10-2. Reick McJunkin downed the Y. M. H. A. 15-0. Demore trimmed the Clover Club, 5-2; Crawfords won over the Troy Hill Millers, 12-7, and the Homestead Grays defeated Sunset Park, 19-8. St. Adelbert's defeated Banksville, 2 to 1. The D. J. Brodericks won, 31 to 7, in seven innings at Marshall Field.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 22.—After owning the Cincinnati club for years, I see Garry Herrmann is getting $8 a week pension from the Printers' Union. I don't blame him. If I owned a club like the Cincinnatis I would hold out for $80 a week and board. But it shows what a swell future there is in baseball. When a retired magnate has to apply for pension, where does the retired player get off? When I get to be 70 I wouldn't know who to apply to for a pension except the breweries. I could prove 40 years in their service without a vacation.

Babe Ruth.

IT TOOK FIVE weeks for Babe Ruth to get going under full steam in his annual wholesale manufacture of home runs, but evidently he is bent on making up for lost time, judging from his feat of cracking out three in one game yesterday against George Earnshaw and Bob Grove. That gives Ruth a total of nine for the season and gives him the American League leadership over Jimmy Foxx, who has made eight, but the Bambino still is headed by Hack Wilson and Chuck Klein, of the Nationals, who had made 12 and 10, respectively, up to today. Ruth established another major league record when he made three round trippers in one game yesterday, as he is the first player ever to do that three times. He made three in the fourth game of the world series against the Cardinals in 1926 and repeated in the fourth game of the world series against the same club in 1928. Two other players have done it twice—Lester Bell, now of the Cubs, in 1926 and 1928, and Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, in 1927 and 1929.

TURTLE CREEK WINS TITLES

Fifteen new records were established in the eleventh annual Allegheny County school track and field meet held at the Schenley Oval yesterday. Turtle Creek Union won the senior boys and girls titles. Mount Lebanon won the junior boys meet while South Fayette captured the junior girls crown.

Turtle Creek scored 63 and 34 points to win the boys' and girls' laurels respectively. Mount Lebanon scored 29 points and South Fayette 21 points.

The senior boys' high jumping featured the meet. Shook, Mount Lebanon, won the 95-pound jump at five feet, two inches.

McKelvy School captured the track and field championship of the Critical-East End district staged at the Schenley High School field yesterday, scoring 19 points. Other scorers follow:

NEWLYWEDS—facing a grinning mob—bride and groom "good sports," with fixed smiles, pretending to think it very funny they started down the sidewalk. Anxious moments: A tense face whispers a few words meant only for the groom's ears: A warning that he was to be kidnapped as soon as the car was out of sight of two policemen on duty at the wedding. The bride overheard—stepped into the car with her husband—"Drive to the police station, quick!" she commanded. A dozen cars pursued. Into the station rushed the trembling newlyweds—into a cell and under the protection of the captain—and at four o'clock in the morning—but read the details of this and other astonishing exploits of misguided merrymakers at weddings—of horse-play antics of friends resulting in fatal tragedies—Next Sunday in The American Weekly.

What Sunday School Children Think About God

Is it true that the methods of teaching youngsters in Sunday school are out of date—out of harmony with the facts of present-day life ..... untrue to the knowledge and experience of the youngsters . . . and vague and equivocal in answering reasonable questions from the inquiring minds of those who are entitled to a straight-forward answer? An interesting report on a study of Sunday school children has just been made public—it shows the confusion of thought in the minds of modern children apparent from the answers to questions they were asked. It is a curious and suggestive study of the confusing religious instruction of Bible classes—facts that should be studied very carefully by every parent—and every Sunday school teacher—in the United States. BATTALINO OUTCLASSES BURRONE AT BOWL

SMALL CROWD BOOES BAD MATCH

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Battling Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., world featherweight champion, had no opposition from Vic Burrone, of New York, in the 10-round main bout of the opening show of the season in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night, and won hands down all of the way to the accompaniment of boos and wise-cracking razzes from the crowd that was displeased by the one-sided exhibition.

The champion, whose title was not at stake, tried hard to make a fight of it and really gave an honest effort, keeping on top of Burrone all of the time and sending home punches that were hard and frequent enough to knock out a half-dozen ordinary foes, but he found Burrone made of too tough a fibre to be even knocked off his feet. At the finish, Burrone had a bad eye and was bleeding from the mouth, but otherwise was unmarked after having absorbed a terrific beating and made little effort to fight back.

CHAMP FIGHTS WELL

Battalino will be welcome back any time on the strength of his showing, but it will have to be against an opponent of demonstrated worth in local rings. Burrone was nothing more or less than the outclassed setup forecast in these columns, and the match was a poor opener for the enlarged bowl, which played to thousands of empty seats, due to a double postponement of the card and the fact that Burrone rightly never was seriously considered by the fans as a worthy opponent for the champion. Battalino entered the ring scaling 132¾ pounds against 129½ for Burrone.

The main bout was put on before the semi-final, although this procedure had not been advertised in advance, and, in the opening bout, an unannounced substitution was made when Sammy Paris, of the Hill, out of shape at 130 pounds, was sent in to replace Johnny Warner, of Clairton, against Young Nanci, of Swissvale, 125. Nanci won the decision through a blazing finish in a hard fight.

LENNY BEATS ANDRUCCI

In the semi-final of eight rounds, Ralph Lenny, of New Jersey, highly-touted stablemate of Battalino, proved too clever a two-handed boxer for Andy Andrucci, of the East End, and won easily after the opening round, although Andrucci stayed in there and made matters interesting for him until the finish. Lenny weighed 134 pounds and Andrucci 134½.

Dan Billick, of Duquesne, outboxed Jimmy Engel, of Youngstown, 124, in the six-round second bout, winning the referee's decision when one of the judges called it a draw.

Joe Keally and Al Grayber alternated as referees, with Jock Simco and Frank Ferris acting as judges. Ray Eberle returned as announcer in soup and fish. Tommy Grant and A. C. Couch were the timers and Dr. Coyle was the attending physician. The ring was bulky and slow from the rain of the preceding few days.

HELEN JACOBS, PARTNER LOSE

AUTEUIL, France, May 22.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and her Belgian partner, Jeanne Sigart, were eliminated today in the quarter-finals of the French hard court doubles championships by the strong English combination of Joan Fry and Ermyntrude Harvey, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Jacobs, America's second ranking singles player, was the first of five United States entrants in the doubles competition to meet defeat. Miss Fry and Miss Harvey are expected to encounter Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and her fellow-Californian, Elizabeth Ryan, in the semi-finals.

The defeat of Miss Jacobs was quickly counter-balanced by a third-round American victory, in which Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan easily disposed of the French Women players, Mme. Bordes and Mme Junghenrotin, 6-2, 6-4.

SWETONIC SET FOR BRUINS

Baltimore correspondent, is in receipt of the following statement from Dr. Bertram Bernheim, specialist in charge of Lloyd:

"Waner will be able to rejoin the Pirates in 10 days. He never had intestinal trouble, but was bothered with colds and an infected throat from tonsils and adenoids which pulled him down. Tonsils and adenoids were removed 10 days ago and Waner has been gaining weight since. He is doing finely and wants to rejoin team, but won't let him go until he puts on a little more weight."

The foregoing report is much more pleasant than the rumors that wafted around the camp of the Pirates and Cubs yesterday relative to the little star. Chicago newspapermen had reports to the effect that Lloyd was in a bad way, but the real news from the front dissipates these statements.

CUBS CRIPPLED

The Cubs, themselves, are in a bad way, what with their star pitchers slumping and Hornsby and Stephenson suffering physical ailments. Hornsby's bad heel robs him of his natural form both at bat in the field, while Stevie has not yet recovered from his jammed right shoulder.

Remy Kremer had to be relieved in the seventh yesterday after his mates had given him a sizeable lead over the Cubs. Heinie Meine showed cleverness on the mound as he held the Bruins hitless for the remainder of the game.

Three Cubs were on the sacks in the seventh with only one out. Hack Wilson at the plate and four runs needed for a tie when Skipper Ens ushered Heinie to the mound. The St. Louis Dutchman made Hack the Whacker hit into a double play, and then Heinie pitched two hitless innings.

CUYLER HITS HOMER

The big batting feature of the afternoon was contributed by Kiki Cuyler in the sixth. The former Pirate star drove the rocket out of the park by way of the left-field fence, the fine homer scoring all three of the enemy's runs. Kremer had pitched clever baseball up to that point.

Manager McCarthy sent Arthur (Bud) Teachout, a promising left-hander, to the mound in the first game. The lanky rookie baffled the Oaklanders for several rounds, but after the third round the home boys piled up runs in profusion.

BATTLING BATTALINO — VIC BURRONE

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUGS

Dan Howley must think a lot of him because he heard Dan was savin' him for the mornin' game of Labor Day.

BOOL WORKING HARD

It's worth the money to see County Fair Hartnett and Country Butter Bool bearin' down out there in this series. Hartnett is one of the best and Al is makin' all kinds of friends by his good catchin', hard hittin' and hustlin'. Al has caught all of the four straight wins.

Well, I see where McGraw gets Hughey Critz, and now he'll have the best infield in the league. If he could get Smoky Joe Williams from the Homestead Grays to bolster up his pitchin' staff he might win the pennant.

Fight Results

At Meyers Bowl, North Braddock—Battling Battalino defeated Vic Burrone, 10 rounds; Ralph Lenny defeated Andy Andrucci, 8 rounds; Dan Billick won referee's decision over Jimmy Engel, 6 rounds; Young Nanci defeated Sammy Paris, 6 rounds.

At Oklahoma City—Babe Hunt defeated Jeff Carroll, 10 rounds.

At London—Al Foreman knocked out Fred Webster (for British lightweight championship), 1 round.

At New York—Eddie Dempsey defeated Dominick Wallace, 6 rounds; Erick Holmberg defeated James Pierre, 8 rounds; Paolo Villa knocked out George Ricco, 2 rounds.

At San Francisco—Babe Marino defeated Charley Hernandez, 10 rounds.

PANKA AVERS HE'LL STOP HANSEN

K-nute (Long Distance) Hansen, the altitudinous heavyweight, of New York, whose proudest boast is that he knocked out Phil Scott so quickly that the Englishman didn't even have time to claim a foul, is in town today on business bent. He has a social engagement with one George Panka, retired bricklayer, of Homestead, at Hickey Park, Millvale, the newest rendezvous for the boxing elite in these parts. They will spar with the six-ounce gloves for 10 rounds or less and each will go into the ring with the intention of making it less for his playmate.

K-nute is one of those tall and rangy fellows with a finely-pointed chin. If he can keep the chin out of harm's way, he can stab and slash and batter his way to victory over a lot of foes. He doesn't always have the ambition to parcel post his good straight right to the head, as it was intended by Nature that he should, but on a good night he is a belting terror. It behooves Mr. Panka to come in in his best weaving and crowding style and to do his fighting at close quarters at least for a few rounds if he doesn't want that right to blast him right out of the ring.

PANKA PREDICTS KAYO

Enquiring tall K-nute is Uncle Bob Levy, veteran manager of boxers, who had his life shortened at least 10 years by the wild escapades of Battling Siki when he managed the Singular Senegalese until the latter's untimely death. Bob is one of the fine fellows in the boxing realm and has many friends in all ports of call.

Levy said this morning that K-nute was fit and ready and wanted to know who this Panka thought he was that he should presume to move in the social circles of the Hansens. At the same time, Panka, resting in a downtown hotel, was declaring he would win by a knockout in three rounds.

"I know Hansen can't take it on the chin," he said, "and I am ready to rush him off his feet. I am in the finest condition of my brief career and realize this is a big chance for me to make myself. If I do not win inside of three rounds I will be disappointed."

Hansen engaged in a workout in the gymnasium of the Y. M. and W. H. A. yesterday afternoon, while Panka wound up his preparation at the Homewood Progressive Club quarters.

CLUB'S FIRST SHOW

The show tonight will be the maiden offering of the new Hickey Park Club, of which Charley Luck is matchmaker. Everything will be new for the occasion even down to the announcer, one Harry Klaus, a Millvale boy who has made good even in the radio field. The boxers will weigh in at Hickey Park and be examined by Dr. M. R. Goldman, of the commission, at 3 p. m.

The preliminary card stands as originally arranged with the exception of the semi-final of eight rounds, in which Allen Beatty, Negro, of McKeesport, takes the place of Jackie Wilson, of the North Side, who has a bad hand, against Mickey Solomen, of New Castle. In the two six-round preliminaries, Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, meets Jimmy Kirkpatrick, of Wheeling, and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, engages Johnny Mantabano, of Braddock. The first bout will go on at 8:45, daylight saving time.

Between Rounds

Billy Adkins, of the North Side, boxes Young Angelo, of Somerset, in the semi-final bout on the Gorilla-Jimmy Uzcudi Pittsburgh night at the Bowl next Thursday night. The Bowl has about closed for a Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Wells bout for June 13.

Lynn Jordan and Bobby Richardson box the 10-round main bout at Johnstown next Monday night. Ernest Donofrio meets Young Borbella, Walter Straggis opposes Scotty Monroe and Joe Cirillo tackles George Ambrose in the preliminaries.

A card of amateur bouts is scheduled at Syria Mosque tonight under the auspices of the Shriners.

At Trainer and Gene Buffalo box in Philadelphia tonight, Joey LaGuey meets Al LaMont and Carl Hansen opposes Frankie Cardinia at White Plains, N. Y.

Tiger Joe West, of Denver, and Tommy Freeman, of Erie, meet in the main bout at Erie tomorrow night.

Andy Stahura, of Braddock, boxes Tony Leone, of Ohio, in a 10-round bout at Salem, O., next Monday night. U. S. Carpenter, of New Kensington, and George Gallas, of Akron, are in the six-round semi-final.

Sport Vignettes

The Meyers Bowl is plotting a Tom Heeney-Emmett Rocco bout to follow its Willie Davies-Black Bill show, which is scheduled for June 2 . . . Tom announced his retirement from the ring some months ago, but has felt the urge to don mitts again and is back in training . . . News that Garry Herrmann, former chairman of the old National Baseball Commission, is in want at 71 and is receiving an 85-a-week dole from the Typographical Union stirs memories of the helping hand Garry extended in years past to the printers' national baseball tournament. . . . An old printer himself, Garry was a warm friend of the typos and did much for their baseball program . . . Incidentally, the printers now are planning for their annual tournament, which this year will be played in Pittsburgh, August 24-30 . . . A golf tournament will be held in connection with it and arrangements are being made for diamonds and links for the matches . . . The cities represented in the tournament are Pittsburgh, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, New York, St. Louis, St. Paul and Washington . . . Headquarters will be at Webster Hall and it is expected that the convention will attract 3,000 typos to Pittsburgh . . . It is not generally known, but the late Leo P. Flynn began his career as a boxer and a brother also was a boxer . . . For all of his 30 years as a manager and the fact that at one time he boasted the largest stable of boxers in the business Leo never was the manager of a champion . . . He came close with some strong contenders, but always just missed making the grade . . . However, he wound up with considerably more money than most of the men who piloted titleholders . . . Brooklyn fans admit that the Robins now are all right, but to most of us it would appear that what they really are is all-Wright . . . The return to form of the former Pirate shortstop star has "made" the club . . . The countryside about Endicott, N. Y., where Max Schmeling is training for his bout with Jack Sharkey, is a great sector for developing champions and near-champions . . . Two miles away is the stock farm of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, where was foaled the great Exterminator, where Sun Briar first saw th light of day and where Sally's Alley, another turf star, also came into being . . . In the valley were developed such baseball luminaries as Frank Schulte, Bill Fischer, Harry Lumley, Eddie Farrell, Wally Schang, Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk and John McGraw . . . The Wilson brother, Princeton football stars, were other native sons, and Sharkey himself was born in Binghamton, not far away . . . Hark, hark (beg pardon, bark, bark) the dogs are coming to town . . . For the spring meeting which opens at the Bridgeville Speedway Saturday night.—HARRY KECK.

The Carnegie Tech Fresh and Kiski tennis teams played a 3-3 tie yesterday on the Carnegie Tech courts.

Two Kayos Feature Amateur Ring Show

A pair of knockouts featured the boxing show staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward Athletic Club at the California avenue grounds last night. Seven bouts were on the program, and were witnessed by a crowd of some 1,500. The summary:

112-pound class—Young Pace, Hogan A. C., won from Jess Quattlebaum, Frankie Porto A. C., three rounds.

135-pound class—Joe Perrin, Frankie Porto A. C., won from John Trifalia, Pastorious A. C., three rounds.

160-pound class—Butch Jacobs, Hogan A. C., won from Walter Van Gruldert, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., knockout, first round.

P. I. A. A. TITLE MEET RIVALS PITT EVENT

By JESS CARVER.

It begins to look like Pitt's annual Interscholastic track meet in the Stadium Saturday may get a tough break on its entry list. If the W. P. I. A. L. sends an all-league team to the P. I. A. A. meet at Altoona, selected from the "winnahs" of last week's championship event, some sweet lookin' performers will be lost to the Pitt affair.

Yes sir, I think it is going to be tough 'specially as far as that "century of the century" is concerned. Milligan and Pryor both are eligible for the P. I. A. A. carnival, and as both would like nothing better than to win the state 100-yard dash title, they are likely to pass up the Pitt meet.

LOOKS PLENTY TOUGH

The same goes for Bohlander, Grove City flyer, who is the Northwestern district dash champion and holder of the best mark of the year for the hundred, 9.9.

Other stars who are in line for the all-league team, who otherwise will compete at Pitt include Bradley, Connellsville, and Dunn, Elwood City; Sprdick, McMurdo, Ellwood, half-quarter; Miller, Markeesport, hurdling high, shot putter; Fleming, Monessen, quarter miler; Colton, New Brighton, broad jumper; Clements, New Castle, miler and Pitt mural champion; McKillip, Bridgeville, and Walsh, New Castle, high jumpers, and Moon, Beaver Falls, pole vaulter.

The Tipoff

John Lalson, envoy of the athletic council, will toastmaster the annual sports dinner at Carnegie Tech tonight. The affair is being given in honor of members of the basketball, cheer leading, rooting, rifle, track and tennis teams.

Duquesne's varsity net squad meets Waynesburg in a dual engagement at Bethany this afternoon, the lone collegiate event on the day's calendar.

Tomorrow, Tech winds up its track season, the latest it has experienced in years, by entertaining Ronald E. (Drake Twin) Thorn and his Grove City College squad in the Tartan Bowl.

Penn State's ball club sank Bucknell, 6-1, at State College.

Erie Bowers did a .400 in 10 flat in a Stadium workout.

ATHLETICS, SENATORS CONTINUE FAST PACE

ROBINS, CARDS, GIANTS AND BROWNS WIN

Associated Press.

Although their race has been rather overshadowed by the heated struggle in the National League, the clubs of the American League have been putting on some rather interesting contests of their own for the higher positions in the standing.

Little more could be asked of the two leaders, the surprising Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics, current champions, than the pace they have been setting. They are separated only by a one-game margin, the Senators having two more victories.

They both engaged in double headers yesterday and came out with two victories apiece to hold their places. Washington, with Sad Sam Jones and Al Liska carrying the pitching burden, defeated the Boston Red Sox by scores of 10 to 2 and 6 to 1.

The Athletics got off to a very bad start against the New York Yankees when Babe Ruth hit two home runs on his first two trips to the plate and started the Yanks off to a 6-0 lead, but those six runs meant little as the world's champions cut loose with a rally that brought nine runs in the seventh and a 15 to 7 victory. Rube Walberg pitched the A's to 4 to 1 victory in the second game, holding New York to five hits.

Ruth's feat of home run hitting stole the show at Philadelphia. In addition to the two successive homers, the Babe added a third in the same game.

These twin bills with single victories for Chicago and St. Louis drew the second division clubs close together. Chicago, in fifth place, is but 2½ games ahead of the eighth place Detroit Tigers after yesterday's 9 to 3 victory over Detroit. The St. Louis Browns moved into sixth place by edging out a 6 to 5 victory over Cleveland.

The National League consolidated its lineup as the four first division clubs defeated second division contenders. The leading Brooklyn Robins scored three four-run bursts to beat the Boston Braves 12 to 1.

The St. Louis Cardinals got a big break when Jakie May, of Cincinnati, cut loose a wild pitch with a man on third and broke a 2-2 tie to give the Cards a 3-2 victory. Pittsburgh held its precarious grip on third place by greeting the first appearance of the Cubs at Forbes Field with a dozen solid hits and a 10 to 3 victory.

New York's Giants, after suffering various vicissitudes while entertaining the Braves, started hitting properly again with the appearance of Philadelphia and won by an 11 to 4 count. Fred Fitzsimmons pitched well, while Pat Crawford, learning that his job at second base was about gone as the Giants acquired Hughie Critz, led the team by driving in four runs with a home run and a triple.

PEABODY WINS

PEABODY HIGH closed its City League baseball season yesterday by defeating Vocational High School by an 8-to-1 score.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 22.—Penn State's nine downed Bucknell here yesterday in a close game, 8 to 7.

Braves Purchase Coast League Infielder

BOSTON, May 22.—(AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie's hopes of solving his third base problem soared yesterday when the Braves obtained the services of Charles (Buster) Clatham from the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for Infielder Eugene Robertson, another player to be selected later and an unrevealed cash consideration.

FIGHT PLANS UP TO MAX

distance and prepares him for the big test.

King Solomon and Johnny Grosso were signed early by Johnny Buckley for my sparring staff. Solomon was one of the world's leading heavyweights a few years ago. He gave me two hard battles in Boston.

The King worked with Schmeling while the latter was getting ready for his match with Paulino last June. He should be able to give me some pointers on the German's style.

Grosso has trained with me for most of my important bouts. Johnny is a big, strong fellow—a good boxer and a terrific right-hand puncher. Few heavyweights hit as hard with a right hand as Grosso.

NEAR FIGHTING WEIGHT

Buckley will add two or three more sparring partners to my list so that should any of the boys meet with an injury, there will be ample men around for me to work with.

I am down to 200 pounds and will be able to coast along and enter the ring at 196 pounds, which is the weight I carried the night I knocked out Loughran.

From now on I shall work about 10 rounds a day. In addition to my boxing with my sparring partners, I will do some bag-punching and rope-skipping.

I am out on the road for three to five miles each morning. Road work is very important for a heavyweight. It gives him endurance and builds him up to a point where he recuperates quickly between rounds.

REALIZES OBLIGATION

Before I left Boston for my training camp here, fans presented me a little blue flag, which represents that great city. I promised to bring that flag home with the world championship as well.

A committee representing the fans told me I was the standard-bearer of America in a bout with the leading foreign contender. It was impressed on me that the boxing prestige of the United States depends on what I do in the Schmeling match. I told that committee, and now publicly announce to the world, that I shall do everything possible to score a decisive victory in the championship match. Max will have to be a marvel to escape my promised Loughran licking, which means a clearcut K. O.

I believe that America leads in most branches of athletics. Our boys and young men have proved their worth in numerous international tests and I shall try hard to maintain that high standard.

Warns on Pessimism | Latest Financial News

BANKER GIVES WARNING ON PESSIMISM

Can Find No Reason Now To See Other Than Bright Side, Fleishhacker Says

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Herbert Fleishhacker, president of Anglo and London Paris National Bank of San Francisco, and outstanding financial leader of the Far West, in a message to this column, cautioned the public against exaggerated pessimism at this stage of the cycle. His remarks are perhaps all the more significant in view of the fact that months before the panic Mr. Fleishhacker, in chatting with me, then expressed a lack of confidence in the "new era" psychology under which blue chip stocks were being bid up to fantastic price earnings ratios.

The man on the street goes through a life time yearning wistfully for an opportunity to button hole a financial luminary, and ask him for the real low down on prospects in the stock market and in business. The truth is that any man's opinions, however well conceived, must be based partly on conjecture and surmise. Men who are outstanding successes have merely developed a high batting average for rescuing the signposts of the future; none of course has developed infallibility.

Giving the public a glimpse of what is going on in his mind, Mr. Fleishhacker, responding to my request for his views, said:

"I can not get too pessimistic about current economic conditions in this country or about the stock market. An immediate resumption of the wild excesses of the recent bull market is not of course in prospect, but I cannot find reason to forsake an optimistic attitude.

"The public's views concerning stock prices have been badly distorted at times during the last year. Near the height of the late enthusiasm, one prominent political and financial leader expressed the opinion that stocks should sell on 'times earnings basis' and fixed a ratio of 15 times earnings as a fair value. As the optimism increased others raised this figure to 20 times earnings and, finally, the public was told that the best stocks should sell at 30 times earnings.

"I think this reasoning is entirely fallacious. Stocks should sell, granting that the corporation's accounting system is conservative and right, primarily on the basis of dividends plus surplus earnings. It is only proper that these surplus earnings be put aside for depreciation, depletion and as a reserve for any adverse developments. After all, an investor buying stocks is merely buying a return on his money. He receives not the earnings but merely the dividends which are declared out of earnings. Very few of our important, large corporations will find it necessary to lower dividends this year and the investor, therefore, has no cause for real concern."

Dealing with prospects in his own territory, Mr. Fleishhacker added:

"Agricultural conditions on the Pacific Coast are very promising. We have had seasonal rains and prospects at present are very bright for a bumper crop."

Raybestos Jumps Brake Lining Output

NEW YORK, May 22.—Directors of Raybestos Manhattan, Inc., have authorized the purchase of additional equipment for the Manhattan rubber division to enlarge production by 500 per cent in the department making asbestos moulded brake lining. The increased production facilities have been necessitated by increased orders from a large manufacturer of low-priced automobiles.

$150,000 LIGHT WORK STARTS

DENNISON, O., May 21.—The Ohio Power Company expects to employ 25 to 50 men on a $150,000 rebuilding program in Uhrichsville and Dennison to be started next week and completed in December, District Superintendent Stanley Rudge announced. Mayor J. W. Lytle, of Uhrichsville, refused to sign a 10-year franchise for street illumination which council instructed the board of control to approve. He asserted that within five years the city will be ready for municipal ownership.

GAIN IN OUTPUT OF AUTOS

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP.)—The April output of automobiles and trucks in the United States was reported by the Commerce Department as 442,630 vehicles, a sharp gain over March, when there were 401,382 vehicles.

April, 1929, was the high record month of all time for automobile plants.

Canadian automobile production for April amounted to 24,257 cars and trucks, against 20,730 in March, and 41,901 in April last year.

Two Freight Rate Wars Start Next Month

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

TWO BATTLES ON FREIGHT RATES which will have decisive effects on Pittsburgh's industrial development will open next month. The rates involved are on shipments of steel and coal, the backbone of this district's industrial activity.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered the Lake Cargo Coal case reopened, June 16 was set as the date for the hearing. Within a short time the Public Service Commission is expected to announce the time for the hearing of the rate case on short hauls of steel in the Pittsburgh district.

A gain or loss of millions of dollars of business for the Pittsburgh district annually will depend on the outcome of these two cases.

Hope for Coal Producers

THE LAKE CARGO CASE ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission was a distinct victory for the coal operators of this district. It follows over a year of unsuccessful attempts to bring the famous case up for a hearing. The present rates have been in effect since the early part of 1929 in spite of repeated attempts by local coal operators to secure relief.

After a long drawn out battle before the commission, a ruling was secured in 1928 which gave coal producers in this district an increase in the differential between Pittsburgh and West Virginia from 25 cents to 45 cents a ton in reaching lake ports.

The change in the differential granted Pittsburgh a portion of the natural advantage which local operators claim they should have as a result of their nearness to the lake markets.

Rate War Started

THE INCREASED DIFFERENTIAL was obtained by an order from the commission which reduced the rate on freight shipments from the Pittsburgh district to the lakes by 20 cents a ton. The victory was short lived. Southern railroads countered with a similar cut in the rates from West Virginia. The Northern roads then followed by another cut which again restored the differential ordered by the commission.

By this time the railroads found that their rate war had become rather costly. They agreed on rate increases which resulted in a compromise differential of 35 cents a ton, giving the Pittsburgh district only half of the relief ordered by the commission.

Legality Uncertain

FOLLOWING THE FIRST rate cut made by the Southern railroads, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the rate set aside. The Southern roads secured an injunction against the commission's order in the Federal courts. The commission appealed the case but, by the time the Supreme Court had an opportunity to issue a ruling, the rate compromise had been reached. In view of this the court decided that the case was moot and refused to express an opinion as to whether the Interstate Commerce Commission has the right to specify minimum as well as maximum railroad rates.

If the Pittsburgh coal operators are again successful in convincing the commission that they are entitled to a larger differential, it is entirely possible that another rate war may ensue and that the case will again have to come before the Supreme Court.

Cigar Machinery Doubling Shares

NEW YORK, May 22.—International Cigar Machinery Company stockholders will vote June 16 on the proposal to increase capital stock to 600,000 shares from 300,000 and to issue two new shares for each share now outstanding.

Forbes

Biggest of Them Had Adventures in Raising Cash

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN WE SEE or read about multi-millionaires, it doesn't occur to most of us that they ever have to wrestle with financial problems such as beset ourselves.

The truth is that I know of hardly any towering business or financial giants who didn't have to overcome financial obstacles sufficient to break the heart of most mortals.

Raising capital still is the hardest part of launching most enterprises and of nursing them along in the early stages.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER told me that he had to hustle prodigiously to find lenders when he began to build up his oil business. Young Rockefeller had been well schooled in finding money on short notice. He told me:

"My father had taught me this lesson by coming to me at the most awkward moments in my early business life and demanding repayment of his loans. He did this, of course, to test my resourcefulness and my ability to meet sudden emergencies. After I had hustled to procure his money he would laugh and hand it back, saying he was glad to know I was able to meet my obligations."

In those days banking facilities were limited. Mr. Rockefeller recalled with a chuckle how, in one instance, a bank president met him on the street and gravely told him his borrowings had become so alarmingly heavy that he must come and talk the situation over with the directors.

"I'll be delighted to meet the directors," the budding oil genius replied, "for I need a great deal more."

Mr. Rockefeller, with the gleefulness of a schoolboy, added, "He never sent for me."

CARNEGIE was an inveterate borrower. Edison for years was not even half-a-jump ahead of the sheriff. Ford was chronically busted during his early struggles. Woolworth got his start mainly on credit. Alexander Graham Bell and Theodore N. Vail sometimes hadn't even lunch money when they were struggling to convince people that the telephone was something more than a new toy. Robert Dollar went bankrupt shortly after he entered the lumber business. John N. Willys had a terrific struggle to keep the Overland Company from shutting down in the panic of 1907. W. C. Durant's financial troubles are well known.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S wife wouldn't speak to him for two weeks when he "squandered" all the family savings and borrowed money in acquiring a swell $5,000 automobile when a railway employe—she learned in time that the "squandering" was the shrewdest investment her husband could possibly have made. Incidentally, young Chrysler had quite a time finding anyone willing to lend him part of the price. Henry Clay Frick, who left $125,000,000, got his start because he was able to persuade Secretary Mellon's father to lend him $10,000 during the awful panic of 1873. John H. Patterson for years hadn't a spare penny to ring up any one of his cash registers.

THE other day Samuel Insull, now head of the utility properties having a market value of $3,000,000,000, gross revenues of half a billion annually and 600,000 stockholders, described one of his early financial episodes at the annual banquet of the Chicago Stock Exchange. He said, in part:

"One of the worst experiences I ever had was during the Bryan silver campaign of 1896. The old Chicago Edison company had call loans at the bank for $400,000. We had made arrangements with an investing trust in London to take $1,200,000 of our bonds. Then came the Democratic convention. Mr. Bryan delivered his Cross of Gold speech, and our chance of selling bonds in London went glimmering.

"I decided to go to London, although I told our directors that I didn't believe I would have much success. I was pretty young and I pictured the board of directors of the London Trust Company looking me over and saying, 'He is a pretty youthful fellow, especially during a silver campaign.'

"Fortunately, the chairman had known me when I was an office-boy in London. Before I got through with him I persuaded him that he knew me very well indeed. He happened to notice the name of Isham on the letterhead of one of our lawyers. 'Is that my friend, Mr. Edward S. Isham, whom I take baths with every year?' he asked. I said, 'I think so.' He said, 'Does he know anything of this mortgage?' I said, 'I consulted him the morning I left'—and I had consulted him—concerning a power of attorney in connection with the mortgage!

"I got my money, cabled it to America, and it was probably the only gold that came into Chicago between Bryan's speech and the November election."

Many a Backward Step Is Taken Standing Still

Without conservatism business fails.

But a true understanding of the word is necessary.

Conservatism is the application of tried and proved principles to business policies.

Especially is conservatism imperative for banks—which are trustees of the public's money.

The record of this institution has been one of sound conservatism which will be adhered to.

But to conduct an enterprise strictly on business methods of the past often shows timidity or lack of vision and not conservatism.

The requirements of Pittsburgh business are changing.

The wealth of the Pittsburgh District is increasing, its expanding industries need larger credit resources, the per capita wealth is increasing, the entire world needs an ever increasing volume of Pittsburgh products, its citizens are doing more thinking along economic lines, there is a new note of civic pride being sounded, control of business is passing to younger men who will not be bound by obsolete conditions. The conservatism which fails to weigh these facts is a negative factor in our community's progress.

PROFESSIONALS CAN'T BUDGE MARKET

Struggle Against Wall Of Speculative Inertia In Vain—Volume Falls

NEW YORK, May 22 (A.P.)—Professional traders again struggled unsuccessfully against a wall of speculative inertia in today's stock market. Trading during the early hours of the session was even lighter than yesterday, and save for a few volatile issues, stocks were disinclined to move much in either direction.

The professional element of late finds itself unable to start any substantial wave of selling by taking the short side and fails to attract a following on the long side. Today's trading was typical of that of other recent sessions.

TONE FIRMER

Floor traders went heavily short on Case during the first hour, sending it down more than 18 points, and mildly unsettling the entire list, but around mid-day large scale buying of General Motors, attributed in brokerage circles to a large operator now working from the other side of the Atlantic, caused nervousness in the bear ranks and covering cancelled most of the earlier losses. Speculation for the rise was resumed in a few specialties, and the list developed a firm tone.

Split up and favorable dividend actions announced late yesterday failed to inspire notable bullishness. American Machine and Foundry made negligible response to the plan of a five-for-one split and retirement of the preferred, and International Salt did little, despite the increase in the dividend from $1.50 to $2 and the proposal to split the stock three-for-one. Missouri Kansas Texas ran into profiting on the announcement of the initial $1 dividend on the present stock, then rallied. Coppers were again unsettled by reduction of the Inspiration quarterly payment from $1 to 50 cents, the third copper dividend cut this week.

ROADS SHOW GAINS

Sentiment in rail circles showed improvement, reflecting publication of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Western Maryland April earnings report, showing gains over the like month of 1929. The few railway earnings reports for April now at hand show an aggregate reduction from April, 1929, of about 20 per cent, but Class 1 roads all together showed a drop of more than 30 per cent in March from the like 1929 period.

Auburn Auto, recently acutely weak, rebounded several points, and issues rising 2 points or more included Chesapeake and Ohio, American Tobacco B, United Aircraft, Texas Corp., Corn Products, and Grigsby Grunow. The last named was an active feature in bullish operations based on optimistic forecasts for the company's new electrical refrigerator, and improved outlook for its radio business.

Despite heavy buying, General Motors made little progress. Several shares showed moderate firmness, including Coca Cola, Ludlum, Byers, Public Service of N. J., General Electric, Radio Keith, Fox and Air Reduction. U. S. Steel and American Can sold off a couple of points, then, made full recovery. A few shares, including American Machine and Foundry, Eastman Kodak, Magma, Allied Chemical and Macy, sold off about 4 to 9 points, then rallied. Mohawk Carpet reached a new 1930 low on omission of the 75-cent dividend due at this time.

There was disappointment in some quarters that the Bank of England made no reduction in its 3 per cent discount rate, but credit in this market was plentiful. Although call money again renewed at 3 per cent, it was in good supply in the outside market at 2½, and time money, now around the lowest levels in six years, showed an easier tone.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Curb market was dull and heavy today. Selling operations met with fair resistance in most of the leading shares and a small number of stocks pointed higher, but the list as a whole found lower levels. It was one of the slowest sessions of the last fortnight.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Youngstown Sheet Tube Will Earn Dividend in Current Quarter

Present indications are for earnings of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. for the current quarter will little more than cover common dividend requirements for the period unless an unexpected upturn in business develops within the next six weeks. Net per share for the second quarter will be somewhat below the figure of $1.82 a share earned in the first quarter. It is presumed directors will declare the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 at the meeting tomorrow. There is little likelihood Sheet and Tube will be long disturbed beyond through any alterations of its present rate on the common shares.

A development which may have considerable bearing on the merger activities of railroads is the approval by the Senate of the Couzens resolution making it unlawful for railroad holding companies to obtain further control of carriers and preventing exercise of present control. It also restricts the Interstate Commerce Commission's power to approve consolidations until March 1 1931 except on fulfillment of certain conditions. While the resolutions has not been passed by the lower house it is significant in that it gives an indication of legislative sentiment.

The outstanding strength displayed by General Motors in the past few days has served to attract renewed interest in the premier motor issue and its followers are hearing rather encouraging reports on current activities. Production and sales figures of the Chevrolet division indicate that this unit is fully holding its own in the competition with Ford. Virtually every other automobile division is showing increased business. Buick has been slowing down somewhat but it is said to be in preparation for the introduction of a new straight-eight line of cars in August. The divisions not directly affiliated with the automobile business are maintaining high level operations. Frigidaire is steadily increasing its sales and earnings and this holds true of some of the smaller units.

Western Maryland Railway Company is among the few outstanding roads in the country which during the first four months has been able to make a showing in its earnings comparable to those reported for the first third of 1929. The company showed an increase of approximately $16,000 in net income for last month and for the first four months of the year net income was down only about $20,000. In addition the fact that Western Maryland is prominent in rail consolidation developments gives to the common stock of this carrier a decidedly speculative flavor.

Steady decline of the securities of Mohawk Carpet Mills on the stock exchange for nine the past 10 days indicated that the directors would take the action that was announced today when the news was released that the quarterly dividend of 75 cents, due at this time, was omitted. It is reported that not only is this company experiencing a decline of its sales because of general business situation but that recent innovations in its lines had not developed with the enthusiasm that was anticipated among buyers.

Sooner or later the financial market will be deluged with reports and statements of reviving activities in important industries, increasing freight-car loadings, recoveries in prices of commodities, and, of greatest importance, increasing net income for representative corporations. When that time comes prices of leading stocks will be considerably above the current level and already well along the way to a new bull movement. The logic of that argument is that this is the time for shrewd buyers, investors and traders, to be purchasing their favorite shares and there are important indications that bargain-hunting of this kind is now taking place.

Chesapeake Issue Given Approval

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $18,152,400 of common capital stock and to sell an additional $20,142,200 of common stock, a total of $38,294,600.

Stock was offered for subscription pro rata to common stockholders and proceeds used for corporate purposes.

American Machine Retiring Preferred

NEW YORK, May 22.—American Machine and Foundry Company stockholders will vote June 16 on a proposal to increase the authorized capital stock to 1,500,000 shares from 300,000 and to split the present outstanding shares 5-for-1. The company will retire all outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock at 115.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Lonely Hearts

The clerk at Rainbow Inn, through years of training, could read, from his side of the desk, the signature of a guest as he registered.

The extremely well-dressed but tired appearing man of around 40 had not made the last "l" of his signature on the register—H. G. Bardwell—before the clerk was quite alert.

"Ah, yes Mr. Bardwell. You have reserved a suite," he said and called a boy.

"I hope it is a quiet one. I'm overworked and need rest and quiet," Bardwell said.

"The whole establishment is noted for quiet. It is a rest place rather than a mere lively resort," he was assured.

The clerk spoke truly. People came to Rainbow Inn to rest. They had to be people of means, because the rates were extremely high—so high that a man of slim purse wouldn't rest at all.

Not many young people were there, but many of advanced years and also many of middle age—tired society women and big business men, whose nerves were frayed during their frenzied days of dollar-grabbing.

Newcomers were discussed as in any resort, but more especially here, because it was not a great crowded place and, besides, the guests were curious to learn what it was that gave each newcomer need for rest.

"Bar-r-rdwell?" Mrs. de Navarro asked. She always called herself "Senora" and her half-mourning proclaimed her a widow. A great many society women who couldn't quite place her envied her jewels.

"Yes," Mrs. Long whispered. "H. G. Bardwell, the famous lawyer."

"Famous for brains, eh? Not for fortune?" Senora yawned slightly as she spoke.

"Oh, no, he's immensely wealthy—he practices law because he loves it, as some men love horse-racing."

Smiles at 'Widow'

This was quite true of H. G. Bardwell. Mrs. Long knew a great deal about people. Even though she never met many of them, she knew about them. She knew Bardwell only by name.

"Imagine to work and have no need! How quaint these American men are," murmured the beautiful Spanish widow.

H. G. Bardwell did not come down to meals for two days. When he did come down he seemed unusually distinguished, although his clothes were the same as the clothes of the other male guests. The charming little Spanish widow studied him with great care. She even ventured a sad little smile, rather wistful—at least she tried to make it wistful.

H. G. Bardwell caught the smile and gave her a bright glance. She looked down bashfully at her plate.

"Who is the pretty little foreign lady?" Bardwell asked.

His acquaintance told him.

"Senora Dolores de Navarro, widow—comes from the Argentine. Those Argentine seem to have thundering big fortunes," the man said, and added, "Want to meet her?"

"She looks restful—and I'm here to rest," Bardwell said.

They strolled around to the glassed-in section. Bardwell's newly-made acquaintance introduced him to the little Spanish widow. Bardwell chatted with her for 10 minutes or so.

"Life," said the Senora, "is so lonesome—when one is alone."

Tears seemed to swim to the corners of her great soulful eyes, so that Bardwell couldn't make the flippant remark he had thought of saying, to the effect that one is always more lonesome when alone.

It was the following evening, down on the Italian terrace, that Bardwell had his next chat with Senora Dolores de Navarro.

He was sitting on a marble bench, properly cushioned for semi-invalids, and leaning against a marble Faun smoking. The little widow came along the path, pausing to stop and smell a rose here and there. She didn't see him. She lifted tenderly a great white rose that seemed waxen in the moonlight; she kissed the heart of the rose, then wiped away a few tears with a lacy handkerchief.

'Broken-Hearted'

On she came, slowly. Her dainty little high silver heel caught in an edge of the path. She stumbled.

"A fall against the statue, Senora, might have disfigured your beautiful face," Bardwell said, as he caught her in his arms.

She gasped and clung to him a moment, then sat down on the bench, hand over her fluttering heart.

"You were so queeck to save me," she murmured, and then, "but to hurt my face—it wouldn't matter—I am alone, I am broken of heart."

"My dear Senora," he said, tossing aside his cigar and placing his hand over her own, "I, too, know loneliness and weariness, because I work to forget loneliness, work until I am worn out."

"But even work—were I strong enough—would not recompense for my lonely heart," the widow murmured. She looked at him soulfully. Her little hand in his seemed to flutter. He pressed the hand reassuringly.

"It is criminal to suffer loneliness when there is always a cure," he declared.

"A cure?"

"If a fair lady suffer with a lonely heart—" Bardwell hesitated. Evidently he had a bashful streak.

Senora de Navarro's hand took her dainty handkerchief to her face to hide her blushes.

"It is of a chilliness tonight in the air. Perhaps tomorrow night we two may talk of our loneliness, yes."

"By all means, senora—charmed. After dinner, then, tomorrow."

"Yes, but we must be discreet—so easy do people gossip."

"Lonely hearts should be immune from the sting of gossiping tongues," he said.

"A lady must forever have a care—her good name is her all."

"Quite so—adios—little lonely heart," he said softly, as he left her at the veranda.

He watched her enter the lighted hotel hall and make her way to the elevator. She was all fire and grace.

Meet Next Evening

"Pretty sentimental talk for you, old boy," Bardwell muttered to himself as he went back to the bench for another smoke.

Bardwell went from dinner the next evening to the bench by the marble Faun. It was half an hour later that Senora de Navarro came.

"Shall we walk?" Bardwell asked.

"To a more secluded spot, my dear friend, away from jealous eyes."

"Jealous?"

"Indeed—already several of the American ladies are angry with me."

"Impossible," Bardwell declared.

"But yes—I have been seen with you three times now—and they are jealous—you have not paid so much attention to any others."

"Mutual sympathy, dear Senora. I am lonely, you have a lonely heart. I pity you."

"Oh, Senor Bardwell, do have a care. Pity, they say, is akin to love."

"And love cures lonely hearts?"

Senora Dolores Navarro sighed ecstatically and snuggled close to the famous and wealthy H. G. Bardwell.

They walked slowly. Perhaps Bardwell was wrong, but it seemed as though the beautiful little widow were leading him down the terrace and into the cedar-enclosed old-fashioned garden—a place where prying eyes could not detect them.

"It is so beautiful," the Senora whispered.

"You are so beautiful. I often wonder how poets can rave over summer nights when no summer night is perfect without some lovely lady beside you to create the final perfection."

"Ah, and they told me you Americans were just a sordid nation of money-makers. It is not true—you are all poetry, all romance—no gallant of my own hot-blooded Latin race was ever more tender and romantic than you, Senor Bar-r-rdwell!"

"When two lonely hearts come together—"

Bardwell hesitated.

"Oh, the beautiful bower—let us sit there," the senora whispered.

Trapped at Game

They crossed the grassy little square and sat beneath the old-fashioned bower—redolent of great clusters of wistaria.

"When two lonely hearts are together—if they are together, senor," the little widow whispered. Her arm reached up, her hand slid about his neck. He suddenly crushed her to himself.

"Now—lonely hearts are together — together forever — they must not part," the senora whispered.

She drew his face down for a kiss.

There was a rustle of leaves, a "thud" of feet landing on the sod from a tree limbs, and the figure of a man appeared. In his hand a shining revolver.

"Faithless one!" he cried gratingly.

"Dios! My husban'—I leave heem. I say I am a widow for my protection—"

"Wife stealer—I keel you with my faithless wife," the man snarled, advancing.

The senora clung to Bardwe She whispered frantically in his ear. "Save me—buy me off—save my life—he loves money."

"But—" stammered Bardwell.

"He will keel us both—save me—buy him off."

Bardwell stood up.

"I have about ten thousand on me and some gems. Will you take that and go?" he asked.

The wronged husband advanced.

"I will search," he said.

"Take everything," Bardwell urged. "Take this—"

"This" was a terrific sock in the jaw and down went the man. Bardwell picked up the gun. He had his own in the other hand.

"Up to the hotel, you blackmailing badgering crooks," he snapped.

In the private hotel office the manager saw Bardwell handcuff the pair.

"Swell work, Nixon," he said. "The Hotel Managers' Association will pay you well for this. These crooks have blackmailed over sixty of our patrons in the last three years."

"Get a closed car," the supposed H. G. Bardwell said. "I have got to take these two lonely hearts to jail and lock 'em up!"

ONE ON EARL

(Nashville, Mo., Item.)

We hear J. S. Myers has purchased a new piano for his boy. He will likely have lots of music now, as he has a fine phonograph, too. There was a laughable thing occurred at the Endeavor Sunday night, as follows:—A few young ladies were sitting in the back part of the church, before services began, and Earl Parker walked in and caught hold of a young lady's ear and thought it was Jessie Sensney's. The lady was a stranger to him and Earl was plagued.

EXONERATION ON THE LUTE

Water is an awe-inspiring
Sight that grows a trifle tiring;
For waves that beat upon the shore
Become, with time, an awful bore.
So praise him who diversified
The scenery of the ocean side
By placing people on the beach
Who are peculiar, one and each,—
Mites without the ocean's beauty
Who fulfill a thankless duty
By showing up before our eyes
Some aspects we can criticise.

Q. and A. Department

Gentlemen Will Not Ask Improper Questions; Others Must Not.

Q.—

Have you read "Lady Chatterley's Lovers," and if so, what do you think of it as a work of art? Reba Smoot Grundy, Chairman, Tuesday Delphinian Club.

Ans.—

Aunt Bella probably read this book before you was born—assuming, of course, you are not more than 27. What I mean is, I had read practically everything by the time I was six years of age. You do not get anywheres trying to cast the impression that Aunt Bella is lapsus. The reason I have not read so much of late years is because I haven't had the time to fritter away with books. If you club women was hip to the work Aunt Bella is doing you would give her a boost oncest in a while instead of never even offering her a sandwich at your pain-in-the-neck literary teas my eye. Aunt Bella.

Pinchot Wins, Too

Allegheny County Organization, in Particular, Suffers Smashing Defeat.

On the face of the unofficial returns now at hand Gifford Pinchot has won the Republican nomination for governor.

It is a victory for the people over the political machines of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. Particularly in Allegheny County Pinchot flattened out the local Republican organization with the most significant defeat it has suffered in many years.

It is a triumph for human rights in the struggle with corporate privileges.

Pinchot emphasized in his campaign the necessity of abolishing the coal and iron police, corporation hirelings whose oppression of innocent people, culminating in the killing of John Borkowski, has brought shame to the state.

He emphasized the necessity of putting a halt to the high-handed proceedings of public utilities companies which, with the assent of a subservient Public Service Commission, have been charging unfair rates and otherwise imposing on the public.

These were the outstanding planks in Pinchot's platform, and it was these things, coupled with the honest and vigorous administration that he gave during his previous term as governor, that won him the nomination.

Pinchot is a dry, but his election cannot be interpreted as an indorsement by Pennsylvania of prohibition. No "straddler," Pinchot made it plain that he favors the Eighteenth Amendment. Quite properly, however, he said little about the matter in his campaign; for it was not a pertinent issue in the gubernatorial contest.

The Governor cannot repeal prohibition or prevent its repeal. That is a matter for Congress and the state legislatures.

It is beyond dispute that thousands of Pennsylvanians voted for Pinchot who are not in favor of prohibition. Knowing that his attitude could not affect the solution of the problem, they were broad-minded enough not to let his personal opinion on this subject prejudice them against his merits. In most cases, no doubt, they respected him all the more for not concealing his feeling. Francis Shunk Brown lost votes by trying to evade the matter through his proposal of a referendum.

Those anti-dry Republicans who are talking of backing an independent anti-dry candidate for governor may finally decide to confine their efforts to the election of anti-dry congressmen and legislators, who can do their cause the most good.

There are other things much more important in the administration of the Commonwealth's executive office than that the Governor should have a liberal attitude on the liquor question.

Naturally the Sun-Telegraph feels satisfaction in the fact that BOTH the leading candidates it indorsed have won their nominations.

As the count continued yesterday Secretary Davis' lead over Grundy for the senatorship nomination continued to grow. His selection, as this newspaper said yesterday, is a smashing repudiation of the Fisher-Grundy machine. Mr. Davis will be a senator sensitive to the needs of all classes and interested in other important things besides the tariff.

The Sun-Telegraph congratulates Mr. Davis and Mr. Pinchot, and hopes that, if they are elected in November, they will render satisfactory service and justify the faith their fellow citizens in Pittsburgh have expressed by their ballots.

Roberts Well Qualified For Supreme Court Post

President Hoover has good reason to be gratified by the national commendation of his selection of Owen J. Roberts, of Pennsylvania, as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court in succession to the late Justice Sanford, of Tennessee.

And the United States Senate is no less entitled to national commendation for the promptness and unanimity with which it has advised and consented to this excellent nomination.

The truth is that Mr. Roberts appears to be pre-eminently qualified on every score for distinguished service on the great tribunal and his selection meets with the highest expectations of his countrymen.

The new associate justice is a scholar in the law and was a teacher of the law for many years. He is a practitioner of preeminent ability and long and varied experience.

For the last six years Mr. Roberts has commanded the attention and the confidence of the whole country by the distinction and the diligence with which he has served the federal government as special counsel in its suits against the participants in the scandalous Elk Hills and Teapot Dome oil contracts.

The fact that the government's oil lands have been recovered is in no small degree due to the ability and fidelity with which Mr. Roberts discharged his arduous duties as special counsel.

As a state and federal prosecuting attorney, as a teacher of the law, as a practitioner and as a public servant, Mr. Roberts has demonstrated that he possesses those qualities of mind and heart, those talents and abilities and those traits of character that are of the stuff of which good judges are made.

Perhaps Judge Parker was not the best appointment after all. Perhaps the Senate did not err in rejecting his nomination.

In any event, President Hoover, if he made a mistake, has certainly redeemed himself by the appointment of Mr. Roberts. And in any case the Senate has demonstrated its whole-hearted desire to strengthen the Supreme Court by its enthusiastic confirmation of Mr. Roberts.

How to Succeed

Mr. Carleton Reveals the Secret.

It was bound to happen sometime and it did. A captain of industry, Newcomb Carleton, president of the Western Union, gave an honest interview the other day. It was on the favorite subject of captains of industry—how to win success.

He said:

"It's all in the breaks. You can encourage the breaks by taking intelligent chances, but this old gospel of hard work and so on is the bunk. There are a dozen men in our plants who could fill my job as well as I do. These people who are always lecturing youth make me sick. I never make speeches to Boy Scouts and Commencement classes. What can I say! If I am forced to speak I say, 'Go run around the block and find things out for yourself.'

"I'm fed up with important and pretentious people. These stuffed shirts who come from high places and tell you how the world is getting along are 90 per cent bunk and 10 per cent publicity."

Something ought to be done about Mr. Carleton. He is giving away trade secrets. He might have waited, at least, until the graduation season was over. He has made it almost imperative for speakers to say something. Embarrassing, we call it.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

No Crime to Be Healthy

Service supervisor says that space in department store is so valuable that he never hires a fat saleslady.

"Bugs" Baer

They take up too much room in back of the counter. They lack the cruising radius and flexible mobility of a thin girl. Too much wheelbase.

But when they want somebody to take a piano off a shelf do they call a skinny dame? They don't. Up toddles a husky saleslady and slaps that piano into the aisle.

When a customer gets rambunctious and yells for the floorwalker, who takes her by the arm and gives her a gentle but firm exit? Why the girl who is built like the ground crew of a Zeppelin.

And who does the handsome floorwalker take out to dinner at eventide? The skinny saleslady? Nope. She eats too much.

When husbands are sent downtown to match something in the lingerie department do they strut nervously to the thin saleladies?

No. They look around like a leopard in a jungle until they see a good-natured, smiling, fatty saleslady with a complexion as clear as a lake and almost as wide.

They walk up to her with all the confidence of a fireman breaking a window pane. They feel perfectly at home with the stout dry-goods merchantress because she reminds 'em of the wife.

And when she holds the goods between her dainty fingers and shakes them in the breeze she doesn't flirt through the lace on the edges.

We have yet to see a stoutish saleslady who wasn't a good salesman; she knows her business, stands firmly on her feet and doesn't knock packages off the shelf doing a hula dance.

We advise department stores not to cancel the handsome girls just because they are taking up too much parking space.

When a man goes into a store he is a customer and not a weight-guesser.

If the stout girls are a little big make the aisles wider and build an annex.

Personality is what sells goods. We advise the owners to stick to the department store racket and leave the ensembles to Ziggy and Earl Carroll.

THE STARS

By Archibald Henderson

So persistent and intensive have been recent astronomical studies concerning the stars that they are known and understood with great scientific precision. Their number, constitution, radiant energy, magnitude and density are facts which can be set down and catalogued. It is even possible now, in the light of the latest researches, to tell, with a close degree of accuracy, what strange things are happening in the interior of these inconceivably hot bodies.

With the naked eye, on a clear night, it is possible to see some 6,000 stars in the firmament. Through a small telescope, one may glimpse several hundred thousand. With the 100-inch reflector at Mount Wilson, one may photograph, it has been estimated, as many as a billion stars. With the 200-inch telescope now building, it will be possible, in all probability, to photograph several billion stars.

The stars, twinkling points of light in the heavens, are hot bodies which derive their temperatures from within. Consider our sun, which serves as a sort of standard or measure for the stars.

The surface temperature of the sun is estimated at about 6,000 degrees centigrade. The temperature of the stars varies from about 2,000 degrees centigrade in the case of the coolest stars, to about 25,000 degrees centigrade, for the hottest stars.

Along with these facts in regard to temperature must be taken into consideration the extreme remoteness of the stars from our own ever-changing position. Apart from our sun, the nearest of the stars is some 25 million million miles away. It is difficult to estimate the remoteness of the most distant stars. But it is probably not less than 500 thousand million million miles.

The relation between brightness and remoteness is a very puzzling question. A star appears to be of a certain brightness, according to fixed standards of measurement. It is bright because it is relatively near us, or is it simply precisely so bright intrinsically?

Take, for example, a comparison between Sirius and Canopus, the two brightest stars in the heavens. The Dog Star is comparatively near; whereas Canopus is extremely remote. Yet Canopus is excessively bright, intrinsically—giving out about 10,000 times as much as our sun.

There is a singular divergence in range between the masses of stars and other qualities of equal importance, such as luminosity, volume and density. No star is more than several hundred times the mass of another; but their luminosities, volumes and densities vary by factors up in the hundreds of millions. Just why this is has not been definitely determined. But the latest researches indicate that these "stellar furnaces," as Adams calls them, are continuously undergoing momentous changes in their interior. And it is believed that the amazing things happening in their interior and the physical conditions present in the stars are responsible for these variations of all sorts.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

It is as hard to find real personalities nowadays as to find real gin. Everything's synthetic.

Look us over. Watch us do our "stuff". We have assembled that stuff as deliberately as we assembled our spring wardrobes. Here's a gesture from Smith—and a wise crack from Jones—and a slick mannerism from White. Somebody puts on a snappy bit in the new Revue and we think what a bang it would be, down at the office. Promptly we snitch it and make it our own. Greta Garbo's husky voice breaks passionately from the film—Rudy's crooning cuddles us across the air—and we watch Ethel Barrymore emoting over a six-inch handkerchief. Whereupon our own bronchial tubes go Garbo, we get hotsy-totsy with our own hankies and, at the very first opportunity, croon like a calliope. A quirk of the finger, a flip of the knee, a lisp or a yawn will sweep across this country like an epidemic. If Ramon Navarro had his ears clipped tomorrow morning, the nation would be that way within a week.

Nor is that all. We not only assemble intonations, mannerisms and gestures, but we also borrow and grab our thoughts and attitudes. If Menken gets off one of his Bright Ones about American Morons, we all decide to give Main Street the dog eye. If Will Rogers mentions the Dear Old Ranch in Oklahoma, we all go Home Town with Bill. So we shop about for the latest, most popular idea—with the result that most of us have about as much individuality as a wad of gum.

Back of this there lies, of course, a real need. Personality is as vital to success in life as eyes and ears, arms and legs. The human without a personality becomes a helpless cog in the ruthless mechanism of twentieth century life. So we struggle feverishly to acquire a "line." But synthetic personalities can never help us, for they are only masks—and everybody knows they are masks.

Do not try to acquire a line. Create your own. You have all the makin's. You are actually as different from the rest of the world as Greta Garbo or Ethel Barrymore or Will Rogers. You may not be different in the same way, but your differentness is just as unique as theirs and may be just as compelling. They are forceful not because they speak or move or think in a certain way, but because, whatever they do, THEY ARE THEMSELVES. And so, whatever they do, however trivial, bears the imprint of their living spirits—and is as distinct from counterfeits as the fragrance of a blooming rose is distinct from bottled perfume.

Be YOURSELF—yr ? honest self. Never mind if you're limited and obscure and a bit dull. Remember that, whatever you are, you are different from anybody else, and that that difference is your chief treasure. Express that difference in your own way. Then no matter how simple your personality, it will be a RARE ORIGINAL.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

YOU KNOW IDAHO potatoes. I reckon Jim Hill invented Idaho potatoes, but I ain't so sure but what it was a Higher Power even than Jim that done it.

Well, Idaho potatoes are big, besides being good to eat. I heard about a farmer from Connecticut that went out to Idaho to live. He went out there because he was told by the real estate man all about the big potatoes and the chances there is in Idaho for a farmer.

This Connecticut man came to his real estate agent with a long face at the end of the first year.

"I wisht you'd sell my farm for me," he says.

"Sure. But I'm surprised. Wasn't crops good this year?"

"Yes, I reckon the crops was all right."

"Didn't you have potatoes twice as big as any you ever seen before?"

"Yes. But I come out here to farm."

"Well, what about it?"

"Where in thunderation do you reckon I'm going to get the little potatoes to feed to the pigs? Import 'em?"

Looking Ahead

In a world where most folks must earn their bread
To live in tomorrow, just looking ahead,
May never be right,
Yet I still delight
In thoughts of the road which I hope to tread.

And each morn when the sunrise paints the hills
And over the world its glory spills,
Something seems to say:
"Here's a whole new day
That men may fashion to meet their wills!"

And ever and ever, shining on,
Stretches day after day and dawn after dawn,
In a crystal chain
Down the future's plain,
Each fairer than all the days that are gone!

So in spite of all that the wise have said,
By this urge in my soul I am often led
To leave today
When its hours are gray,
And to feed my spirit by looking ahead!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Any follower of either school may attach more or less importance to the variational drive, or conversely, to the action of natural selection, and Orthogenesis may be used to account for more or less, or none, of the changes that have occurred.

In a world of earnest workers these various shades and blending of opinion are hotly debated; biologists can be as sensitive to heresy as theologians or any other sort of men in deadly earnest, and it is quite easy for dull-minded or dishonest controversialists delving in the literature of the subject to clip out such phrases as that "Darwin has been disposed of," or that "natural selection is inadequate," and pretend that a conviction or refutation in some particular is an absolute reversal of view.

H. G. Wells

But, indeed, no such collapse has occurred. Difficulties in "accounting for" variation are minor difficulties in face of the invincible facts of the evolutionary process. Every day the form and detail of evolution, the life process, are seen more clearly, solidly, certainly and coherently.

The general method of evolution is through the natural selection of variations, whatever the causes of variation may be and in spite of any processes of differentiation that may occur independently of survival value.

We need scarcely point out to the interested reader how temperamental disposition and philosophical and moral preoccupations may dispose men's minds toward one or the other of the three types of opinion.

This possibility gives this branch of our subject an interest and excitement far beyond the strictly biological field. There is something cold and stern, very attractive to a certain hard, clear type of mind, in the Neo-Darwinian attitude. There is something heroic in the obstinate advance of Orthogenesis.

The Leo-Lamarckian view appeals most to those combatant spirits who would figure man in a Promethean and finally hopeful conflict with the universe; again the mystic and the believer in a continually directive divinity inclined very naturally toward the hidden upward urgency of the clan vital.

For him it becomes the finger of God. It is a return towards the idea of creation, as Bergson's popular and attractive phrase "creative evolution" reminds us.

There remains one other temperamental type which has found expression in these discussions, and that is the brilliant skeptic as typified by the late Professor William Bateson. He accepted the fact of evolution, if only on the palaeontological evidence, but, as the outcome of a life spent largely in the study of variation and especially of Mendelism, he developed an increasing inability to satisfy himself how any progressive variation could ever occur.

He crowned his scientific career by various lectures and addresses, in which he reiterated his imaginative failure. This type of agnosticism was probably the negative aspect of a passionate and unquestioning faith in the implacable unteachableness and integrity of certain Mendelian units of heredity we shall presently describe and discuss; later work, however, has removed much of the point of his criticisms.

Sec. 2. Method of Treatment.

The threefold author of this work must admit that the writing and arrangement of this book has cost him more trouble and effort than any other portion of the undertaking.

A word about his difficulties may be of help to the reader who is steadily following this exposition of the Science of Life and who has now to read what has been so painfully written.

The broad facts and the consequences of inheritance are of universal interest; the minute study of the mechanism of individual development and variation is, on the other hand, very obscure, outside every-day experience, and can easily be made very complicated.

Yet the broad questions we have posed in the previous section are only to be grasped soundly after the nature and bearing of this minute mechanism has been understood.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Bowery's curling economic question mark—the breadline—is thinning now that warm weather has arrived. Thousands of the shuffling figures who clotted at mission doors at dusk for hot coffee and a free flop have taken to the open road and back door handout.

One of the distinguishing features of the breadline to me was that almost invariably the members wore caps. You rarely saw a hat. The cap becomes a badge of the down-and-outer. The missions are frankly conscious the breadline is composed chiefly of professional floaters.

The floater is the vagabond without charm or romance. He does not want a job nor is he interested in nightly services, save for the material rewards of food and lodging. Yet no floater is turned away. Once in a while there is a conversion and a regeneration.

The mission superintendents themselves are paragons of patience. Many have been down and outers and often criminals before "they saw the light." They believe if they were able to turn from wicked paths into respectability there is hope for all.

Nightly they exhort, play and call mourners to the bench. Sometimes half the audience is in an alcoholic haze, snoring loudly through the services, but there seems to be no such word as discouragement in the lexicon of the mission worker. They carry on against overwhelming difficulties.

The chronic bum drifts from one mission to another through the winter months. The only impediment to his freedom is he must be in the sawdust carpeted flop room by 9 p. m. Regulars in the breadline have frequently mingled together for years yet rarely know each other by real name.

Among the submerged, pasts are never discussed. Men acquire such names as "Red," "Slim," "Patty" and the like and thus are known to their fellows. Sentiment has long since congealed. Each is strictly for himself. Conversation is restricted to monosyllables.

In a Bowery doorway Lisle Bell and I once saw an example of down and out sympathy. A forlorn fellow was waiting the ambulance after a fall down subway stairs. A buddy, leaning over him, consoled rather tenderly but bitterly: "Even if you croak, you won't be worse off."

The two most opulent facades on Fifth avenue these days are those of beauty parlors. One in color contrasts of black, white and red and the other in beige sandstone inset with black plaques. Farther up the avenue this fall will be one of pure white marble and too utterly uptown for a window display.

The directeur generale of one palace of pulchritude is a pompous fellow with a sharply pointed beard like a rubicund figure out of a Dutch painting. Patrons are seated in Chippendale chairs while waiting to interview the grand seigneur. He is the personification of old world charm and his job is to make patrons feel it a privilege to be served there. He accomplishes it with magnificent gusto.

Beauty culture doubtless has merits—look at the lady whose initials are P. J.—yet in the hands of bunglers becomes a ghastly thing. New York has three formerly beautiful women symbolizing the frightful danger. They go everywhere in public heavily veiled.

One of the veiled unfortunates used to visit the Montmartre night club. From time to time she lifted the veil for a quick puff of a cigaret. Although she sat in an obscure corner every eye seemed constantly on her. Nothing offers such a touch of mystery as a veiled woman.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"It's the older fellows who have the most to say about what they term the 'fast clip at which the girls are traveling' now-a-days," a young girl was heard to remark.

"The old fellows also criticize short dresses and other styles followed by girls, but the young men don't think anything about it," she continued.

All of which is a lot of truth, for young fellows have never known any other style than short skirts and abbreviated clothing in general.

You old fellows never saw anything strange and unusual in the low necks and short sleeves and high busts and bustles of yesteryear, while the young folk of today consider those styles vulgar.

Many of the things you and the girls did in the dim past in your crowd were talked about as shocking by the fathers and mothers and older people of that time.

They thought you were on the way to perdition and you heard about the same sort of remarks all along the line about "the daring of the youth" of that day.

But you married one of the so-called daring girls and found her sweet and wholesome and a good wife and excellent mother and the girls of today are as fine and womanly.

Maybe if your minds were pure, you old codgers, you might have a higher regard for the capable, fine principled above-board girl of today.
